MELLON TERMS U. S. TAX ACTION CRUDE POLITICS

Avers He Welcomes Day in Court.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, tonight characterized the action of Attorney General Cummings in authorizing a grand jury investigation of the former cabinet member's income tax affairs as "politics of the crudest sort."

Mellon's statement was issued soon after it became known that justice department officials would institute criminal proceedings soon against more than a score of other alleged income tax evaders.

Cummings last night authorized proceedings against James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, Thomas S. Lamont of J. P. Morgan's banking house, and Thomas Sidlo, Cleveland attorney, as well as Mellon.

Headed by Assistant Attorney General Frank J. Wideman, fifty lawyers in the justice department's tax division are working in cooperation with treasury attorneys in preparing new cases.

The 73 year old former cabinet officer and ambassador to the Court of St. James's gave reporters a thousand word statement. His only comment was: "Please don't add any frills."

Mellon's Statement.

His statement in full:

"The action which the attorney general has taken in seeking to secure an indictment against me on the charge of income tax evasion is politics of the crudest sort.

"I am as much in the dark as any one as to any possible grounds he could have for such action, but I am glad, under any circumstances, to get my tax affairs out of the attorney general's office and into the court, where I am satisfied I shall get justice and a prompt disposition of the case, which has so far been denied me.

"No charges have ever been made by the treasury of any tax evasion by me, nor have I been advised by either the treasury or the department of justice of any intention to try to collect additional taxes from me.

Pays Over $20,000,000.

"All income taxes which have ever been assessed against me have been paid, and in no single year have I failed to pay a very substantial income tax. The total has amounted in the last 20 years to over twenty million dollars.

"I feel very strongly that before the attorney general of the United States should bring a charge of this kind against me I, like any other citizen, should be given proper notice in the manner provided by law of the government's intention to assess additional taxes and should have been afforded an opportunity to meet such charges in the customary way.

"In all my years of experience in the administration of the tax laws I have never known of a single instance in which such unfair and arbitrary action has been taken.

Refers to Former Charges.

"In May of last year charges were made by Congressman McFadden from the floor of the house of representatives, based on information furnished by a man named Olson, regarding what was termed 'a specific tax evasion' in connection with my 1931 income tax return. The attorney general announced to the press at the time that he would investigate these charges and I requested that he do so at once, offering the fullest cooperation.

"Nothing was done until October and November, when three agents of the department of justice visited my office in Pittsburgh and spent several weeks going over my books and records. At the conclusion of their investigation they expressed themselves satisfied with the cooperation they had received, and stated that they had found no irregularities of any kind.

Says Letters Unanswered.

"Their report lay before the department of justice for weeks and, as no action was taken, I wrote the attorney general on Dec. 7 asking for a prompt and final disposition of the matter, in view of the publicity given the charges last summer and their continued reiteration in the press. The attorney general not doing me the

SIR MARMION

Well was he armed from head to heel,
In mail and plate of Milan steel;
But his strong helm, of mighty cost,
Was all with burnished gold embossed.
Amid the plumage of the crest
A falcon hovered on her nest,
With wings outspread and forward breast;
E'en such a falcon, on his shield,
Soared sable in an azure field;
The golden legend bore aright,
"Who checks at me, to death is dight."
Blue was the charger's broidered rein;

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Margaret Illington, noted dramatic actress of two decades ago, died today in Miami Beach, Fla. News of her death was received from her husband, Maj. Edward Bowes, managing director of the Capitol theater on Broadway. He had been at her bedside since last Tuesday, when her illness became critical.

Miss Illington was 52 years old. Her first husband was Daniel Frohman, theatrical producer. She obtained a divorce in Reno in 1909 and married Maj. Bowes, who was then a business man of San Francisco and Tacoma. He managed her stage appearance until she retired a dozen years ago.

Born in Illinois.

Miss Illington was born on July 3, 1881, in Bloomington, Ill., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Light. When she began a stage career she dropped her name of Maude Light and adopted that of Margaret Illington—a combination of Illinois and Bloomington. Her first stage appearance was in 1900, when she played the part of Michel in the "Pride of Jennico."

She was a pupil for two years at Conway's dramatic school in Chicago, where she won the Jefferson diamond medal for Shakespearean work, and then came to New York, where Frohman immediately engaged her to appear in his productions.

Engaged by Sothern.

Following minor successes in 1901 and 1903 here, she went to Richmond, Va., where she appeared in stock and was then engaged by E. H. Sothern to appear with him in his famous "If I Were King."

She returned to the Broadway stage late in 1903 as Yuki in "A Japanese Nightingale."

Playing Shakespearean and other dramatic roles she toured the country for many years, appearing as Maggie in "Kindling," and Juliet in "Romeo and Juliet."

She toured for a time in 1913-14 as Mary Turner in "Within the Law," a hit of those days.

Her last Broadway appearance of record was as Ruth Brant in "A Good Bad Woman," in 1919.

Denver, Colo., March 11.—(AP)—Elmer Gilless' cow fainted today and as a result Gilless went to a hospital with a fractured right shoulder and leg. Gilless was milking when the fainting occurred. The beast landed on him. A veterinarian said the cow's unusual illness had him mystified. It is the only fainting cow with which he has had any experience.

POPULATION OF U. S. GAINS 797,000 IN 1933, REPORT SHOWS

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Gain in the population of the United States last year was estimated today at 797,000 in a report of the Scripps Foundation for Research in Population Problems.

The population on Jan. 1, 1934, totaled 126,144,000, the report estimated, with the .6 per cent gain lower than any year except two since 1870.

If population growth continues to become smaller as rapidly as during the last decade, the foundation said, it will cease entirely about 1940, when the country will have less than 130 million inhabitants.

The foundation figured births in 1933 at 2,268,000, a total 110,000 lower than in 1932 and below any year since 1900. Deaths of 1,412,000 were about equal to a 25 year average.

Departures from the United States exceeded arrivals by 41,000 last year, compared with 168,000 in 1932.

NEW JAP TORPEDO BOAT DAMAGED; FEAR MANY DEAD

TOKIO, March 12 [Monday].—(AP)—The navy office announced today that the new Japanese torpedo boat Tomozuru, missing since early morning, had been found off the Sasebo naval base "badly damaged and drifting, many of her crew believed drowned." It was added: "Rescue efforts are proceeding."

Contact was lost with the Omozuru, a 527 ton vessel, during maneuvers off Sasebo early today. The boat is understood to have carried between 70 and 80 officers and men. The vessel is a new type and was completed on Feb. 26 this year.

WOMAN FELLS PROWLER WITH HIS OWN JIMMY

Hyde Park police received an emergency call last night to go to the third floor of 5209 Harper avenue. Arriving there they found Harry Gardner, 27 years old, 1129 East 55th street, lying unconscious on the floor. Standing above him, and holding a small jimmy in her hand, was Mrs. Wilma Sanborn, 25 years old.

"I found this man trying to pry the telephone coin box off the wall outside of my apartment," Mrs. Sanborn told the police. "He pointed this little bar at me, pretending it was a gun, but he couldn't fool me. I hit him with it."

Police revived the unconscious Gardner.

New York Stores to Strike 5 Minutes Over Sales Tax

Talking Book to Give Blind New 'Vision'

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The first talking book, an invention which it is hoped will free thousands of sightless people from the touch method of reading, will be released by the library of congress in April, Robert B. Irwin, executive director of the American Foundation for the Blind, announced today.

Irwin said the talking book is "the most sweeping invention in behalf of the blind since the introduction of Braille 100 years ago."

Free Thousands.

"The talking book will free thousands of blind people from their dependence on the touch method and will enable them to read through the ear," Irwin said.

"Through arrangements with the library of congress talking book libraries will be established throughout the country and the foundation plans to launch a campaign for $150,000 in order to place 5,000 talking machines into the hands of blind people."

The talking book, a combination electric phonograph and radio set, is so compact that it may be carried in a suitcase.

Years of research and contributions by the Carnegie foundation and others made the machine possible, Irwin said.

Books Ready Soon.

By late June the foundation plans to have a number of books on records through the coöperation of the library of congress which are to be loaned free of charge to the blind to whom talking book machines are available.

More than $0,000 blind people in the United States alone, Irwin said, became blind too late in life to master the method of reading through touch or for other reasons found themselves unable to use the touch method.

The first talking book machines available, Irwin said, will be put in the hands of these sightless people.

OFFICIALS BUSY ON PROGRAM TO INSURE 'SAFETY'

Trains Taking Over Transport Work.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—All air mail activities in the United States were halted temporarily today while efforts went forward to devise a new program designed to afford the greatest possible safety to army air pilots.

The drastic action grounding all air mail planes until the "safety" program has been completed was taken in response to President Roosevelt's demand that the killing of army air pilots must stop and that the air mail must be curtailed or stopped until all safety precautions had been taken. Ten pilots have been killed in the three weeks the army has carried the air mail.

Although the postoffice and war department officials labored most of Saturday night and all day today to prepare the new program, it was conceded late this afternoon that it would not be ready for another 12 hours at the earliest.

Trains Carrying Mail.

Postal matter stamped for air mail deliveries was being carried by trains today and tonight, and will continue to be so carried until the army has all in readiness to resume service.

Officials declined to state to what extent the new schedules will curtail the air mail service, but it was stated at the army air corps headquarters that the principal routes will be kept in operation. The transcontinental routes, and those to the south will be resumed tomorrow or Tuesday on a reduced schedule, it was indicated.

No information was given as to whether night flights will be halted, but this action was deemed likely, inasmuch as few of the army pilots have been trained in night or "blind" flying.

The complete stoppage of the air mail service was taken in Republican circles as a surrender by the administration to the demands made by Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., Ohio], and others that the entire service be abandoned until army planes can be equipped with safety devices.

Confer All Day Long.

The announcement of the administration's action today was authorized by Second Assistant Postmaster General Harllee Branch after he had conferred most of the day with other officials in the office of Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps.

Mr. Branch revealed that an order had been sent by Gen. Foulois to the three regional commanders in charge of army air mail flying, as follows:

"Suspend immediately all carrying of air mail until your personnel and equipment are in position and ready to initiate the schedules furnished you in radiogram. Report to this office when you are ready to initiate the new schedules, but do not commence any schedule until you have received release from this office. Acknowledge receipt. Immediately notify all local postoffice officials concerned in your zone of temporary suspension of air mail pending further instructions."

New Plan Is Promised.

Mr. Branch said that Gen. Foulois has advised the postoffice department that he expects to submit the new plan of army air mail operation on tomorrow.

It was stated on Gen. Foulois' behalf that under the new program substantially the same equipment will be used, but some safety devices are being installed, and a careful check is being made of personnel to select the most experienced flyers for active flying duty.

In the last three weeks young second lieutenants, barely out of school, with limited flying experience, have been sent up in the ships, while the veteran flyers in the army, who have been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant, captain, and major, have been kept on the ground to give orders to the youngsters. While this was in line with the army's age-old custom which forbids officers of higher rank to carry out assignments, it has now been conceded ruefully by the army officials that in this emergency it was a tragic mistake to hew to this custom.

Lindbergh Leaves Capital.

Congressmen to Vote Today on Bonus Bill

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Advocates of cash payment of the soldiers' bonus tonight confidently predicted passage of the Patman bill by the house tomorrow.

Jubilant over prospects for favorable action despite President Roosevelt's announced intention to veto the bill, the bi-partisan group of a hundred or more decided to support without change the Patman bill to pay the bonus in United States notes.

After a two hour closed meeting Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], who will lead the fight for passage tomorrow, announced:

"We feel confident we will get much more than a majority vote of the house."

Patman to Make Passage.

The first vote tomorrow will come on a motion by Patman to discharge the ways and means committee from consideration of his measure, which would authorize issuance of $2,200,000,000 in notes for immediate payment of the bonus certificates, which ordinarily would mature in 1945.

It requires a majority vote to adopt his motion. Debate will be limited to ten minutes each for the opponents and proponents. Adoption would bring the bill before the house for immediate consideration, debate to be limited to one hour. Then a final vote on passage would follow.

Although an amendment by Representative Frank Hancock [Dem., N. C.] to permit the bonus to be paid under the authority of the Thomas amendment to the farm adjustment act was considered, the meeting today rejected it in favor of the Patman bill as it stands.

Satisfied with Bill.

"Those of us who met and who are in sympathy with this legislation," Patman announced, "decided that no improvement could be made on the bill, which was drafted by the legislative drafting service."

Patman said the veterans' administration and the treasury had informed him that the administrative provisions of the measure were satisfactory. He added:

"We are satisfied that this legislation provides no better plan of payment. It provides that the United States notes issued be kept on a parity with all other moneys and all gold in the treasury is placed behind it, as all gold in the treasury is behind all other currency."

Democratic and Republican house leaders meantime passed the word that the bonus was not a party issue, and indications were that the vote would be split. Party chieftains conceded the bonus probably would pass, but pointed out that since the senate defeated the proposal as a rider to the independent officers' bill it probably would die there.

BANDITS TIE TWO WOMEN; STEAL SAFE AND $3,000

Four bandits tied up two women and held them prisoners in their home for a half hour last night and then walked out with a small iron safe containing $3,000 in cash and $2,000 in checks.

The women were Mrs. Mary Battaglin, 45 years old, and Miss Mary Battaglin, 25, her daughter, both of 321 Kensington avenue. The Battaglin family owns a market and grocery on the first floor at that address. The money and checks stolen represented store receipts.

The gunmen entered the Battaglin home by knocking on the door and rushing in when the door was opened. They tied the mother and daughter and pushed them into a small room. One man guarded them and the three others ransacked the house until they found the safe.

GREEN REVEALS U. S. PLANS FOR INSULL ARREST

Marshals to Await Arrival of Ship.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green announced plans last night for the arrest of Samuel Insull, fugitive utility magnate, as soon as he reaches the shore of this country, from which he fled nearly two years ago to seek refuge in Europe.

DWIGHT H. GREEN.

The announcement was prompted by news dispatches from Athens, Greece, indicating that the one time wealthy Chicagoan had given up his flight to remain in exile and would probably leave Greece some time this week en route to the United States.

Ever since Insull fled to seek the shelter of a foreign government Mr. Green and his staf have been active in their efforts to bring him back to face criminal charges growing out of the collapse of the vast utility structure which he headed and the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars to investors.

Prepare for Prosecution.

Now that apparent assurance has been received that Insull will return in lieu of anywhere else to go, preparations for the impending hearing of charges against him are going forward under a new impetus.

The moment the fugitive, who is 74 years old, sets foot on the shores of this country he will be arrested, Mr. Green said last night. United States marshals will be ready to take him into custody at any port of the nation at which his ship docks.

"I will forward to the place where he lands the return of the marshal on the warant issued here for his arrest," said Mr. Green. "A witness will also be sent from Chicago to identify him as the defendant referred to in the warrant. The authorities in whose jurisdiction the port is located will take him in custody and hold him for instructions from here.

U. S. Ready for Trial.

"If Insull waives removal to Chicago from the seaport he will be brought here immediately. If he does not waive, then removal proceedings will have to be instituted in the federal court. He will be arraigned for trial as soon as he is brought into the jurisdiction of the court of this district. We are ready for trial now and will proceed without delay."

In response to a query as to whether it would be possible for the financier to transfer from one ship to another and escape return here, Mr. Green said that if Insull tries to leave a ship in the port of another country he would immediately ask that country to hold him for extradition to the United States. He pointed out that the only remaining course, a transfer to another ship at sea, would entail the placing of full responsibility for the act on the shoulders of the ship's captain, who would in turn have to answer to his government.

The deposed utilities king faces criminal charges here in both state and federal courts, as well as investors' suits for many millions which are pending in the civil courts.

State and Federal Indictments.

In the state court indictments were returned charging embezzlement, larceny, and larceny by bailee, which grew out of the crash of the vast financial bubble. In the federal court two indictments were returned. One charged the use of the mails in a scheme to defraud in connection with the mailing of information to stockholders, while the second charged Insull with transferring property for the purpose of defeating the federal bankruptcy act.

Mr. Green said the defendant probably would be tried first on the mail fraud charge, because that indictment was returned and the case prepared first.

At one time it was planned to try the defendant on the bankruptcy charge, if removal proceedings had been successful, because the law provides that a person may be tried only on the charge on which he is extradited. Using the mails in a scheme to defraud is not an extraditable charge, while the bankruptcy violation is considered extraditable.

Mr. Green observed that for this reason the government is at a distinct advantage in having Insull return here as a result of expulsion by Greece, instead of under extradition, because it will be possible to prosecute him on all of the charges now pending against him instead of merely the one set forth in the extradition warant.

According to some reports Martin Insull, brother of Samuel, who fled to Canada when he was indicted, and has since fought extradition on state charges, will also return here and join his brother in a family fight against the law. It is said he is watching the situation closely and may act as soon as his brother reaches this country. Martin is now living in Orillia, Ont., not far from Toronto.

OUSTER EDICT STANDS

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 11.—Reiterated assertions that Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities promoter, will be forced to quit Greece within the new time limit, which expires Friday morning, were made tonight by Minister of Interior John Moundjourides. He declared the order would be enforced, even if Insull were compelled to leave on foot or on a stretcher.

"This is the final notice," Moundjourides said. "Insull will be compelled to leave Greece at the expiration of his new time limit. I don't care how he goes, but he must go."

Must Go, Minister's Order.

"But if he is unable to leave for another country, and good transportation to the United States is not available between now and Friday morning, what will the Greek government do?" the minister was asked.

"I don't care where or how he goes," he replied. "Even if he has to walk or be carried away, Insull must be outside of Greece by Friday."

Moundjourides added that it is news to him if Insull is planning to return to Chicago, but there are good governmental reasons for ignoring such a plan. Since the Greek courts have twice refused to grant extradition as demanded by the American government the cabinet here is anxious to avoid any action likely to be interpreted as an invasion of judicial authority. This would be possible if the expulsion order compelled the 74 year old fugitive to return to the United States.

Plans Kept Secret.

The papers today are full of reports that Insull is planning to go either to the tiny state of Liechtenstein or to Luxembourg. Since neither can be reached without passing through Jugo-Slavia, except by tortuous travel, and since no application has been made up to a late hour tonight for a Serbian visa, the reports are questionable.

Whatever plans Insull has made are a close secret. Mrs. Insull is repeatedly reported to be out, and Mme. Helene Kouryoumdjoglou, Insull's intimate friend and professed hostess, flatly refused today to talk.

The liner Statendam leaves Athens Thursday. The ship is bound for the United States, but is on an extended cruise. A trip such as this would give the weary Insull a chance to recover his health before he lands in America. There is a possibility Greek authorities will put him on this vessel.

Insull's plans to sail for the United States aboard the Aquitania March 20 evidently received a setback by the Athens government's decision to oust him by Friday.

Had Booked Passage.

Insull had booked passage for three —himself, his wife, and a maid—on the Aquitania.

It was learned that Insull received the formal notification of his fifth expulsion order today without any emotion, which isn't altogether surprising considering that he has undergone the experience before.

Doctor's Summer Cottage Looted; Loss Is $2,000

Dr. Robert H. Hayes, 1166 Wilson avenue, a physician with an office at 185 North Wabash avenue, yesterday discovered that burglars had broken into his cottage on Druce's lake, ten miles west of Waukegan, taking articles valued at $2,000. The loot included clothing, shotguns, fishing tackle, and three sets of silverware, one set an heirloom 150 years old, which Mrs. Hayes received from her mother.

Find Bodies of Two Girls, Gone 4 Days, in Swamp

Salem, Ore., March 11.—(AP)—Bodies of Betty Savage, 12, and Annabel Tooley, 9, missing since Thursday, were found today in Minto slough, southwest of Salem. The bodies were recovered from 16 feet of water near a log from which the girls apparently fell while flower picking. Hundreds had joined the search.

HOLD PRACTICE FOR 2D EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE

Plans for the second Easter sunrise service to be held April 1 at Soldiers' field got under way yesterday, when the first choir practice, under the direction of T. J. Bittikofer of the Moody Bible institute, was held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Representatives from Protestant and Salvation Army choirs all over the city were present.

The Easter service, which was attended by 25,000 persons last year in the court of the Hall of Science at the Fair, is sponsored by 20 young people's church organizations of Chicago and the suburbs. The program, beginning at 6:30 a. m., will consist of responsive readings from the Scriptural accounts of Jesus' trial, crucifixion, and resurrection; band numbers, hymns, and selections by a choir of at least 3,000 voices, according to Harry G. Saulnier, chairman of the project.

Michael Piotrowski, 37 years old, who was shot by bandits at the rear of his home at 5329 Ainslie street, died of his wounds last night at the Belmont hospital. Two of the robbers, Joseph Molinowski, 21 years old, 2127 North Damen avenue, and Alexander Delaney, 32 years old, 2911 Lowell avenue, were shot and wounded by a bodyguard Piotrowski engaged to accompany him home from his butcher shop with the Saturday receipts. Five men and two girls were named by the wounded holdup men and were arrested at their homes yesterday for a showup. The girls are Irene Becker, 18 years old, 2657 North Major avenue, and Charlotte Zachachi, 18, of 6464 Milwaukee avenue.

STRIKE IS ORDERED IN TWO PLANTS OF KROEHLER COMPANY

One thousand workers employed in the furniture plants of the Kroehler Manufacturing company at Naperville and Kankakee, were ordered yesterday by their unions to go on strike this morning at 6 o'clock. They are demanding wage increases ranging from 47 to 91 per cent, which company officials have refused to grant.

The men and women involved in the walkout—460 at Naperville and 540 at Kankakee—have been receiving a base rate of 34 cents an hour for piece work. The millhands and upholsterers are asking 65 and 75 cents an hour, depending on the machines they operate, and seamstresses want their base rate increased to 55 cents an hour.

"We turned down the demands because it would be impossible for the company to raise wages without raising the price of our products," said D. L. Kroehler, vice president of the concern and son of Peter Kroehler, the president. "In the south the base rate for this type of labor is 30 cents and in the north 34 cents which is what we've been paying though many of our employés make 75 cents an hour on piece work.

"We have kept our factories open to give employment to our regular workers even when we were operating at a loss. During the 40 years we've been in business we never signed an agreement with a union and I see no need for doing so now."

RUSH EXPECTED AS INCOME TAX DEADLINE NEARS

The lines of taxpayers filing their income tax returns are steadily increasing as the deadline on midnight of March 15 draws closer, it was reported yesterday by Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue.

Last year 4,920,608 income tax returns were filed between Jan. 1 and March 15, which established an average of more than 67,000 returns a day. But despite the ability of the bureau to care for such a flow, officials of the department expressed fear that belated returns would cause much congestion during the next few days.

THE TRIBUNE public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower are daily giving free expert advice to hundreds of taxpayers. In view of numerous inquiries, Commissioner Helvering reiterated that returns must be filed by any single person who had a net income of $1,000 or more or a gross income of $5,000 or more, and any married couple who had a net income of $2,500 or more or a gross income of $5,000 or more, regardless of whether they are exempt from the actual payment of a tax.

Fire Razes Big Eastern Dairy; Loss Is $100,000

Bethlehem, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—Fire tonight destroyed the dairy of Green Pond farms between Bethlehem and Easton with a loss estimated at $100,000. Between 60 and 70 head of registered dairy cattle died.

NATION'S HOME OWNERS GOING IN DEBT TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.] — Continuing to push plans which make millions of American citizens financially dependent upon the federal government, the New Deal will have one out of every seven home owners in the country in debt to the government before it completes its four billion 400 million dollar mortgage refinancing plan.

Out of the 14 million home owners in the country, official reports showed today, approximately 2,157,000 will find their mortgages in the hands of the Home Owners Loan corporation or the Farm Credit Administration at the present rate of mortgage refinancing being carried on by those agencies.

Increases U. S. Dependents.

With the 21½ million people who are already on the federal pay roll or who are drawing loans from the treasury, the 2 million home owners and their families will go to swell the total of those dependent on federal cash to unprecedented totals.

Already 223,933 persons who own their homes in the city or on a farm have Uncle Sam for their mortgagee holder. Only slightly more than one-tenth of the money which congress has appropriated for federal acquisition of mortgages has been used thus far, and the government's holdings of private mortgages are due to multiply ten times over.

Substitutes Private Lending.

Although the mortgage relief programs launched through the HOLC and FCA are to prevent distress, eviction, and foreclosures, they are also bringing with them a substitution of the government for private lenders. Already one out of every 82 home owners is a government debtor, official records reveal.

Urban home owners and farmers having mortgage difficulties are free to apply to the HOLC or FCA for aid. If arrangements can be made, these agencies will trade one of their bonds or a cash settlement for the mortgage which the home owner is having trouble sustaining. The mortgage, swapped for a bond, passes from the hands of the private holder to the hands of the government.

118,939 Farms on Rolls.

Already 118,939 farmers have arranged to have their mortgages transferred from private hands to government vaults, records of the Farm Credit Administration show. These transactions have cost the FCA thus far only 189 million dollars in cash and bonds which have been swapped for the mortgages.

With 2 billion 200 million originally appropriated to it for farm mortgage refinancing, the FCA, at its present rate of lending, will have acquired about 1,380,000 farm mortgages before its whole fund is spent.

Since census records show that there are only about 3,498,700 farm homes which are lived in by their owners, the FCA will at the completion of its program be the mortgagor of two out of every five farm home owners. It already holds the mortgage of one out of every 29 farmers who owns his own home.

Bars Rented Houses.

No mortgage relief is being given to home owners, either in the cities or on the farms who do not live in their own homes. Rented properties are not eligible for federal aid under the terms of law. Some 2,968,300 farm homes which are rented and 12,351,600 rented city homes are thus excluded from the terms "home owners" and from the scope of federal refinancing.

In the cities, the HOLC has made slower headway than the FCA on farms but has spent more money. Since it was formed last summer, the HOLC has arranged to take over 104,994 city home mortgages at a cost of 295 million dollars in cash and bonds, according to its reports. This makes it the mortgage holder for about one out of every hundred of the 10,503,400 city dwellers who own and live in their homes.

With more than a tenth of their money already spent the HOLC, at its present rate, will have acquired only 776,955 mortgages before its resources give out. This would give it control of the mortgage on one out of every 13 city homes dwelt in by its owner.

Widow of Daiches in Genoa Knows No Clew in Murder

A setback was received yesterday by authorities in their efforts to solve the murder of Eli Daiches, advertising agency president, who was slain by shotgun assassins March 3, when they learned that the widow, Belle, had told a newspaper man at Genoa, Italy, that she could give no clew to possible enemies of her husband. Mrs. Daiches was in Palestine when the slaying occurred and is on her way to New York on the liner Roma. The widow will be on hand before the inquest hearing is resumed March 27, and Assistant State's Attorney Regan said last night she would be questioned immediately upon her arrival.

ROOSEVELT ENJOYS MOTOR CAR RIDE ON SNOW COVERED ROADS

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Crisp, sunshiny winter weather lured President Roosevelt from the White House today for his first motor outing in weeks.

Accompanied by two of his secretaries, Miss Margaret Leland and Miss Paula Tully, the President set out for a ride in a closed car over the snow surfaced highways of the nearby countryside.

Mrs. Roosevelt is away on a survey of conditions in Porto Rico.

GRILL EX-CONVICT ON SWINDLE RING IN THREE CITIES

New Racket Is Discovered After Hotel Thefts.

Police were trying last night to solve the mystery surrounding William A. Porter, paroled Michigan convict, who is being held in connection with the suspected operation of a syndicate of Michigan ex-convicts specializing in a new swindle.

Almost as interesting to police as the racket is Porter himself. He is 28 years old, personable and well mannered. He has denied any wrong doing since his release. From letters found in his possession, the police are satisfied that he has had recent contact with an official of the Michigan state prison at Jackson, and that, in the past, he has had powerful political influences working in his behalf. These influences, police believe, originated in Texas, his home state.

Accused of Forgery.

Porter was arrested Thursday on charges of forgery and confidence game in the Lancaster hotel, 944 Leland avenue, of which he was manager. According to Lieut. Edward Kelly of the detective bureau, Porter became manager of the hotel shortly after his parole from the Jackson prison three months ago.

Since then, Lieut. Kelly charged, Porter has met a number of old prison friends, paroled Michigan convicts, some of whom he harbored in the hotel while they robbed resident guests. Their practice, the lieutenant said, was to rifle a room and steal personal and identification papers of a certain guest. They would then, he said, write this guest's name on worthless stock, and by further forgery, put up this stock as collateral for loans.

The operators of this swindle, Lieut. Kelly charged, are believed to have their main headquarters in Detroit and another headquarters in Los Angeles. Arrests are expected to be made in both those cities. Lieut. Kelly asserted the belief that certain percentages of fraudulent loans obtained in the racket were remitted to the head of the group in Detroit.

Has Strong Connections.

Porter was questioned at length yesterday by Lieut. Kelly and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, but revealed little. At the end of the examination Chief Schoemaker said he believed Porter's connections "were strong."

Porter, the records show, was sentenced to the Jackson prison from Detroit in 1926 for 12½ to 25 years for an attempted bank robbery. He served seven years, and was paroled three months ago.

"Porter has big connections," charged Lieut. Kelly. "There was a senator and other 'big shots' fronting for him in 1926. However, Porter went to prison. He was almost immediately made a trusty. Not long afterward he was made head of the prison's bureau of identification. Then he became the warden's chauffeur."

Letters from Prison Official.

When Porter was arrested, Lieut. Kelly found in his possession several letters written to him within the last three months by an official of the Jackson prison. These letters, Lieut. Kelly asserted, contained what might be considered prison secrets, telling where certain paroled prisoners were and what prisoners were to be paroled. Thus, Lieut. Kelly said, Porter could get in touch with some of these men or relay the information elsewhere.

Porter said his father, now dead, was a contractor and railroad builder in Texas, and that his mother now lives in Texarkana.

THRONGS HONOR CERMAK IN MEMORIAL SERVICE

Crowds yesterday in front of the Cermak home, 2348 Millard avenue, participating in memorial services held at the home and at the Bohemian National cemetery tomb of the late mayor, who died March 6, 1933, the victim of an assassin's bullet. A plaque was unveiled at the home. Public officials participated in the ceremonies.

PRISONERS RIOT AS SHORT CIRCUIT PUTS TOWN IN DARKNESS

New Haven, Conn., March 11.—(AP)—Rioting broke out tonight in the county jail as city streets, homes, and business houses in the New Haven area were thrown into darkness by a short circuit in the plant of the United Illuminating company.

Light and power service throughout New Haven and the surrounding towns was disrupted at 6:42 p. m.—just three minutes before 227 inmates at the jail were to be locked up after their exercise period.

Still free in the corridors, the prisoners shouted and screamed in the darkness as guards attempted to restore order.

"It was pitch dark," said Sherif Geddes. "Some one set fire to a mattress. The men were milling about and yelling 'Fire!' It was nervous excitement."

Sherif Geddes said it was impossible to quiet the men until the lights went on again about 8:10 p. m. Then, he said, the men returned quietly to their cells.

BANK OFFICIAL KILLED BY AUTO EXHAUST FUMES

Arthur H. Hansen, 65 years old, 9123 Exchange avenue, vice president of the South Chicago Savings bank, was accidentally killed by carbon monoxide fumes yesterday while he was repairing his automobile in a private garage in the rear of 3022 East 92d street.

Mr. Hansen went to the garage at 1:30 dressed in overalls and other working clothes. He was found dead at 5 o'clock by Robert Cunningham, 3022 East 92d street. Firemen were called and they took Mr. Hansen to the South Chicago hospital, using an inhalator on him during the trip. At the hospital Dr. Edward L. Masterson injected methylene blue, a new treatment for monoxide poisoning, and adrenaline, but the treatments failed to revive the banker.

Police investigating the case said Mr. Hansen's death was accidental. The family told them that Mr. Hansen's pet hobby was tinkering with his automobile.

ROBBERS STEAL VISITOR'S SHOES, MONEY AND GEMS

In his bare feet Frank Boland, 35 years old, 6824 Kennedy avenue, Hammond, a road supervisor of Lake county, Ind., walked into the police building at 11th and State streets yesterday to report he had been robbed during the night in a lodging house of personal property valued at $1,400. Warming his feet at a radiator, Boland told his story to Sergt. William Murphy.

"I came to Chicago Saturday to buy a suit," he began. "After I made my purchase I went out for a few drinks. When I awoke this morning I found I had been robbed. The thieves took $180 in cash, an $1,100 diamond ring, a $20 ruby ring, a $50 watch, a $60 overcoat and a pair of shoes worth $10.

"I hurried out of the place, which was a cheap lodging house somewhere around State and Harrison streets. I wore out my socks walking over here."

Last night police arrested Joseph Rogers, 39 years old, 5757 Drexel avenue, and charged him with robbery after a ruby ring, which Boland identified, was found in Rogers' posession.

Steal Automobile as Baby Sleeps on Rear Seat

Omaha, Neb., March 11.—(AP)—While every available police car searched for her, blue eyed 7 months' old Marlene Siford, swathed in blankets on the rear seat of her father's car, tonight slept peacefully through a 90 minute ride with auto thieves. The first hint as to the baby's whereabouts came in an anonymous phone call from a pay station.

U. S. Conciliator Induces Workers Back to Jobs

New Kensington, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—Acting on the advice of a federal conciliator, employés of the Aluminum company of America ended tonight their 10 day "holiday," voting to return to work at once.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Plaque Unveiled

City and state officials yesterday officially observed the first anniversary of the death of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, who died from the effects of an assassin's bullet March 6, 1933. The shot had been aimed at Franklin D. Roosevelt, then President elect, during an address at Miami, Fla.

The ceremonies yesterday were conducted at the tomb in the Bohemian National cemetery and at the Cermak residence at 2348 Millard avenue. Members of the city council placed a wreath on the Cermak tomb. Jaroslaw F. Smetanka, Czechoslavakian consul to Chicago, was the speaker at the cemetery. Attorney General Otto H. Kerner was present.

A plaque showing a likeness of Mayor Cermak bearing the inscription, "I'm Glad It Was Me Instead of You," which was modeled by Jerry Rudolph, sculptor, on the authorization of the city council, was unveiled at the mayor's home as a climax to the ceremonies. Mayor Kelly, County Judge Jarecki, and the Rev. Frank C. Vesely, pastor of St. Procopious church, made short talks.

2 CALIFORNIANS DROWN AS HEAT FILLS BEACHES

San Francisco, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—Two persons drowned and three others were rescued by coast guardsmen as thousands flocked to California beaches today seeking relief from the warm weather.

Dry winds from the desert sent the humidity down to 15 per cent and the temperature up to 90 degrees in the Los Angeles area. The San Francisco temperature was 79, breaking all existing records for March 11.

Joseph Loschiavo, 45 years old, of San Francisco was swept away by a wave while hunting mussels. William Willis, 22 years old, drowned in Malibu lake, near the famous movie beach colony in southern California. He swam out beyond his depth and sank before rescuers could reach him.

NUN, CO-FOUNDER OF DAUGHTERS OF CHARITY, SAINTED

Order 300 Years Old, Has 4,000 Chapters.

VATICAN CITY, March 11.—(AP)—Blessed Luisa De Marillac, co-founder of the Daughters of Charity, today was raised to the sainthood already attributed to her earthly associate, Father Vincent De Paoli, in Vatican ceremonies. St. Luisa died in Paris in 1660 at the age of 69. Pilgrims from many nations thronged to St. Peter's for the ceremonies, over which Pope Pius XI. presided.

The Daughters of Charity, founded by St. Vincent and St. Luisa in Paris in 1633, have 4,000 chapters run by 40,000 nuns in virtually every corner of the earth.

North American chapter houses are in St. Louis and Normandy, Mo., Emmitsburg and Baltimore, Md., Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Santa Barbara, Cal.; Chicago, and New Orleans. There are chapters in Argentina, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Ecuador, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Costa Rica, Honduras, and Guatemala.

Mrs. Bruno Benziger, wife of the New York ecclesiastical publisher, attended the ceremonies representing the New York Ladies' charity. Cardinals Verdier of Paris and Lienart of Lille and Msgr. Emilio Lisson, former archbishop of Lima, were among those present.

The ceremony reached its climax when the pontiff, speaking in Latin, enjoined that blessed Luisa's name be inscribed in the catalog of saints. Choir and congregation then sang a Te Deum and church bells throughout Rome clanged a paean of welcome to the new saint.

Sainta Luisa turned to the church and consecrated her life to charity after the death of her husband, the Chevalier Le Gras, in 1625. Born to a noble Parisian family, she was highly learned in Latin, philosophy, and the arts.

St. Vincent had already formed a committee of noblewomen to relieve the distress of the poor, and after her bereavement St. Luisa made her own home the first chapter of the organization later to be known as the Daughters of Charity.

U. OF I. TRUSTEES MAY DELAY VOTE ON PRESIDENCY

Deny Reports of Politics Entering Selection.

The selection of a new president of the University of Illinois will be made tomorrow if a majority of the trustees can reach an agreement. It was said yesterday that if a majority is not pledged for any one educator the action may be postponed at the meeting, which will be held in Chicago.

Reports that politics may play an important part in the election persisted yesterday despite the denials of Gov. Henry Horner, ex officio member of the board, and the other trustees. Five of the nine trustees are Democrats.

Governor Is Satisfied.

Gov. Horner declared he was satisfied the selection of the president would be made solely on a nonpartisan, merit basis.

"It is an extremely important position in the educational affairs of the state," said Gov. Horner. "It was shown when the Democrats obtained a majority that they weren't playing politics because they elected a Republican, Edward E. Barrett, as president of the board. When the Republicans had a majority no one accused them of playing politics in the selection of other presidents of the university."

Mr. Barrett backed up the governor's statement.

"There are no politics involved in the situation," he asserted. "It is the farthest from our thoughts. We never talk politics on the board."

The field, as far as the university talent is concerned, has narrowed down to four members of the faculty. The candidates are: Dean Charles Manfred Thompson of the college of commerce, a Republican; Prof. Sveinbjorn Johnson, the university's legal counsel, a Democrat; Dean Albert J. Harno of the college of law, and Prof. Arthur Cutts Willard, acting dean of the college of engineering.

60 Others Before Board.

In addition the trustees have before them a list of 60 or more educators from all parts of the country. One trustee said that an agreement might not be reached on the "home talent," and that the whole field might be canvassed over again.

Recently the trustees asked the university senate, composed of members of the faculty of full professorial rank, for an expression of opinion on their four associates. The canvass has been completed, but the results are a closely guarded secret.

Although the lid of secrecy was clamped on the campus and among the trustees themselves, a university professor said privately yesterday that Harno and Willard had led in the faculty tally.

"No Political Lineup."

Two of the Republican trustees, Merle J. Trees of Chicago and George A. Barr of Joliet, asserted that politics was not being played by members of the board.

"There's no truth to the report," said Trees. "There has been no lineup at all. It may be several months before the whole field can be canvassed and a man finally determined upon."

"There is not a particle of politics in it," said Barr, "I don't know how the report could have arisen."

Although the Daily Illini, student newspaper of the university, was maintaining silence, a steady undercurrent of excitement over the election of a new president was said to be manifest among both faculty members and students.

CAR FUMES KILL CONDUCTOR.

August Berg, 30 years old, 2112 South 51st avenue, Cicero, street car conductor, was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas fumes yesterday as he sat at the wheel of his car in his garage at the rear of his home.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

It's Kids' Day on Farm.

March 11.

An amiable nanny goat completely "stole the show" today from the sheep and their baby lambs on THE TRIBUNE'S Kendall county experimental farm. This goat gave birth to triplets, much to the amazement of everybody on the farm. Ernest Henderson has been hustling around to get nursing bottles and rubber nipples because at least one, and possibly two, of the funny little kids will have to be fed by hand. No one on the farm had ever before seen triplets of this kind and everybody is anxious to lend a hand in raising the little fellows.

Considerable progress has been made on preparations for the experimental crops which will be planted here on the farm with the idea of developing products and new methods for midwest farmers. An interesting conference has just been held to discuss these crops. This meeting brought together Dr. James R. Holbert, corn breeding expert of the United States department of agriculture; Dr. Earle Sieveking, crop expert for the Funk brothers farm at Bloomington, Ill.; two of the Funk brothers—Lafayette and Theodore, who specialize on corn breeding and cattle and hog feeding—Clarence Thurow, manager of THE TRIBUNE experimental farm, and Paul Potter, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE.

This group made a thorough survey of the farm and analyzed the soils with relation to the various crops which can be planted. Dr. Holbert and Dr. Sieveking expressed satisfaction with the opportunities which the experimental farm offers for testing new crops. They stated that it was ideally located for such a purpose. The newest types of corn being grown in the United States are being assembled by Dr. Holbert for planting here. The plan is to put in a small patch of each variety.

Dr. Sieveking is going to collect seed for the new varieties of soybeans, safflower, phalaris, etc. According to the plan, approximately 50 kinds of new farm crops will be grown on the experimental farm this season as a test to prove which can be successfully handled on midwest agricultural lands.

When these crops are developing the experimental farm will be a sort of growing outdoor laboratory for farmers, where they can see the newest things which offer money making possibilities on the average farm.

Inasmuch as a new dairy barn has to be built on the farm, everybody is reading catalogs and looking at plans these days while trying to reach a decision on the type of building that will be erected. Costs and advantages of barns built of wood, steel and wood, and with firebrick walls are being investigated. As yet no decision has been made on material which will be used.

Jack and Gene, the farm horses which team up together, are going to receive some sad news tomorrow morning. They are going to be informed that their "vacation" is over and that now they have to go back to work. During the last few days the farm routine was such that there was no occasion for them to be put into harness, so they have been leading a life of loafing and feeding.

The little pigs are due for quite an exciting time tomorrow morning. Herman Guenther is going to oust all the pig families from their quarters and keep them out for a while in order to disinfect their quarters. When the little grunters return to their bunks they likely will be unable to recognize them, because every corner of the place is going to get a thorough cleaning.

PARKS MERGER URGED TO REDUCE PUBLIC SPENDING

Unification of the twenty-two park districts now operating separately within the city was urged yesterday by Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency. The merger is proposed in the Chicago park district act, which will be on the ballot for ratification at the April 10 primary.

In a debate before the Rogers Park civic council with Cornelius Cole, a resident of the district, Mr. Sutherland outlined the need for simplifying Chicago's system of local government to effect public economies.

"The difficulty of keeping track of the finances and administration of a large number of governments encourages waste and extravagance and prevents intelligent popular control over governmental expenditures," he said.

Mr. Cole attacked the park act on the ground that it does not include in the consolidation the small parks operated by the city government, the board of education's playgrounds, and the county board's forest preserves. If there is to be any merger, he said, all of these should be included.

KILLED IN ELEVATOR SHAFT.

REGISTRATION TOMORROW FOR APRIL PRIMARY

Tomorrow will be registration day for those not now on the poll lists and who wish to vote at the April primaries. Polling places in each precinct will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night.

It is an intermediate registration for those who have moved, come of age, or become citizens since the last registration. Persons now registered need not appear before their registration boards.

Tomorrow's registration, which is to be followed by a canvass of voters in each district, is not expected to swell the number of voters to any great extent. However, both Democratic and Republican leaders were urging party workers to persuade every eligible voter to register and become eligible to vote.

In wards where there are spirited contests for the Democratic or Republican committeeman posts the registration is expected to be heavier than in wards where there are no contests. The organization Democratis have little opposition to their county ticket, but on the Republican side there are several candidates, supported by different groups for the major offices.

Orders Wife to Economize on Funeral, Then Ends Life

GOVERNOR ACTS FOR AGREEMENT ON SCHOOL BILLS

Calls Conference to Lay Legislative Program.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

A well organized campaign for passage of bills to provide additional revenues for the public schools of the state will be launched tomorrow at a conference of legislators and Gov. Horner at Springfield. An effort will be made to reach a final agreement on legislation that will be acceptable to both Republicans and Democrats.

Ten members of the senate and ten of the lower house, with both parties represented, will participate in the discussion. All plans aim at pouring new revenues into the state distributive school fund for apportionment to the various school districts. The fund at present is $10,500,000 annually, of which Chicago's share is $3,200,000.

Continue Conferences Today.

Gov. Horner conferred yesterday with educators from several sections of the state and will continue the conferences today.

"Some of the counties don't need aid," said Gov. Horner, "while others are in very serious financial condition. All would be benefited if the funds in arrears from the state distributive fund could be paid."

The governor said he hoped that the legislation could be passed by both houses this week. If the program is not completed then, he added, he was opposed to adjourning the third special session at the end of the week.

Another battle over the diversion of the state sales tax and liquor revenues to the school fund is in prospect for the week. The Republican members of the house, with considerable support from the Democrats, have obtained passage of the Schnackenberg bill providing for diversion of liquor revenues to the schools. A bill to divert a portion of the sales tax for school purposes has also been introduced by Republicans in the senate.

Veto in Prospect.

Gov. Horner has taken the position that these taxes would be needed to maintain the state's credit and has opposed their diversion to the schools. It is deemed virtually certain that if the bills pass they will be met with an executive veto.

The Republican county central committee has announced that all Republican members of the legislature from Cook county will be urged to stand behind the plan for diverting the liquor and sales taxes to the schools.

The committee declared that the schools would derive between $4,000,000 and $10,000,000 annually from the liquor tax.

"An additional tax on gasoline and diversion of gasoline taxes from cities and counties to the school fund," read a release from the Republican headquarters, "are the only proposals so far advanced by the state administration. The teachers are against these plans, as it would throw them in conflict with their local officials."

G. O. P. Issues Critique.

In a letter to the Republican legislators the committee declared that the Democratic administration was attempting to becloud the issue and to "bring forth some 'plan' to lull the teachers and at the same time give them nothing from the funds of the state, swollen beyond previous incomes by excessive taxes levied under the Horner administration."

In Springfield tomorrow the Sangamon county grand jury will begin an investigation of alleged "ghost voting" by members of the senate at the first special session last fall. It was charged that the votes of several senators for various municipal bills were placed in the record when they were absent.

The senators summoned to appear before the jury include: Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tem of the senate; James C. Mayor [Dem., La Harpe]; Arnold T. Benson [Rep., Batavia]; and Wilber H. Hickman [Dem., Paris].

John F. Roche Appointed on Illinois NRA Board

John F. Roche, executive vice president of the Binks Manufacturing company, makers of spray equipment and cooling systems, yesterday accepted appointment to membership on the Illinois advisory board of the national emergency council. The job is part time and was created by John E. Cassidy, state director. Mr. Roche was formerly with the Edison Electric Appliance company and the Apex Electrical Distributing company. He is 54 years old, married, and the father of three sons and six daughters. He resides at 145 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park.

PURE MILK MEMBERS TO VOTE TOMORROW ON CONTRACT REVISION

A proposal to revise the contract now existing between the Pure Milk association and its 18,000 members will be a subject of major importance on the program at the ninth annual meeting of the PMA tomorrow in the Auditorium theater.

Under the present contract the PMA is a bargaining unit for its farmer members, but has nothing to say about the disposal of milk. The proposal is to change the contract so that the association will buy the milk direct from its members.

Before balloting the members will hear Fred Sexauer, Auburn, N. Y., president of the New York Dairymen's league, on the success of the league in operating under a similar contract. Frank Baker, Agricultural Adjustment Administration head in the Chicago milk area, will also speak.

In a public hearing to be held this morning at 610 South Canal street the AAA will put on trial two dairies on charges of violating the new government milk license. The two dealers, the Peoples Dairy Company, Inc., Cicero, and Lloyd V. Shimsler of Lombard, will be required to show cause why their licenses should not be revoked.

ELECTION BOARD RULES ON WARD RACE CONTESTS

After intermittent conferences that lasted nearly 24 hours the board of election commissioners early this morning issued its rulings on objections to petitions for ward committeemen. The decisions did not disturb the nominating petitions of any of the present committeemen, Democratic or Republican, who are seeking reelection, but in several cases eliminated all opposition.

In the 5th ward objections to the petitions of Sheriff William D. Meyering, Ald. David L. Sutton, and Howard F. Schlacks, who are running against Democratic Committeeman James J. Sullivan, were held to be invalid. Similarly the objections filed against the petition of State Representative Edwin R. Bederman were rejected. Bederman is engaged in a hot local fight against Republican Committeeman John J. McKeone in the 40th ward.

Rudolph Sabath, who was seeking the Democratic committeemanship in the 31st ward now held by his brother, Congressman A. J. Sabath, was eliminated from the race by a faulty petition. In the 33d ward Stanley H. Kunz, former congressman, was eliminated as a committeeman candidate. He had filed against Democratic Committeeman Leo Kocialkowski, who has taken Kunz's seat in congress.

Mae West Film Banished from Screen in Vienna

VIENNA, March 11. — (AP) — Mae West's blonde portrayal of "Lady Lou" in the film "She Done Him Wrong" was banished today from the screen in "Christian Vienna." The ban followed upon newspaper attacks on what was called "nothing but uncouth and clumsy eroticism, appealing to the basest instincts."

OPEN GRAND JURY QUIZ TODAY INTO DILLINGER PLOT

Charges of Collusion to Be Aired.

While police in Chicago and throughout the country continued their hunt for John Dillinger, the activity yesterday at Crown Point centered on the investigation of the outlaw's escape on March 3 from the county jail in that city. A special grand jury is to open an investigation of the escape today.

Supervising Police Captain John Stege, who organized a squad of 50 picked policemen last fall when Dillinger and his gang of escaped Indiana convicts were roaming Chicago, ordered his men to investigate north side apartment houses yesterday seeking trace of Dillinger. When Dillinger arranged the escape of ten convicts from the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary, and a few weeks later was himself rescued from the jail at Lima, O., the outlaws straightway came to Chicago.

Favors North Side.

Favoring the north side as a place of residence, according to Capt. Stege, the gang committed many crimes, their specialty being bank robbery. From those recaptured Stege learned of their movements and their friends in Chicago, and how they changed apartments every few days.

Stege said he had proof that Dillinger came to Chicago after the Crown Point getaway, and he believes he is still here, probably having joined John Hamilton, another member of his gang. It is the captain's belief that Dillinger is casting about for a robbery that will get him enough money to start him on his way to South America.

The Dillinger gangsters, before their capture at Tucson, Ariz., had accumulated not less than $50,000 through bank robberies. They admitted it had been their intention to go to South America as soon as they had gathered $100,000. So, Stege said, every place likely to interest Dillinger as a robbery prospect is being given special protection.

Jury to Fix Responsibility.

The Lake county grand jury to be impaneled today is to fix responsibility for the easy manner of Dillinger's escape from jail, armed at the start with only a wooden pistol. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Blunk, finger print expert, and Sam Cahoon, turnkey, have been accused of complicity in the escape.

Judge William J. Murray, who denied a petition for Dillinger's transfer to the state penitentiary for safekeeping while he was awaiting trial for the murder of a policeman, has appointed former Circuit Judge Martin J. Smith as special prosecutor to conduct the grand jury investigation. The special prosecutor is expected to cooperate with State's Attorney Robert G. Estil of Lake county and Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce in the inquiry.

Prisoners Are Questioned.

Mr. Barce has taken statements from prisoners who were in the Crown Point jail with Dillinger. Some of them declared that Deputy Sheriff Blunk could have prevented Dillinger's escape. Blunk insists, however, that Dillinger kept him covered with a gun and forced him to do his bidding. Judge Murray has been inclined to accept Blunk's story in its entirety.

The statements of a prisoner, James Posey, and Charles Schreiber, a jail guard, are being given consideration by Mr. Barce.

Posey said it was known for several days that Dillinger planned to make a break and that Herbert Youngblood, a Negro prisoner who fled with Dillinger, told him they would not have to worry about guns. When the break came Dillinger flashed a wooden gun on Turnkey Cahoon and took his keys, then got into a corridor, where he disarmed Blunk, and eventually disarmed all the other deputies and guards whom Sheriff Lillian Holley had hired. When the two fugitives left the jail each carried a machine gun taken from the warden's office.

Posey's story was that Blunk acted with unusual compliance. Schreiber's statements were to the effect that several times Blunk had an opportunity to overpower Dillinger but failed to do so.

KILLED IN CRASH

John Reiker, 23 years old, 15 North Knight street, Park Ridge, was in a serious condition in the county hospital yesterday suffering from a skull fracture incurred Saturday night in an automobile accident in which a companion, Miss Marie Bregovy, 21 years old, 4611 South Damen avenue, was killed.

Two other occupants of the car, Miss Virginia Rozanski, 22 years old, 4849 South Lincoln street, and John Thoel, 25 years old, 5216 South Loomis street, were severely shaken up and scratched. The machine in which they were riding smashed into an elevated structure at Lake street and Wacker drive which Thoel, who was driving said he failed to see.

The death of Miss Bregovy and two others raised the 1934 Cook county motor toll to 237. The other victims:

William Leonard, 63 years old, 6728 Perry avenue, a stationary engineer. Died in the Englewood hospital of injuries incurred March 7 when his car was struck at Halsted and 97th streets by the automobile of Harry Newman, 658 West 79th street.

Frank McNeil, 37 years old, 1668 Farwell avenue, a garage manager. Died in the Swedish Covenant hospital of injuries suffered when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a pole at Catalpa and Lincoln avenues.

TEXAS RANGER'S BUSINESS HERE PUZZLES POLICE

State Ranger James Shown, of San Antonio, Tex., arrived in Chicago last night, supposedly to press the claims of Texas for the prosecution of Louis [Curly] Fishman and Izzy Lazarus, minor hoodlums.

The pair are charged in Texas with violation of the national banking law. They are also under charge in Chicago in connection with the $500,000 loop mail robbery of Dec. 5, 1932, in which John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, politician and Edward Lebensberger, night club owner who killed himself, were jointly indicted.

Ranger Shown is to confer today with Lieut. John Howe of the commissioner's office regarding the case against Fishman and Lazarus. District Attorney Green, when advised of the Texan's presence in Chicago, said he could not understand why he had come here since one of Green's aids, Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Fisher, is now en route to Texas in the matter.

Children Tunnel Through Snowdrift; Girl, 12, Dies

Seaside Park, N. J., March 11.—[Special.]—Joseph Reed, 10 years old, and his cousin, Julia Brower, 12, became exhausted while tunneling their way through a 12 foot snowdrift in which they were playing today. When extricated by rescuers the girl was dead and the boy overcome by suffocation.

FACTOR TO TAKE STAND TODAY AT BANGHART TRIAL

Will Repeat Kidnap Story Accusing Defendant.

John Factor, wealthy speculator who faces extradition to England for trial on charges of obtaining $7,000,000 through fraudulent stock promotions, is expected to be the star witness today at the kidnaping trial of Basil Banghart, Touhy gangster, before Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court. Factor is to tell again the details of his kidnaping, which cost him $70,000 in ransom.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley, in charge of the prosecution, said Factor will describe how he was seized last July 1 as he left the Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove, and held captive for twelve days. At a previous trial his identifications and testimony helped to convict Roger Touhy, gang leader; Albert Kator, and Gustave Schaefer. Each was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary.

Seizes Ransom Package.

Banghart's connection with the kidnap gang first became known when he was recognized as he took a package supposed to contain $50,000 additional ransome after Factor had been released.

Banghart's lawyer, William Scott Stewart, does not deny that Banghart was one of the men who took the decoy package and then escaped through a cordon of policemen, but has indicated that his defense will be that the kidnaping never occurred. He has sought to create the inference that the alleged kidnaping was a ruse through which Factor hoped to avoid extradition to England.

Pal Accuses Costner.

Isaac Costner, under indictment for the kidnaping and by his own confession involved in a North Carolina mail robbery last November, testified Saturday hat he and Banghart helped Touhy, Kator, and Schaefer kidnap Factor and also aided in the attempt to collect additional ransom.

Policemen Frank McKenna and Edward Meyer are other witnesses who are expected to testify today. They will tell of meeting Banghart and Costner on a road near La Grange, where the dummy ransome package was handed to the gangsters. They will describe how the extortioners slipped out of the police trap, Prosecutor Crowley said.

U. S. COAST GUARD SEIZES A $200,000 BRITISH RUM SHIP

Bar Harbor, Me., March 12 [Monday].—(AP)—U. S. Customs Inspector E. Vaughan Cleaves announced today the seizure of the British motor ship Normada with a $200,000 liquor cargo off Mount Desert by the coast guard cutter Harriett Lane and the customs patrol boat 481.

The Normada, equipped with short wave radio and carrying a crew of nine men, according to Cleaves, was en route to a United States port from Miquelon, off the coast of Newfoundland.

It was understood here that the Normada will be discharged at Seal Harbor and the confiscated liquor be transported overland to Bangor.

BOLSTER PIERPONT'S GUARD; FEAR NEW DILLINGER JAIL RAID

Gen. Bush tightened his defense as Harry Pierpont, Dillinger lieutenant, was found guilty of murdering former Sheriff Jess L. Sarber last October. Pierpont's conviction without recommendation of mercy makes mandatory the death penalty.

Gen. Bush said he had received warning Dillinger might be expected in Lima to try to shoot Pierpont out of the jail.

Last week, when Pierpont's trial was started, Gen. Bush added more men to his force. He now is prepared to spread an alarm all over Ohio, Indiana and southern Michigan in fifteen minutes.

Pierpont, unconcerned, spent a quiet day. He talked little to Charles Makley and Russell Clark, two other Dillinger henchmen soon to be tried for the Sarber murder.

That he already had or would attempt to send out a call for Dillinger, whom he freed from the jail here last fall, was expected by military officials.

Two Fishing Boats with 9 on Board Reported Missing

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—The coast guard received reports tonight that two fishing boats, one containing five persons and the other four, were missing and that a search had been instituted. There were two men, two women, and a 5 year old child on the Viking, a 35 foot boat. The rowboat was reported missing in Biscayne bay near the mouth of the Miami river, while the Viking had not returned from a fishing trip in the Atlantic gulf stream.

FOREIGN NATIONS SEEKING SPACE IN HALL OF STATES

New Fair Program Moves at Full Speed Ahead.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Several foreign nations have made inquiries regarding exhibit space in the Hall of States during the 1934 Fair which opens June 1, it was revealed yesterday. According to official World's Fair estimates, attendance at the various official state exhibits last year totaled about 18,000,000, making this the most popular building on the grounds.

Officials intimated that in the event all sections of the U-shaped structure, which has Lake Michigan as a background and the Federal building as its foreground, are not claimed by states, the suggestion of some foreign participation in the building may be considered.

Hawaii Makes Inquiries.

Among United States possessions, the Virgin islands definitly will be represented by an exhibit in the Hall of States. Porto Rico is expected to return, although no contract yet has been signed, and Hawaii is making inquiries regarding participation.

Some nations which produce wines and hope to display them would like to engage space without going to the expense of erecting individual buildings, it was explained. According to present arrangements no contracts are being signed to permit the sale of liquor at the Fair outside of restaurants, but the entire subject of liquor displays and sale will be taken up at a meeting of department heads of A Century of Progress this week.

Consider City Exhibits.

Last year several large cities in states which did not participate in the Fair made inquiries concerning the establishment of exhibits in the Hall of States. They were not permitted to do so by the Fair management. This year, however, requests by such cities, particularly those specializing in local color and the picturesque, will be considered by the management, it was said.

Elsewhere throughout the Fair grounds activity is growing more brisk. Foundations have been begun for the Black Forest village, approximately at 26th street on the west side of the drive, and the Colonial village, which is south of the Alpine garden, on the west side. Alterations are now in progress in the World a Million Years Ago building. Demolition is complete or has begun on all buildings to be torn down except Old Mexico, destruction of which is being held up pending court litigation.

Changing Enchanted Isle.

The Enchanted island presents a lively scene, with demolition keeping apace with construction of new buildings. The children's amusement center will be entirely changed.

A landscape project which will embrace the entire Fair grounds probably will be started next week. The routine landscape matters, replacing of dead trees, grass plotting, etc., will cost about $15,000, it was explained, although the budget has not been completed.

Refurbishing the Sky ride will get under way soon. Last year admissions to the Sky ride totaled 2,616,389, of which 1,117,180 were to the Sky ride towers and 1,499,209 to the cars which travel between the two towers.

A new exhibitor announced yesterday was Fromm Brothers, Inc., furriers, who will have a daily fashion show featuring mannequins wearing fur coats, in the last pavilion of the General Exhibits building.

Plans for the proposed exhibits of dahlias at the Fair were descussed by the members of the Central States Dahlia society meeting at Horticultural hall in Garfield park yesterday afternoon. J. K. Rugowski of Manitowoc, Wis., explained the requirements for successful dahlia growing during the meeting. J. Lewis Roberts of Chicago is president of the society.

BAVARIANS HAIL 1ST ANNIVERSARY OF NAZI VICTORY

Hitler Points to Deeds at Munich Celebration.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, March 11. — Nazi storm troopers paraded for Chancellor Hitler here today—the first anniversary of the ascension to power of the Hitlerites in the state of Bavaria. A series of parades, a speech by Hitler and solemn "acts of states," featured the victory celebration.

Despite the fact that Munich is the birthplace of the third reich, Bavaria was one of the last states to go Nazi.

"The capital of art in Germany, and of the Nazi movement, is Munich and will remain Munich," Hitler told wildly cheering Bavarians. "There are many capitals in Germany—capitals of business, politics, science and intellect.

Will Remain Nazi Capital.

"Munich is where the first Nazis laid down their lives at the starting point of the National Socialist revolution and the direction of the movement always will be centered within the walls of Munich. The movement itself is Germany.

"The reduction of unemployment by over 2,500,000 is not the most important achievement of Nazi rule. The most decisive fact is that in this year we have laid the foundation for the rebirth of Germany which will work out perhaps in 100, perhaps in 200 or 300 years."

Eases Restrictions on Liberty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 11.—Herman Wilhelm Goering, minister of aviation and premier of Prussia, in his capacity as chief of the secret state police, today issued a decree easing certain restrictions on the liberty of Germans.

Henceforth, such restrictions under the law for the protection of the state may only be exercised by certain defined authorities. The powers of sheriffs in this respect are abolished. A person "protectively arrested" as a temporary measure must be brought before a court. If the court refuses to commit him he must be released unless further detention is based on other grounds. Detention must not exceed eight days, unless it is personally ordered by Goering, who must be informed by telegraph within 24 hours of the details of the arrest.

Other arrested persons must be brought before a court within 24 hours. If not, or if they are not committed they must be released within 24 hours unless the detention is confirmed by Goering.

New Chicago Rabbi

[Nickolas Photo.]

The congregation of K. A. M. Temple, Drexel boulevard and 50th street, yesterday approved the selection of Dr. Joshua Loth Liebman to succeed Dr. Solomon B. Freehof as rabbi of the temple. For the last three years Dr. Liebman has been commuting each week-end from Cincinnati to Lafayette, Ind., where he occupied the pulpit at Temple Israel. He will deliver his first sermon at the K. A. M. Temple next September.

JEWS IN GERMANY FEAR NAZIS WILL DISSOLVE LODGES

BERLIN, March 11.—(AP)—The arrest of Dr. Benno Walter, vice president of the Jewish grand lodge, B'nai Brith, brought apprehension today in Jewish circles that the government may dissolve all Jewish lodges in Germany, as it did the Freemasons. Jewish lodges are reputed to possess considerable wealth and much real estate, thus enabling them to administer large funds for charity.

In event of dissolution, it was considered likely that both money and property would be confiscated by the Nazis.

Dr. Walter was arrested Feb. 28 and was reported held at the Columbia house, which is a transfer station from headquarters to concentration camps, and is exclusively run by storm troopers. Jews pointed with irony to the fact that Walter was originally elected vice president of the lodge because he had no political affiliations. Walter has not been permitted to communicate with his friends. They do not know the nature of the charge against him.

Declares He Will Welcome Airing in Court.

courtesy of acknowledging my letter, I again wrote him on Jan. 15 demanding a disposition of the matter and cessation of stories appearing in the press and emanating from him or his department, to the effect that I had evaded payment of taxes.

"In my letter I said:

"'The proper amount of tax to be paid by a citizen necessarily may be subject to dispute. If the authorized officer of the government should decide that additional taxes are claimed, I am quite willing to meet the government's representatives either in a friendly conference or in open court and settle any questions that may arise. The law provides such protection for any citizen, and I am quite willing and able to avail myself of it. I am not able, however, to protect myself against the innuendoes of wrong doing appearing in some newspapers, based apparently on information furnished by some one in either the treasury or the department of justice.'

Receives "Evasive Response."

"On Feb. 6 I received an evasive response, saying that the department of justice had completed its examination of my 1931 taxes and neither making any criticism nor dismissing the charges, but suggesting a fishing expedition into years as to which no charges had been made by any one.

"In public statements issued from time to time the attorney general has attempted to justify this unusual procedure in conducting an investigation of my tax affairs by the department of justice instead of leaving it to the treasury department, whose duty it is to investigate such matters, and has not hesitated to cite as reasons quite irrelevant matters such as the suit brought against me by Mcfadden's friend, Olson, for alleged failure on my part to collect sufficient income taxes from certain foreign steamship companies.

"This suit had nothing whatever to do with my income taxes, as not even Olson had charged that I had profited personally in any way. The suit was brought as an informer action by Olson, who hoped to collect 220 million dollars, of which half should be for himself and half for the government. That case has been tried in the Supreme court of the District of Columbia, and on Dec. 8, 1933, was thrown out and judgment entered for me and the other treasury officials who were joined with me as defendants.

Suit Cited as Reason.

"Yet as late as Jan. 18 the attorney general was referring to this suit as a reason for his investigation of my tax affairs, although he must have known that the suit had been dismissed by his own federal court, and, in any event, had never had the remotest connection with my personal income taxes.

"The other reason the attorney general has given publicly for his investigation of me is that requests have come 'from one or more members of congress to investigate certain claims with reference to the personal income tax returns of Mr. Mellon.'

"There have always been members of congress wanting to investigate me for their own reasons, and I may say they have indulged themselves on every possible occasion in the last twelve years.

Recalls Exonerations.

"During the entire time I was in public office I was subjected to the most searching congressional investigation into every phase of my official conduct and my personal affairs, and in each instance an investigation of the facts exonerated me from the charges which had been made.

"In a statement asking for an indictment against me in connection with my tax affairs, the attorney general has made irrelevant references to the Aluminum Company of America as a 'Melon controled corporation,' which is a 'one hundred per cent monopoly in the producing field.'

"What this has to do with my income tax is not apparent, but in any event I and all the members of my family own less than a majority of the stock of this company and certainly the Aluminum company, whether or not it is a 'one hundred per cent monopoly,' is not violating the federal laws in this respect. No one knows this better than Mr. Cummings, whose own law firm in Hartford, Conn., has just recently been defeated in a suit, which they brought in the federal court there on behalf of a client, the Baush Machine Company of America, in which this very point was involved.

Court Decision Cited.

"In returning a verdict for the Aluminum company in the Baush case the court and jury held that the Aluminum Company of America had not violated the anti-trust laws.

"For many months now a campaign of character wrecking and abuse has been conducted against me in the press and over the radio. I know there has been no evasion of taxes on my part. I have, on the contrary, always been scrupulous to give the government the benefit of every doubt in making up my tax returns. I am glad the issue is joined at last and am quite content to leave the outcome to the courts and to the good sense and fairness of the American people when all the facts are known."

WALKER WELCOMES INQUIRY.

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York, informed of a move of the United States government to charge him with tax evasion, said today that "even in this doubtful position I am glad to be in the same list with Mr. Andrew Mellon."

"They are only doing their duty and I even welcome it as an opportunity of vindicating my character," he said.

First news that suits alleging tax evasion were authorized by the justice department against him reached Walker at a hotel in Surrey Hills where he is staying with his wife, the former Betty Compton, and his mother-in-law.

"I am not altogether surprised," he said. "It is now nearly two years since the American authorities decided that my income tax returns were incorrect."

VIENNA'S FAMOUS SOCIALIST PAPER TURNS FASCIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 11.—Camouflaged as a newspaper for workers' rights, Vienna's famous newspaper, Arbeiter Zeitung, reappeared today. The newspaper was founded in 1883 under the régime of Emperor Francis Josef I. as a Socialist organ. Until the outbreak of civil warfare four weeks ago, it was the leading workingmen's newspaper, not only where the German language was spoken, but was also considered a world-wide organ of the Social Democratic party.

What remains of the Arbeiter Zeitung is the title and the name of the publishing company. Thus the new Fascist government is following in the footsteps of Chancellor Hitler. Today's Arbeiter Zeitung has but one line written by a former Socialist deputy, Ernst Carl Winter. It apparently escaped the eyes of the censor.

"A smart victor should not misuse newly acquired power," Winter wrote. "The wheels of history often turn backward, and the conquered of today may be the victor tomorrow."

Another Arbeiter Zeitung appears at Brno [Brunn], Czechoslovakia. It is edited by Dr. Otto Bauer and Dr. Julius Deutsch, Socialist leaders, who fled after the fighting in Vienna. High prices are paid for smuggled copies of the exiled Socialists' newspaper.

FEAR ANOTHER REVOLT BY LABOR AND REDS IN CUBA

HAVANA, March 11.—(AP)—Confident the crisis of the grave labor revolt is past, members of the government of President Carlos Mendieta breathed slightly easier today.

Unions were still striking, however, despite the order of Mendieta that all workers return to their posts not later than last midnight.

Observers, however, predicted that disgruntled radicals would promptly attempt to reassemble their forces and foresaw the possibility of a fusion between laborites and followers of former President Ramon Gran San Martin.

The Cuban Telephone company, it was learned, intends to discharge a dozen alleged communist leaders, as well as all workers proved guilty of sabotage.

DOLLFUSS URGES CROATIANS TO BACK AUSTRIA

Cardinal Also Invites Them to Be Loyal.

VIENNA, March 11. — (AP) — Amid constant rumors and alarms of forthcoming restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria, unusual interest was aroused tonight by addresses given by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and Cardinal Innitzer to a gathering of Croatians.

Although technically speaking the Croatians are not at present under Austrian rule, the chancellor and the cardinal dropped several remarks interpreted as gestures toward Croatians, formerly part of the Austro-Hungarian empire.

Message by Dollfuss.

Austria, said Dollfuss, is giving Europe an example of how racial minorities should be treated.

"Our common fatherland, Austria, shall be your paternal roof also," he said. "All the more so because now we can begin to re-create Austria in the spirit of Christendom."

Cardinal Innitzer appealed to the Croatians to remain always "good Catholics, good Croats and good Austrians."

There has been considerable friction since Croatia quit the Austro-Hungarian empire to form a new south Slav state with the Serbs and Slovenes. It arose because of religious differences between the Catholics of Croatia and those of orthodox Serbia.

May Lift Ban on Hapsburg.

The official government gazette devoted an entire page today to description of properties confiscated from the vanished Hapsburg royal family, which both Fascist Heimwehr and Legitimist leaders have been demanding lately should be returned to their "rightful owners."

In many quarters this was interpreted as foreshadowing revocation of the post-war laws that set the Hapsburgs off the throne and made their property a part of the Austrian republic.

At the same time, however, Baron Friedrich von Wiesner, Legitimist leader, discussed Hapsburg restoration in the week-end edition of the newspaper Weltblatt, and revealed that Austrian monarchists were unpleasantly surprised to find an unfriendly attitude toward revocation of the Hapsburg laws frankly expressed in foreign countries.

"No International Question."

Von Wiesner argued that revocation of these laws has nothing to do with the question of restoring the Hapsburg dynasty. He added that:

"Foreign powers unfriendly to the idea of restoration are making it appear that mere revocation of the law banishing the emperor and his family must be treated as an international question."

Such an attitude, he said, "is an unjustifiable intrusion in the internal affairs of our country."

Despite explanations such as Von Wiesner's the expectation in anti-Hapsburg quarters was that revocation of the anti-Hapsburg laws will be followed by the return of Archduke Otto as "a private individual," and then his restoration to the throne.

Other monarchist leaders privately expressed their opinions that the chief difficulty in a monarchist restoration in Austria is that both Czechoslovakia and Jugo-Slavia fear a sudden Legitimist coup.

"But, as a matter of fact," said one leader, "we are determined to move slowly, carefully and diplomatically, preparing the way for each step in turn. The imperial family does not wish to create embarrassing situations for the Austrian government."

Archduke Otto, according to reports reaching here from Belgium, where he has his residence near Brussels, is actually unenthusiastic about returning unless "called by the people."

A popular vote demanding his return to Austria, it was observed, might suit Democratic ideas prevalent in Belgium, where Otto was educated, but mention of a plebiscite does not invoke much enthusiasm among the monarchists here.

Advocates of restoration "by grace of God" feel that resort to a plebiscite would be degrading Archduke Otto to the level of Burgomaster Seitz of Vienna and other Socialists imprisoned after the recent civil war, whose authority is based upon a majority vote of the people.

KENTUCKY FREE PRESS CONFLICT SET FOR TONIGHT

Acting Editor May Face Term in Jail.

Frankfort, Ky., March 11.—(AP)—The right of newspapers to publish letters to the editor without disclosing the name of the writer will be put to test tomorrow night when Vance Armentrout, acting editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, goes on trial before a committee of five members of the house of the Kentucky legislature for alleged contempt of a lobby investigating committee.

The specific charge against Armentrout, an editorial writer on the newspaper made famous by the militant editorials of "Marse" Henry Watterson, is that he defied the lobby committee by refusing to divulge to it the name of a member of the house who contributed to the Courier-Journal's point of view column a letter captioned "The Psalm of Politics," which criticized the speaker and the rules committee of the house.

Attorneys for Armentrout are expected to offer a three point defense:

1. That the action of the lobby committee in committing Armentrout to jail last Wednesday violated the freedom of the press clause of the state constitution.

2. That the name of the writer of the letter was held in confidence and to have disclosed it would have been breaking a confidence.

3. That the committee, which was created to investigate lobbying and election activities of corporations, associations, and individuals, went beyond the scope of its authority in seeking to force a newspaper to reveal the name of the writer of a letter criticizing the legislature.

Armentrout was released on a habeas corpus writ a few minutes after entering the jail last Wednesday.

The special committee, after hearing the evidence tomorrow night, will decide whether Armentrout was in contempt of the lobby committee. If it finds contempt was committed, it will recommend that the house punish him. The question of punishment, however, would be put to a vote of the house. Under the statutes, the maximum penalty is six months in jail or a fine of $1,000, or both.

Number of Jewish Doctors Drops in Berlin; Aryans Rise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 11.—The number of Jewish physicians or doctors who have married persons of Jewish blood declined in Berlin from the middle of 1933 to the middle of February by 509, according to Dr. Loelike, president of the Berlin Medical association. He said there are now 2,914 Jewish physicians in the city. During the same period the number of Aryan medicos increased by 154 to a total of 3,289.

ARMY AIR MAIL GROUNDED; MAP 'SAFETY' PLANS

Trains Are Taking Over Transport Job.

the two popular idols over the wisdom of the President's order canceling the contracts of the private air companies on grounds of fraud without giving the accused officials an opportunity to present any defense. Lindbergh had written a letter to the President which his attorney gave to newspaper men before it was received by the President, and the White House rebuked Lindbergh publicly for this "discourtesy."

It was stated at the White House today that Col. Lindbergh had not asked to see the President, although he would have been received if the request were made. The whole matter simmered down to a "prima-donna-ish" attitude on the part of both public favorites, with each placing upon the other the necessity for making the first move toward reconciliation. However, Secretary of War Dern had lavished fulsome praise upon the flying colonel, who seemed quite satisfied with his reception here.

Another attack upon President Roosevelt in connection with the failure of the army air corps to carry out the orders to fly the mails was made today by Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic association and a former Republican senator from Connecticut.

New Attack on Policy.

Mr. Bingham in a public statement demanded to know who had advised the President, as Mr. Roosevelt had declared, that the army air corps was fitted to carry the air mails. Mr. Bingham's statement follows:

"In justification of his assignment of the duty of carrying the mail to the army air corps on Feb. 9, President Roosevelt, in his letter yesterday to the secretary of war curtailing the service, said:

"'This action was taken on the definite assurance given me that the army air corps could carry the mail.'

"Who gave that assurance? So far as I have been able to learn, it was not Gen. MacArthur, chief of staff of the army. It was not the general staff of the army. It was not Gen. Foulois, chief of the air corps.

"It appears to be true that the President did not consult any of the regular military authorities who by law or position should have been called upon to express their judgment. Whom then did he consult?

Apparently Without Advice.

"The action he took was action taken apparently without advice from those most familiar with the training and equipment of the air corps. Its training was devoted exclusively to military and not to commercial flying. Its equipment was unfitted for mail carriage. The sad results are only too obvious.

"Let us have the truth in this matter. Let the President say who gave him that erroneous 'definite assurance' that the army could carry the mail. It is not enough to quote what subordinates said after the action was taken: naturally, then, they would back up by words and endeavor to back up by deeds their commander in chief. The country is entitled to know all the facts surrounding action taken without consultation with the responsible military authorities, for which preparation could not be made because there was no time to make it, for which training had not been provided, for which equipment was lacking, under frightful weather conditions, and with tragic results."

President Defended.

In defense of the President various of his associates declared that he had been advised by Gen. Foulois and by Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur both that the army was fitted to undertake the task.

It was pointed out that when Mr. Roosevelt announced that the army was to take over the air mail flying, both Foulois and MacArthur in interviews with newspaper men stated publicly that the army was equal to the assignment.

PILOTS AWAIT ORDERS.

Air mail was being accepted by the Chicago postal authorities for transmission west last night, and army air mail pilots were standing by early this morning, ready to fly to western points on receipt of orders from Washinton. There were reports that such orders were expected today.

Otherwise, all army air mail activity was halted at the Chicago airport last night. Army and postal officials refused to hazard any guess as to the time when air mail service would be resumed under curtailed schedules.

The last army planes landed at the airport at dusk last evening and none took off during the day except to destinations that could be reached before dark. No air mail was accepted for transmission to eastern points.

RUSH NEW PLAN FOR AIR MAIL

AIR POSTAGE REBATE WHILE TRAINS CARRY MAIL STILL IN DOUBT

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Possibility of obtaining rebates on air mail postage during suspension of the army air mail service is a matter of doubt, it was admitted tonight at the postoffice department.

Claims of excessive postage by persons who pay the higher rate without receiving the stipulated speedier service, however, may be presented to the postoffice cashier's department in any city for consideration pending a decision on this point.

Recover Body of Aviator Killed Three Weeks Ago

New Orleans, La., March 11.—(AP)—The body of Charles N. Kenily, 28 year old aviator who was killed in an accident during the Pan-American air races at Shushan airport here three weeks ago, was recovered today from Lake Pontchartrain near the airport's seaplane ramp. Identification was established through a tag attached to the flyer's arm.

HARRY SINCLAIR IN COURT TODAY ON BANK CHARGE

Tulsa, Okla., March 11.—(AP)—Harry Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Consolidated Oil corporation, with 27 other former directors of the defunct Exchange Trust company, facing an aggregate of 17 complaints alleging embezzlement, will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow in Common Pleas court here.

The former directors are accused of embezzling a total of $265,245 in complaints filed by J. M. Springer, special prosecutor and personal appointee of Gov. Murray. A general denial of all charges has been made by the defendants. All are free on bonds.

FLYER KILLED IN ARMY AIR MAIL CRASH IS BURIED

New York, March 11.—(AP)—A snow covered grave in Long Island tonight held the body of Lieut. Otto Wienecke, who was killed Friday when his plane crashed while he was flying the mail. The accident occurred near Burton, O.

Six lieutenants from the Fifth Aero squadron were pallbearers at the services today, during which Lieut. Wienecke was described as a "hero of his nation."

As the body was lowered into the grave a firing squad from Mitchel field fired three volleys and a bugler sounded taps.

Swiss Vote Down Law for "Protection of the State"

BERNE, Switzerland, March 11.—(AP)—A proposed law for the "protection of the state" aimed against political terrorism and revolutionary violence was voted down today in a popular referendum by 486,000 to 416,000. Fear of political troubles expressed in official quarters resulted in rejection of the law, which was opposed by Socialists and communists as well as by Fascists and other rightist groups.

FRANCE CLOSES CITY PAWNSHOP; JAILS MANAGER

Probe of Stavisky Scandal Widened by Police.

PARIS, March 11.—(AP)—Another city's pawnshop—the Credit Municipal of Orleans—was brought today into the widening investigation of the Stavisky scandal.

The manager and appraiser of the Orleans institution were arrested on charges of receiving stolen goods as a result of the discovery by police of the missing Stavisky jewels, which were found to have been placed in pawn before the death of the late Serge Stavisky.

While they protested innocence of any complicity with the swindler or his associates, and the mayor of Orleans declared the pawnshop was solvent, it was closed pending an investigation of its books.

Pawned His Emeralds.

It was the Orleans pawnshop where Stavisky was supposed to have attempted fraudulent operations before organizing his huge credit municipal in Bayonne.

A police report said he pawned his emeralds there in 1929 for $600,000. The stones were found to be false, the report added, but Stavisky hastily redeemed them.

The statement continued that the man who was then manager of the Orleans pawnshop later became an associate of Stavisky and was recently arrested.

Indictments in the $60,000,000 Stavisky scandal, which has caused the downfall of two French governments and rioting, reached 22 today with the arrest of a pugilist described as Stavisky's bodyguard.

War Veterans Fight Reds.

Meanwhile, war veterans of the Croix de Feu [Cross of Fire], into whose ranks police fired during the disorders on Feb. 6, announced their determination to defend the tri-color against the "red flag."

On the other hand, Socialists debated joining communists in "a fight on Fascism."

The annual convention of 13,000 members of the "Cross of Fire" opened with a roll call of members killed during the street fighting when 19 persons were slain and scores wounded.

A resolution declared the organization intends to "continue to impose order in France by constant action, free from political combinations" and to protect the French people "from all menaces within, as well as without."

The Socialists' national council, whose members opposed the granting of dictatorial degree powers to Premier Gaston Doumergue, considered the organization of an "anti-Fascist common front" with communists and peasants.

The parliamentary program will be formulated at a national convention at Toulouse May 20.

Demonstrations against "Fascist" rule were held several weeks ago.

Parliament gave Doumergue authority to reduce government expenses and to change tariff quotas by decree.

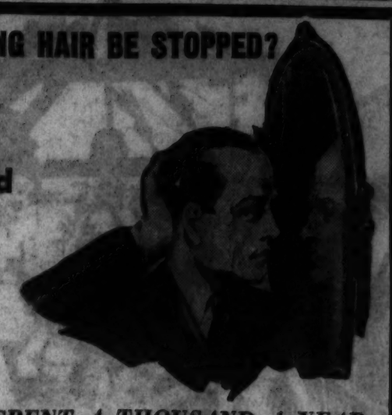
Boy, 18, Fatally Wounded in $4 Holdup Identified

A youth who was fatally wounded after he and a companion allegedly robbed a grocer of $4 Saturday, yesterday was identified by relatives as Adam Shrodis, 18 years old, 819 West 34th place. Henry Chott, owner of the store at 3635 West 31st place, opened fire on the bandits as they were running away from the scene and Shrodis fell. The other youth escaped. Shrodis died early yesterday at the Bridewell hospital.

CAN FALLING HAIR BE STOPPED?

YES

If treated in time



IF YOU SPENT A THOUSAND A YEAR ON CLOTHES it would not make up for the loss of your hair.

Avail yourself of modern scientific help. For years diseases such as smallpox, typhoid, diphtheria baffled science. Modern treatment overcomes them.

Men who are old today had nothing but "hair tonic" for "falling" (thinning) hair. Modern scientific treatment saves the hair you have and thickens it to the extent of all the dormant roots.

For eleven years we have rendered the Chicago public a splendid service, sparing no expense to make it the finest obtainable. You will like the spirit and efficiency of our institution.

Indoors where it's stuffy one minute, outdoors the next you need good resistance!

It isn't just being out in bad weather. It isn't stuffy indoor living alone. The sudden changes from heat to extreme cold are what tax your vitality.

Most people worry about their physical condition at the wrong time. They wait until they're miserable before attempting to build up.

How much better off they would be if they had prepared themselves ahead. How much more comfortable they will be from now on if they build up their resistance!

One of the pleasantest ways of doing this is with the help of Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D.

Squibb Adex tablets provide the resistance-building vitamins available from three sources—halibut and cod-liver oil with Viosterol! There are 1500 units of Vitamin A and 2450 units of Vitamin D in every tablet.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FETED BY CHIEFS OF PORTO RICO

Dines on Isle's Favorite Dish—Rice and Chicken.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 11.—(AP)—On her only formal dinner of this unofficial West Indies tour, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt dined tonight with Gov. Blanton D. Winship and other notables on the favorite Porto Rican dish—rice and chicken.

Gathered at the table in the palace were members of the cabinet, supreme court, the speaker of the house and president of the senate and their wives.

Doors of Historic Design.

Through swinging doors of quaintly historic design servants came bearing foods and fruits. One door was decorated with a stained glass, Mosaic portrait of King Ferdinand; another with Queen Isabella's.

Advisors outvoted Mrs. Roosevelt's plan for a strenuous four day horseback ride into the mountains, substituting a two day, 300 mile automobile drive around the coastal plain of Porto Rico.

The party will visit the needlework district of the island, starting at 8 o'clock Monday. Tomorrow night will be spent at San German.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited the Angelican church this morning and heard the usual prayer for her husband given by an old English Shakespearean actor turned missionary, the Rev. William Bentley. He prayed, too, for the poor and homeless and for the "forgotten man."

Picture Taken by Choir Girls.

The first lady of the United States was interested in Porto Rican choir girls with their white dresses of lace, wearing veils, who laid down their prayer books to seize cameras when opportunity came to photograph her with the minister.

Mrs. Roosevelt shook hands with worshipers of the congregation and later told 60 nurses and 35 doctors heading the child health recovery program, "I hope you will have patience to continue on through with the work you have begun."

She listened to a concert from a civil works band whose job it is to circulate through the parks of San Juan, cheering the populace with music.

Porto Rican Senator Munoz Marin outlined to her a plan for rehabilitating the island by buying the bankrupt United Porto Rico Sugar company for the purpose of reducing sugar producing lands.

INSURANCE FOR IDLE PROPOSED BY LA GUARDIA

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Mayor F. H. La Guardia, expressing apprehension at a proposed curtailment of federal relief funds for the idle, today called for the establishment of a permanent program of idleness insurance throughout the country, to be financed by an employment tax.

The mayor outlined his proposal coincident with announcement that he had been informed the federal Civil Works administration in New York would be turned back to the city administration on April 1. This will involve a reduction of several million dollars in the federal government's monthly allowance to the city, he said.

La Guardia said his proposal, which he will submit to the United States conference of mayors, would be financed as follows:

"A tax should be placed upon every employer without restriction and without any exemption whatsoever. Part of the funds could be raised by a small tax of a few cents weekly from every person employed, regardless of the nature of employment or by whom employed. The federal tax collected by federal agencies should be turned over entirely to the localities or states where collected for the administration of the unemployment insurance system."

Bandit Shot in Holdup of Policeman Is Recovering

Victor Pusetelo, 25 years old, a bandit shot by a policeman whom he and a companion attempted to rob Saturday night, was reported to be recovering last night at the Bridewell hospital after an operation was performed to remove the bullet. Roy Cutrell, 25 years old, is also being held for the holdup attempt. Lincoln Park Policeman Leroy Norton, not in uniform, sitting in his car in front of 69 East Oak street, was the intended victim.

U. S. AND FRANCE JOIN TO BREAK TRADE BARRIERS

Abolition of Wine Quota Seen as Step Forward.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 11.—Developments on both sides of the Atlantic this week-end encourage American business interests here in the hope that a breach at last is being made in the wall governments have erected everywhere against normal trade development.

The developments alluded to are:

FIRST—President Roosevelt's decision opening up the American market to foreign wines and liquors.

SECOND—The "spontaneous" announcement of the French government—evidently tipped off about Mr. Roosevelt's decision—that the quota on American apples and pears for the quarter beginning April 1 and ending June 30 will be 5,000 tons. This is about the same figure negotiated for the first quarter in Washington last fall.

Reduce Import Tax.

THIRD—Adoption by the French senate Friday of the bill already voted by the chamber of deputies authorizing the government to reduce by decree the import tax on semi-finished manufactured goods—now 4 per cent—and finished manufactured goods—now 6 per cent—to a uniform level of 2 per cent as at present applied to raw materials.

The authorization is dependent upon reciprocal treatment of French imports and the absence of special import taxes replacing an internal turnover tax, which is the case of the United States. This gives the government power at any time to put an end to the discriminatory measures which have injured American business and have always been bitterly fought by American interests here. It is now up to Washington to persuade the French government that the new powers should be exercised—a task which should not prove difficult.

Reaction to Mr. Roosevelt's abolition of wine quotas was hailed enthusiastically by French wine interests, but less so by Americans. The necessity of providing France with the biggest possible market for her wines in America is recognized by every one here. Nevertheless, in some quarters it is feared the President is not using effectively the best weapon he has for securing trade concessions from the French.

Others agree that if all America gets in return for this generous gesture is a market for 5,000 tons of apples, Washington is making a colossal blunder, but they presume Mr. Roosevelt is just paving the way for more important agreements with France.

See Psychological Blunder.

Granting this assumption, they consider it is not necessarily bad strategy for the President to lay his cards on the table and invite other countries to do likewise, since it builds up a good psychological atmosphere for constructive negotiations.

It is considered, however, that Washington pulled a psychological blunder in not presenting the abolition of the wine quotas as a gesture toward revival of international trade as well as a measure of internal expediency. There is some surprise that Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has always been one of the most outspoken critics of the quota system, did not take advantage of this step to read the European nations a little sermon on the error of their ways.

As one American put it to this correspondent:

"At the London conference every one adopted pious resolutions condemning the quota system, but nobody will do anything. Now America gives up the only quota experiment she ever tried and nobody calls attention to it."

No Credit Given to U. S.

Certainly the French press is not calling any attention to it, and Uncle Sam is not given credit for anything except a big thirst. Consequently the French do not feel under any particular obligations. Those who remember the gilded talk of the London conference wonder why some of it was not saved for a time when it would really help to strengthen America's bargaining position.

All this leads American observers here to believe that Washington does not realize the full importance of the American wine market to France.

HOLLAND OFFERS BIG DEMAND FOR AMERICAN FILMS

Germans Kill Market with Propaganda.

BY PIET VAN'T VEER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, March 11.—The prospects of American movies are bright in Holland. They have won a long and arduous battle with German flickers. In 1933 they beat all competitors by many lengths, according to the statement of the director of the Dutch board of film censors.

But the film censors are not pleased about the morality of the American films. They have felt it necessary to forbid Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong" for violating not one but "all ten commandments." Cecil de Mille's "This Day and Age" was also barred because "it is revolutionary in tendency" and youth is not taught to respect the laws. Otherwise American films enjoy great popularity in Holland.

Nazi Propaganda.

Their closest competitors, the German movies, lost their customers in 1933, possibly for political reasons. The German movie industry, after ousting most of its Jewish members, went in strenuously to teach the new Nazi tenets to Germans and the world, and Holland was not very interested. All the trade the Germans lost was won by America, and what is more, the real American stars are being called for.

In Holland the stars of Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich are fading with the fans crying for Helen Hayes, Loretta Young, and naughty Mae West, though only persons over 18 may see Mae. American films first go before the Dutch national censor, but if they are to be run in the Catholic districts of southern Holland, they must get the O. K. of a Catholic board of censors.

Holland is trying to create her own film industry, but only 15,000,000 people speak Dutch in Holland, in Flanders, in South Africa, in the Dutch East and West Indies, with the result that it is scarcely worth while to invest big sums in Dutch films.

Royal Films Fail.

Nevertheless, since patriotism is the keyword of the day, a Dutch company sought success by glorifying the "Life of William the Silent," the founder of the royal house of the Netherlands. Only Dutch artists were allowed to perform. The first night of "William the Silent" was a grand affair with the gay and debonair Prince Consort Henry of the Netherlands and all those who felt in the swim, attending, but 15,000,000 Dutchmen failed to follow their example and the film was a total financial failure.

Now the movie patriots are trying it with the appeal of the sailor boys—"De Jantjes," with old sailor songs luring the public to the Dutch movie. This being the only Dutch film in preparation, it is felt America's films have a great chance in 1934, provided Hollywood remembers that little Holland insists on strict respect for all ten Commandments.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The statement which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of March 10 that a rare Greek manuscript owned by the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick was being offered for sale to the University of Chicago was incorrect. The 16th century manuscript, which has 69 color miniatures along with the Greek commentary on the Book of Revelations, is owned by Elizabeth Day McCormick of Chicago. She purchased it in Paris two years ago and has placed the document in the hands of the New Testament department of the University of Chicago for publication, not sale.

The item confused this manuscript with the Rockefeller McCormick New Testament manuscript owned by Mrs. McCormick, which is now being offered for sale by the executors of the estate. This New Testament manuscript, written in the 13th century, contains 90 miniatures, along with the text of every book except Revelations. A price of $14,000 has been authorized for the document.

Flood Menaces 65,000 in Turkish Aviation Center

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 11.—(AP)—An immense flood from the swollen river, Pursak, today menaced the city of Eskishehr, Turkey's important industrial and military aviation center. Houses of this city of 65,000 population were inundated in low-lying quarters, and the waters were rising steadily, threatening to sweep over the whole town. The river was said to be 22 feet above its banks.

PEASANTS REBEL IN MANCHUKUO; KILL JAP OFFICER

HARBIN, Manchukuo, March 11.—(AP)—A Rengo [Japanese] News agency dispatch tonight said Col. Asakichi Iizuka, commander of a Japanese infantry regiment, was reported killed and ten other officers were missing in a sudden peasants' revolt centering in Ilan, Manchukuo. The regiment had been operating recently against bandits in the lower Sungari area of Manchukuo.

Paraguay Accepts Bolivian Bid on Chaco Peace Parley

BUENOS AIRES, March 11.—(AP)—The league of nations Chaco commission received today from Paraguay an acceptance of the Bolivian offer to arrange peace in the Chaco boreal by direct negotiations under the auspices of the commission. The conversations will continue for an undetermined period and may be halted when either party considers it advisable. The Paraguayans insisted, however, that responsibilities for the war must be investigated.

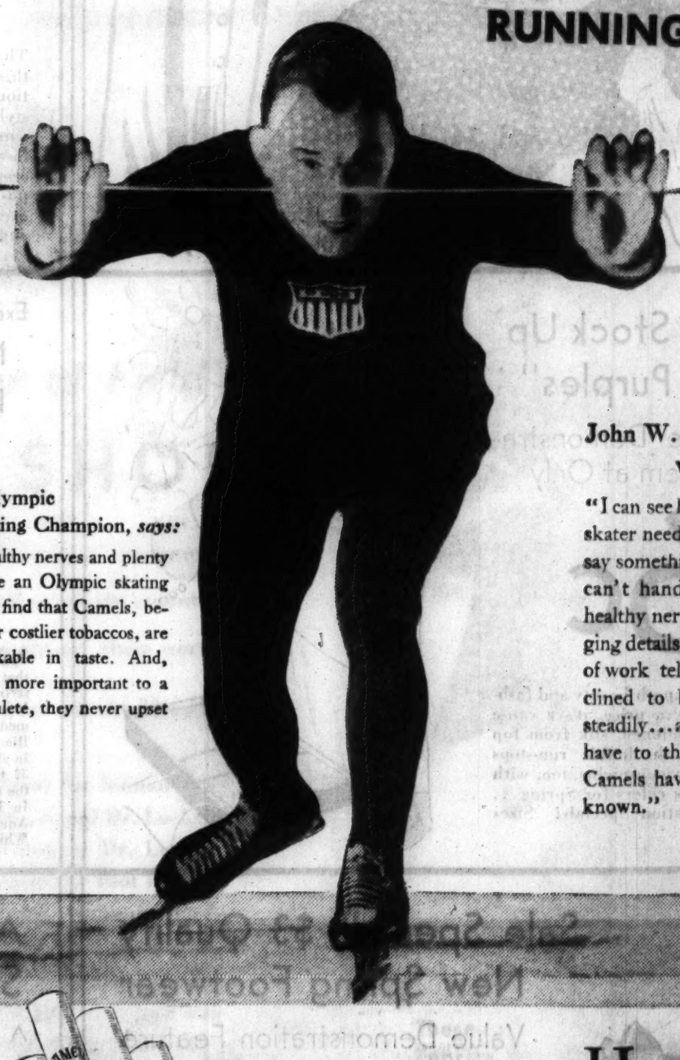
"DON'T LET ANYBODY TELL YOU THAT RUNNING AN OFFICE DOESN'T TAKE HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. JAFFEE ——"

Copyright, 1934, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company



Irving Jaffee, Olympic Speed Skating Champion, says:

"It takes healthy nerves and plenty of wind to be an Olympic skating champion. I find that Camels, because of their costlier tobaccos, are mild and likable in taste. And, what is even more important to a champion athlete, they never upset the nerves."

John W. Grout, Office Manager, who hails from Detroit, Mich., says:

"I can see how an Olympic champion speed skater needs healthy nerves, but just let me say something here that is also true—a man can't handle a tough office job without healthy nerves, either. Many hours of nagging details and the pressure of a heavy load of work tell on the nerves, if they are inclined to be 'jumpy.' I smoke Camels steadily...all day long...and I never even have to think of nerves. As for taste—Camels have the finest flavor I have ever known."

How Are YOUR Nerves?

Sooner or later today most of us come face to face with jangled nerves.

If nerves are a problem with you, now is the time to check up on all habits that may affect them—your eating, your sleeping, your recreation. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by trying Camels. Much is heard about tobacco quality, so always remember this:

☛ Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

Note the way "edgy" nerves become a thing of the past. You can smoke more than ever, without a sign of "cigaretty" aftertaste. You'll be delighted to find that Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference—to your taste and to your nerves!

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS

ULTRA-TAN RAY ADDS TO FIGHT ON CANCER CELL

Microscope, Photos Help Latest Technique.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—Cancer cell structure secrets uncovered by a new advance in microscopy are announced in a report to the Franklin Institute by Dr. Francis F. Lucas of the Bell laboratories.

By a new use of the energy in invisible ultra-violet rays to analyze the stuff of which malignancy may be made, he unlocks a storehouse of information about living cells.

Dr. Lucas and Dr. Mary B. Stark of the Flower hospital, New York City, have worked together several years on living rodent tumors.

Revealed by Photographs.

The living tissues are studied by ultra-violet rays unnder the microscope. Passing through the live cells, these ultra-short tan rays lose part of their energy. Photographic plates show by darkened images how much energy a living cell extracts from the rays. And that the amount is not the same in different parts of the same cell.

Dr. Lucas turned this energy upon the nucleus of the cancer cell, within which, scientists suspect, lies the mechanism which produces the wild growth of cancer. Dr. Lucas found that the membrane covering the egg shaped nucleus absorbs energy at a different rate from its center. Even the actual thickness of the nucleus shell was shown. The membranes are about five hundred thousandths of an inch, which places them among the thinnest films in nature.

Differ from Healthy Cells.

A difference between the shells of cancer nuclei and those of healthy cells also was seen, although the experiments still are too few for certainty that this is the general fact. The cancer membranes absorbed less energy than a few normal cells similarly examined. The proportion of energy absorbed in the nuclear membranes of malignant cells was around 12 per cent of the total energy absorbed by the nucleus, and for the healthy ones about 20 per cent.

Some seemingly mild ultra-tan rays are extremely lethal to malignant cells. At their very touch the cells shrivel, shrink, and are killed by a few seconds' exposure. X-ray experts have advanced the opinion after witnessing the result that these weak mono-chromatic rays are many times more destructive to these cells than X-rays or radium. However, they probably lack the power to penetrate very deeply into tissues.

INSPECTORS FIND RAILROAD YARDS SMOKELESS

Engineer F. M. Lakins of the Wabash railroad receiving congratulations of Chief Smoke Inspector Frank A. Chambers and Superintendent of Smoke Inspectors Thomas H. Carey on elimination of smoke from locomotive. There were 150 CWA workers out yesterday aiding the regular city smoke abatement force. Chambers reported finding "surprisingly few industrial violators."

FINDS INDUSTRIES RARELY BREAKING CITY SMOKE LAW

Frank A. Chambers, head of the city's smoke abatement department, went out to look for smoke violations yesterday. In so doing he was following his own instructions to the members of his regular force and to 150 engineers provided by the Civil Works administration.

After making a survey of stacks in railroad yards and industrial chimneys Mr. Chambers expressed surprise at the small number of violations noted. He said he had found railway engines operating smokelessly and the stacks in the stockyards clean, but he observed dense smoke from chimneys of apartment buildings in Hyde Park, where he lives.

Reports will be submitted to Mr. Chambers today on the observations made by his force. Where conditions warant there will be further investigations and observations of chimneys. If these reports show a widespread nonconformance with the city ordinance, the entire force, Mr. Chambers said, will be ordered out on following Sundays to make city-wide observations.

LINER RESCUES CREW OF FISHING SHIP HIT BY GALE

HALIFAX, N. S., March 11.—(AP)—The Red Star liner Westernland reached port today with the crew of the Halifax fishing schooner C. E. Levy, rescued from their battered craft after drifting helplessly for 14 hours in the teeth of a gale.

Capt. Charles Hebb and three seamen were brought to port. Their tiny schooner was dismasted and her strained hull was leaking badly when the liner sighted their distress signals 24 miles west of Chebucto Head.

"We were under water most of the time," said Capt. Hebb. "It looked pretty desperate from 4 o'clock on. At dawn the foremast went. The stick crashed down on the deck in a tangle of rigging and the crew had to cut away the mainmast."

Still Explodes in Vacant Building; Damage Is $1,000

A still explosion started a fire in the four story building at 3603 Indiana avenue early today. No one lives in the building. Damage was estimated at $1,000. Firemen found the metal remains of a still, twenty barrels of mash, and fifty bags of sugar.

POLICE PUT END TO RYDER'S PETTY LARCENY SCHEME

Fred Ryder, 39 years old, 12 South Peoria street, revealed a new wrinkle in petty larceny when he was arrested last night while trying to steal a pair of shoes from a window of Florsheim's store at 32 East Jackson boulevard. He hadn't smashed the window as window thieves generally do. He had cut a round hole in it.

When nabbed Ryder was carrying a kit containing a glass cutter, and a padded brick. He told police that when he saw an article he liked in a window he would cut a circle on the window then knock out the cut circle with the padded brick.

Civil War Veteran, 105, Celebrates; Has 350 Guests

San Diego, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—More than 350 friends of Hiram Reynolds met to help celebrate his 105th birthday. Proud of his claim to being the oldest civil war veteran alive, Uncle Hi, as his friends call him, was no less proud of a letter from President Roosevelt. The President said he wanted to meet Uncle Hi when he comes to San Diego this summer.

DR. LOCKE SHOES

- have given new foot health to thousands of customers
- aroused countless inquiries from all over the country
- brought in daily testimonials that emphasize their worth

IN FACT they have set up a new standard for our shoe business

In one year we've learned a great deal about the human side of selling shoes, thanks to Dr. Locke's methods and Dr. Locke's shoes. Because of the background provided by Dr. Locke's famous clinic, with its daily miracles of cures for foot ills and renewed health . . . we get in close touch with customers interested in Dr. Locke shoes. This interest is widespread . . . friends tell friends, letters and inquiries keep flocking in. We find that our Dr. Locke shoe customers return for second and third pairs, proving their worth again and again. Acquaint yourself with the corrective features of Dr. Locke shoes that give support where most needed, and permit the bones of the feet to assume their normal position.

MR. H. W. GILHOOLEY of the original M. W. Locke Store in Williamsburg, Canada, will be here all week for consultation.

Take advantage of this opportunity to consult Mr. Gilhooley during his short stay in Chicago. All of the new Dr. Locke spring shoes will be on display. Shoe fitting given by experts.

INSIDERS ON AIR MAIL CANCELATION.

Following the cancelation of the air mail contracts stocks of leading companies fell out of bed. Aviation corporation, which was selling for $10.75 per share on Feb. 1, dropped to $4.37 following the President's announcement that the army planes henceforth would carry the mails. North American Aviation stock went to $4.13 the morning after—the price ten days earlier being $8.75. And on Feb. 13 United Aircraft common sank to $17.62 per share, although the stock sold for $37.38 earlier in the month. Other aircraft securities fell in similar proportion.

The stockholders of these companies who continued their ownership throughout suffered losses of 50 per cent and more of the value of their property in about ten days. But some stockholders who presumably knew what was going to happen sold out before the blow fell. And some who were not stockholders sold the stock short, with knowledge of what happens to a stock when the kind of news comes out which was coming out. Who knew and sold before the price went down? And who sold what he didn't have in anticipation of the devastation of aviation stock prices that was soon to come?

The answers to these questions have become available in part. President Whitney of the New York Stock exchange has furnished the senate banking and currency committee, at its request, with the names of persons trading in aviation stocks for the two weeks preceding the cancelation of the air mail contracts. Leading a long list of well known Wall street names are J. P. Morgan & Co., selling 4,500 shares of United Aircraft; Jacobson & Co., 60,800 shares of the same stock; Brandenburg & Co., 36,500 shares of Douglas Aircraft, and James Seligman, 12,400 shares of Curtiss-Wright, 5,200 of Douglas, and 800 of United Aircraft. Other readily recognizable names among the sellers were Tom Bragg, Louis Kaiser, E. A. Pierce & Co., Frank Vanderlip, and Harry Content.

But it was not alone these financial middlemen who beat the gun. A number of aviation holding companies disposed of great blocks of their holdings. The North American Aviation corporation, National Air Transport corporation, and Sperry corporation sold a total of 48,900 shares of Curtiss-Wright and Douglas between Jan. 29 and Feb. 9.

During this period when a half million shares of long stock and about 60,000 shares of short stock in the leading aviation companies were being sold prices held rather firm. For each sale there is both a buyer and a seller. Who were the buyers? The reports do not show this. But there is no great mystery about their identity. While insiders with good sources of information were selling stock rumors were being circulated that the government was about to approve a large military aircraft building program. The buyers in all probability were the small investors, who were seeking a hedge against inflation or who believed that the recovery program would succeed and that the aviation industry would share in the new prosperity.

The financially wise knew what was coming off and got out. Alone to stand the loss in the greatest shock an entire industry has ever received was the small investor—the forgotten man. The New Dealers had forgotten to tell him what was going to happen.

WISCONSIN RETURNS TO STABILITY.

Gov. Schmedeman, the first Democratic executive in Wisconsin in nearly 40 years, has held office in a most difficult time. He has kept his head level and has not been tempted to abandon the lessons of experience and the guidance of human history for untried economic adventure under the guise either of reform or recovery.

The two years of his administration have seen a halt in the exodus of valued industry from the state where it had learned from painful experience that the best it could expect was the worst of it. The assurance of Gov. Schmedeman that honest business and earned success would not be crucified for partisan political advantage has resulted in a return of confidence and the promise of manufacturers that future expansion will be within rather than without the boundaries of the state.

Gov. Schmedeman's campaign pledge to cut the costs of government 25 per cent has been kept religiously, to the relief and gratification of taxpayers. There was a reduction of $15,000,000 in the state's budget for the biennium, and, inspired by this example, the towns, cities, and villages have cut their costs by another $18,000,000 for the two years.

Turmoil among the farmers suffering from lack of market and agitated by selfish leadership has complicated the difficulties of the administration, culminating in three milk strikes within the year. Gov. Schmedeman handled these strikes with consideration for the dairymen, but with full recognition of his obligation to the rest of the state. Experience has shown that his sympathy and firmness reacted to the advantage of the farmers and dairymen as well as to the public at large.

Gov. Schmedeman has indicated that he will be a candidate for renomination and election this year. His services in his first term have given stability to the state and strength to the party. There is at present evidence there will be a scramble by place seekers to contest for all offices under the Democratic standard.

The present executive has earned the fullest consideration and the Democratic party will do itself a good service by returning him.

THE OLD DECK IN THE NEW DEAL.

The purification of the Democratic national committee proceeds in a manner suggestive of a panic of conscience and moralities. The old Cromwellian self-denying ordinance by which the stern and saintly men of the Puritan revolution renounced places on the pay roll, multiplication of jobs, and indulgence in sinecures is apparently in effect again. Even Mrs. Nellie Ross, Wyoming's national committeewoman and director of the mint, has resigned from the committee, joining Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, Frank Walker, the former committee treasurer; Max Gardner of North Carolina, and Robert Jackson of New Hampshire in retirement from the managing board of the Democratic party.

The self-denying ordinance worked more slowly on Mr. Farley, committee chairman and postmaster general in charge of patronage. It has been conceded that Chairman Farley might as well tell Postmaster General Farley what is politically expedient to do as to have Postmaster General Farley talk to himself, but the President becomes the active element of the Farley conscience and bounces the P. M. G. from the D. N. C.

It is also to be remarked that in instances in which place on the national committee has made lucrative pursuits in Washington, either in public office or private practice, ethically undesirable, surrender has not been that of the lucrative pursuits. For this there is no doubt a reasonable explanation. Mr Mullen, for instance, was not politically influential in Nebraska and Washington because he was national committeeman, but he is influential because he is Mr. Mullen. Some one else can take his place on the national committee and Mr. Mullen will still remain the forceful and engaging personality who, because of these qualities, has political power and therefore became national committeeman. The appearance changes but the substance remains.

Throughout the country preparations are now being made for the primaries which start the political processes running. These are the processes of the old deal, out of which any deal must come. The temptation to make a separation between an abstraction called the government and the specific, explicit and human thing recognized as politics may be very strong. Illusions would be happier if governments were derived from some sort of magic in which there were no human ambitions, appetites and frailties, but the source of it is not magic, but human in every desire for particular gain and distinction. The source begins in a tricklet in every political precinct and swells into a river in every state. The prospects for an idealized plan of central government in a planned society can never, in a democracy, be considered or estimated without taking first into account the old deal of getting votes and winning elections. That is the way governments are formed and the unchanging practices of the old methods will forever put their limitations upon the illusions of people that they may obtain in government something wholly contradictory of what they know is in politics.

TRAFFIC RULES AND THE CRIMINAL.

A Baltimore policeman noticed an automobile parked at night without a tail light. This was contrary to a traffic regulation of that city. He inquired as to the ownership of the car and arrested two men for breach of the regulation. At the same time he was told the men had been acting suspiciously. The men were Basil Banghart and Isaac Costner, both wanted in the Touhy kidnaping case in Chicago.

Thus an arrest for what seemed to be a minor infraction of local law led to important consequences in a distant city's campaign against organized crime.

This is not the only instance of the kind, but it underlines the importance of energetic law enforcement. The part played by the automobile in criminal activities makes it worth watching and the police in a stricter surveillance and enforcement of regulations would often catch in their net bigger fish than they expected to land. Criminals are not likely to respect minor laws while they are in the business of breaking major ones and undoubtedly represent a substantial number of traffic violators. A big fish can be caught on a small hook.

EMPTY ARMS.

[Indianapolis News.]

When Dillinger was brought back from Arizona in an airplane—lest some of the gangsters attempt to free him—the prosecuting attorney of Lake county received him with open arms. Then his arms closed around Dillinger's neck, and there was nothing symbolic in the attitude. It had no reference to a rope or a noose. Rather it seemed to express a sort of old-fashioned Hoosier hospitality. The prosecutor posed for photographers, one of his arms around Dillinger's neck and one of Dillinger's arms thrown around his shoulders. Thus the coddling that began when the governor paroled Dillinger was continued and did not cease until the gangster outwitted a small army of guards and escaped from the Crown Point jail. Almost immediately after Dillinger was paroled he began a spectacular career of crime that made him one of the most conspicuous mob leaders in the country. Friends escaped from the state prison, killed an Ohio sheriff, and released him from an Ohio jail. Then, under his leadership, the business of murder and pillage was continued until some of the gang were caught in Arizona. Since Dillinger was returned to Indiana there has been some inclination to lionize him. The jail authorities referred to him as a model prisoner. He played card games with the guards and was "judge of the kangaroo court." Despite the knowledge of what he had done and what he might do the coddling increased, and when his moment came he made the most of it. The prosecutor's arms are empty now and only the photographs of his affectionate pose remain to remind him of the days that were.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

SIR OLIVER LODGE, probably on his death bed, whispers that the veil between this world and the spirit land is growing thinner and thinner and that it will soon be possible under the right conditions to communicate with those we call dead. It is the same wish that has been in the human heart since man first began to be different from the lower types of animal life. But as yet we are no closer to it than were our ancestors in the stone age. And why should the spirits wish to communicate with this world, anyhow? If I ever get away from this world I want to forget it as soon as possible. And I wouldn't come back; I'd be afraid if I did that some hit-and-run motorist would run me down, or that bandits would hold me up, or that the government would jump on me about my income tax.

LIFE MASK.

A SONNET SEQUENCE—FIRST PART.

I.

The voice within my voice is infinite,
There is not much that it would have me say,
For single witness is the name of it,
Alike forever, yesterday, today.
Now that you ask if life is alchemist
And I reply that change is everywhere,
The gentian that an August zephyr kissed
Leans heavier against the chastened air.

But in the cloistered silences of night
I know not where my questioning may turn,
For I may find a panoply of light
Floods dark recesses of the antique urn.

Shall words avail a prisoner parole
Who has a golden compass in his soul?

II.

What shall I say to maples in the spring
In ritual before a throne-set sky?
That life bleeds red with its awakening;
Life is a pale eidolon such as I.
Man grows no higher than his vision grows—
Corn in the ear does not suspect the frost;
The thorn has no communion with the rose,
Nor does a bridge know when the builder crossed.

Bowls of the evening wait for morning fruit;
A ruined summer lately came to trial

III.

My grief is strung like knots along a thread,
Though river grapes are sweet upon my tongue;
Across the world I know that you are dead,
The songs we make will nevermore be sung.
Songs of the Aprils and the flowering Mays,
Expectant summers and the palsied fall;
Do certain winter's cabalistic days
Rest there beside you with the tasseled pall?

Death came in softly through a hingeless door
To wreathe his talisman upon your breast;
Shall inquisition matter any more
When night and morning mingle in the west?

I bind remembrances like sheaves of wheat,

IV.

It matters little that the birches know
Where eagles nest upon a mountain side—
Nor does it matter that I, too, shall go
Beyond the reach of purple-footed tide.
Out of such chaos worlds have tasted breath,
Spinning a little as the yellow leaf
Caught in a whirlpool, certain of its death,
Eddies the swifter, heavy with its grief.

There is no certain essence anywhere,
No magic color and no perfect tone;
No final monarch and no ministry
As voluble as mockery of stone.

For sorrow teaches slowly, pain is swift
As is the passing of an ether drift.

HEALTH OF COAL MINERS.

THERE is general agreement that coal mining is a hazardous occupation. It is hazardous because of danger of accidents, in spite of all the excellent preventive measures that are now made use of. However, this hazard, in terms of rate per ton of coal mined, is much less than it once was, in spite of the fact that mines are deeper now and more heavy machinery and more explosives are made use of.

It is also hazardous from the standpoint of disease apart from accidents. But there is no agreement as to the nature of the diseases which prevail unduly among coal miners. Within a year the United States public health service has made studies which clear up some disputed points. These studies covered thousands of deaths among hundreds of thousands of miners working in half a dozen states. The record studied was that of about eight years in certain fields and twenty in others; and it was compared with the still fuller, more complete, and longer British record.

The opinion once prevailed that coal miners were very prone to consumption. Next there appeared a series of studies which seemed to show that the presence of coal dust, and particularly coal smoke, in the lungs was something of a protection against consumption. This investigation showed that coal miners had a little more than the average prevalence of consumption, but that it was not great.

Hard coal miners have more consumption than do soft coal miners. Something depends on what the so-called coal miner does. There are jobs around coal mines that do not unduly expose the worker to coal dust. The greater hazard to health in the coal industry is that due to the pneumonias, bronchitis, and that group of troubles. The pneumonia and influenza rates among coal miners at all seasons of the year and in epidemic and nonepidemic years are higher than the average. Cities and rural districts inhabited largely by coal miners always have unduly high pneumonia rates. When they have bad health records much of it is apt to be due to the pneumonias. There are apt to be sickly regions in the pneumonia season and waves of influenza hit them hard.

Some of the old reputation for consumption held by such regions should be shifted from tuberculosis to pneumonia. Probably here, too, hard coal mining is worse than soft. Coal mining is recognized as one of the pneumonoconiosis trades. However, there are other occupations that are more potent causes of silicosis, as is generally known.

URIC ACID.

J. H. writes:

1. What is uric acid?

2. Can I correct the situation when there is too much in the blood?

REPLY.

1. Uric acid is a chemical substance formed from cell nuclei. It is formed in the body out of the body tissues and it is also derived from food. The kidneys do not easily eliminate all of this acid, and when some accumulates in the tissues gout and gouty conditions may result. 2. If a person has a gouty tendency he should not drink alcoholic beverages or coffee or tea, or eat much eggs and meat. The most harmful meat products for gouty people are beef tea, roe, sweetbreads, and kidney. The least harmful are boiled beef, canned beef, and roast beef. Among the foods of greatest service in getting rid of uric acid and urates are potatoes, lima beans, and bananas. Eating these is better than taking medicine.

DIABETIC CLUB.

E. W. A. writes:

We, a group of diabetics at Pittsburg, Kas., have formed a diabetic club for our own benefit. It is not for profit. We have put out one circular and we plan to follow with others. Since we have no source of revenue, we ask for postage and a cent or so for cost of a circular. We make urine tests for sugar for a few cents. What service can we render?

REPLY.

There are many diabetic clubs, and therefore you have much experience to guide you.

To your members you can be of great service in teaching them how to examine for sugar and acetone, how to calculate diets and to balance fats and carbohydrates, how to recognize symptoms that are warnings, how to meet emergencies, how to prevent infections, gangrene, and boils, how to live, and how to use insulin. You can put out leaflets with information on how to live with diabetes, how to test, the meaning of tests, reactions, and symptoms, how to meet emergencies.

The greatest service you can render outsiders is to stimulate them to form clubs similar to yours. You might organize a confederation of diabetic clubs. Diabetes is a chronic disease, and diabetics need to belong to diabetic clubs which hold periodic meetings, for confession and renewal of faith, relating experiences, stimulating hope, and building up persistence.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

Oak Park, Ill., March 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—This concerns a chattel mortgage on machinery for $8,975, dated Jan. 28, 1931, payable monthly at $250 and accrued interest, the final note for $225 being due Jan. 28, 1934. The notes have not all been paid because of conditions, and there is still about one-half of the original amount unpaid. 1. Does a new mortgage or [2] a renewal have to be made, or [3] does the original mortgage remain in full force and effect indefinitly without renewal? The mortgage does not specify a definite term, other than to specify the notes by amounts and due dates. The notes are standard [4] chattel mortgage notes. The mortgage was recorded in regular form. E. J. W.

1. Not necessary.

2. A renewal is the ordinary course, since otherwise the creditor would be in a position to foreclose without warning.

3. Yes. The limitation period is ten years from the maturity date.

4. As to third parties, the lien of a chattel mortgage continues for only three years and a renewal is effective for only one year.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AIR RIGHTS.

Neoga, Ill., March 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I would like to know what the rules and regulations are for the atmosphere above the land owned by a property owner. 2. Does the owner have anything to say as to whether a plane can fly over the land or not? If so, would you please answer, stating the laws governing the above question?

J. M. R.

1. Before the invention of the airplane the rule was often stated in the old common law cases that the owner of land owned everything beneath and above his surface area, but obviously this is not workable if it should be interpreted to give the right to exclude airplanes. There have not been many adjudications, but it is reasonably clear that the court will not adhere to the rule as anciently stated.

WANTS TO BE A CITIZEN.

Elmhurst, Ill., March 10.—[Friend of the People.]—I came to this country when I was 17 years old, arriving by way of Canada in 1927. At that time I had a job in my country, Finland, but friends persuaded me to come here. Now I learn I cannot become a citizen, and if I go back there will be nothing for me to do in the way of work. I would like very much to find out if America would adopt me and let me become a good and useful citizen. Finland's quota has been filled, I understand. J. M.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO.—Gen. Senjuro Hayashi, the new minister of war, is known among his countrymen for two things.

First was his daring stroke, as commander of the Corean army at the outset of the Manchurian conflict, in sending a brigade of Japanese troops into Manchuria on his own initiative and before receiving orders to reënforce the Kwantung garrison, which was then suffering badly.

Although the army respects him for his enterprise in Corea, it is not this but his devotion to his mother that endears him to the public at large. While such devotion is nothing exceptional according to western ideas of a son's duty towards his maternal parent, it is something exceptional in Japan, where women have been, from time immemorial, bound to a life of suffering.

It is for this reason that his rule to visit his mother's room whenever he leaves or returns home has won widespread praise. The Japanese newspapers made much of the fact that on the occasion of his appointment as minister of war he immediately went to his mother to convey the happy tidings to her.

Again the public was impressed when, on the same day, to news photographers anxious to have him pose with members of his family, he expresed concern lest the flashlights frighten his mother.

Mrs. Hayashi was 16 when Senjuro was born. Her present age is given as 74 and his age as 58.

The new war minister is fond of Japanese swords and reading. Books on military strategy interest him most. He has no hobbies to speak of.

Unlike Gen. Sadao Araki, his predecessor, Gen. Hayashi is a man of few words. He also differs from Araki in that he has little use for oriental philosophy and idealistic thoughts. During interpellations in the present session of the diet a member of the lower house brought up the question of the dire sufferings of the farmers and pointed out at length that military reservists were clamoring for military control of the country.

The speech took more than half an hour. Gen. Hayashi swept the matter aside in about a dozen words. He replied that military dictatorship could not and would not occur in Japan, so why worry over it.

While it is denied that Gen. Hayashi's appointment was due to a rift in the army, it is pointed out that the new war minister was not too friendly with Gen. Issei Ugaki, former minister of war and until recently one of the most influential military men, or with Gen. Nobuyuki Abe, his successor as commander of the Corean army.

THE CODES DEFENDED.

Evanston, Ill., March 2.—If you were to make an investigation right here in Chicago you would find that the NRA codes are correcting a condition wherein the small manufacturer was really burrowing under business like a mole does in a yard. He was not making any money and was undermining the whole business structure. I know this from actual contact with both buyers and manufacturers.

And if you were to check into this matter fairly you would find that those so-called "small" business people who are doing the crying were actually the "moles."

Why is it you can't be fair in these matters? RALPH O. MCGRAW.

THEY ALL HAVE WRITTEN TO US.

Roswell, N. M., March 6.—In your issue of Sunday, Feb. 25, you had a very striking and remarkable picture of the Carlsbad cavern and the title line under it was also striking, "The Gateway to the Wonder Cave of the Southwest," and then it was all spoiled by the second line, "This is the new zigzag trail leading into Carlsbad caverns, the Arizona cave."

This is very much in New Mexico—on the opposite side of the state from Arizona, and is the outstanding national scenic attraction today. Incidentally, it is the newest national park and is visited by close to 100,000 people each year.

CLAUDE SIMPSON,
Secretary, Roswell Chamber of Commerce.

UNCLE SAM'S PAY ROLL.

Chicago, March 8.—I received word privately yesterday that my pay had stopped. I have been making $125 to $150 per month as an employé of Uncle Sam. Now the public does not know that, though Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement for industry to increase pay rolls and reduce hours, he at the very same moment through Mr. Farley laid off 26,000 men.

I am a government employé and cannot get aid if I ask, even though I draw no pay. What am I to do? The world is depending on the New Deal. Can I?

I am writing this in hope that you will publish these facts somewhere. They deserve headlines. The people should know. W. L.

HAVE THIS ONE ON US, SISTER.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 7.—Like thousands of other American women I am today more familiar with the workings of our government and politics since the New Deal was inaugurated than ever before and your pernicious propaganda leaves me cold. I for one shall cease reading your paper (and no doubt you have already lost thousands of readers) and would enjoy seeing it successfully muzzled under the code or any other way.

If I could afford the price I would much prefer running this letter in the form of a paid ad to all the newspapers in the country. IRENE K. GRACE.

OVERLOOKING GRANT PARK.

Chicago, March 7.—There seems to be no limit to where our ambition to advertise will lead us.

The structure which is being erected for this purpose over the Illinois Central tracks at Randolph street is a glaring example. A long and courageous battle has been waged to beautify Grant park and make Chicago's downtown lake front a feature of city planning unequaled in any other city in the world. Millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money has been spent to accomplish this result. The advertiser seeks to capitalize this expenditure for his own private benefit and is permitted to erect at the north end of this splendid park a structure for an advertising sign of such magnitude as to dominate the whole picture. This beastly thing rears its gigantic frame one hundred and fifty feet in the air and is a perfect example of the extent to which concerns will go in carrying out their ambition for advertising, regardless of how badly they may deface the landscape. They advertise their total disregard of the long years of effort and millions expended in making Grant park a thing of beauty in which all of our people are deeply interested.

Admitting that it may be a monument to some advertising man's genius, the fact remains that it is a blot on Chicago's splendid lake front and warrants the condemnation of every civic minded citizen. C. C. WRIGHT.

PASSES TO THE FAIR.

Chicago, March 1.—In connection with A Century of Progress, it appears from the debates in Springfield that the question of passes to legislators is a matter of considerable interest. But why should legislators, judges, or any other politicians get passes to A Century of Progress? Every pass given them is an imposition on every contributor, every exhibitor, and every pay patron who attends. Every one who accepts a pass is a grafter in his heart.

OSCAR C. MILLER.

THE NEW SALOON.

Chicago, March 9.—No man will contend that the new taverns are not worse than the old saloons. They admittedly are. I know many old time bartenders who have spoken their disgust with the present order of things.

Nor do we have to go to the so-called hot spots in the outskirts to find public indecency. Look at the loop. My once favorite bar in a loop hotel is now disgustingly disreputable. For a time this hotel had a rule that after 2 o'clock in the afternoon a female could not enter the bar without an escort. Now some new competition has developed, so that even this one gesture to respectability has faded away.

Is it not obvious by now that women must be kept out of the bar rooms? Where is the mayor and where is the ordinance he promised to sponsor to this effect? AN OLD CRUSADER.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

PREPARES RADIO TO PROPEL RAIL COACH 42 MILES

Santa Fe Plans Test in Ten Days.

Boise City, Okla., March 11.—(AP)—An attempt is to be made to drive a railway motor car the 42½ miles from Boise City to Clayton, N. M., with power derived from a short wave radio broadcast.

The experiment, sponsored by the Santa Fe railway, is expected to be made within 10 days. The plans are being developed by J. F. Jarrell, Topeka, Kas., head of the road's agricultural development department, and M. E. Gregory of Brentwood, Cal., credited by the railroad with perfecting the apparatus.

The car to be used is of the familiar distillate propelled type used by many railroads for short passenger runs. Two 60 foot towers have been constructed on railroad property here.

Typical Stretch of Track.

Don Roberts, an assistant to Gregory, who has been here perfecting plans for the trial, said the Santa Fe and Baltimore and Ohio railroads, hold an option upon Gregory's invention.

The run from Boise City across the Oklahoma-New Mexico border was chosen for the run because it was considered a typical stretch of the railroad system. It is also some distance from high power transmission lines, Jarrell pointed out.

Gregory, the inventor, is expected to arrive here Monday or Tuesday. He has been working on the instruments for six years, his assistant said.

Operation of Apparatus.

The invention is believed to generate its power waves by a standing wave oscillator, a large double-end vacuum tube. It is a cylinder four feet long and six inches in diameter. Current from a motor generator set at about 7,500 volts is impressed on the plates and fed to the grids of the double-end tube.

Following a process of oscillation, the voltage of the high frequency current developed is tapped from the oscillator and led to the antenna, from which the invisible power supposedly goes into space.

As the coach moves along it apparently will pick up the power on a small aerial and pass it through rectifying tubes the size of an ordinary lamp. The rectifiers smooth out the current into direct current suitable for driving electric motors.

JOHN G. SHARP, CHICAGOAN FOR 52 YEARS, DIES

John Githens Sharp, former assistant treasurer for the Western Electric company in Chicago, died yesterday morning in his home at 1100 North Lockwood avenue. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Sharp was born in Medford, N. J., a descendant of the John Sharp who came to America in 1682. In 1882 he came to Chicago. He worked for the Western Electric company for 35 years, retiring six years ago.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday from a chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Burial will be at Graceland cemetery. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Mary A. Stevenson Sharp, and three children, Mrs. Ethel S. Zimmerman of Harvey, Mrs. Florence S. Murchison of Mount Lebanon, Pa., and Ralph J. Sharp of Chicago.

RUTH MORGAN OF PACIFIST FAME DIES SUDDENLY

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Ruth Morgan, one of the leaders of the organized effort of the women of this country on behalf of peace, died suddenly today at the age of 63.

RUTH MORGAN.

She had been ill since the conclusion of a conference held in Washington in January by the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, over which she presided. She developed this organization in collaboration with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt during the last nine years, bringing together the peace efforts of eleven large national organizations of women in one body. For the last two years Miss Morgan was its administrative chairman.

During its recent session in Washington she was invited by President Roosevelt to visit the White House to present the views of her constituency on international coöperation for peace.

JOHN H. GULICK, FORMER EDISON OFFICIAL, DIES

John H. Gulick, a former vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, who retired Jan. 23 because of ill health, died suddenly yesterday evening in his apartment at 219 Lake Shore drive. Mr. Gulick, who was 67 years old and had been in poor health for the last four years, collapsed as he was reading. He was dead when a physician arrived.

Born in Washington, D. C., Mr. Gulick became an accountant there. He came to Chicago in 1898 and was associated with the Calumet Electric company, which later was absorbed by the Commonwealth Edison company. He moved to Pittsfield, Ill., but returned in 1905 to become auditor for the Commonwealth Edison company. In 1914 he was made vice president in charge of accounting. He was connected with the Public Service company since its organization.

Mr. Gulick was named with other insull directors and officers in the Corporation Securities company indictment. As a director of the Northern Indiana Public Service company at the time of alleged mismanagement, he was also one of seven defendants named in an indictment, charging embezzlement, grand larceny, and conspiracy.

His wife died many years ago and there are no closer relatives than cousins. Funeral services will be announced later. The body will probably be taken to Washington.

Dies During Choir Practice; Cousin Is Killed in Crash

Carbondale, Ill., March 11.—As his voice faded away Lewis Lavender, 27, collapsed and died during choir practice. The choir was singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee" at the Pleasant Grove church near here. At almost the same time his cousin, also Lewis Lavender, and the same age, was killed in an auto accident.

Civil War Veteran, 82, Is Dead in Logansport, Ind.

Logansport, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—Daniel G. Gallion, 88, who served several months as a prisoner in the famous Libby and Andersonville prisons during the civil war, died at his home here today.

BRIEF ILLNESS IS FATAL TO WIDOW OF COLLEGE HEAD

Springfield, Mo., March 11.—[Special].—Mrs. Blanche H. George, 67, widow of the late Dr. Joseph Henry George, former president of Chicago Theological seminary, who was instrumental in merging the seminary with the University of Chicago, died suddenly at her home here today after a brief illness.

Mrs. George was prominent in Chicago social life for many years before coming to Springfield where Dr. George became president of Drury college. She was the daughter of Ansen Northrup, one of the prominent families of Ontario, Canada. The creation room at the University of Chicago is dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. George for their work while with the institution.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at Christian Episcopal church. Burial will be in the Northrup burial lot of Belleville, Ontario, where Dr. George was buried.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 11.—Lieut. Col. Horace C. Brinsmead, former commonwealth controler of civil aviation in Australia and an organizer of the England-to-Australia air mail, died today from injuries received when a Dutch mail plane crashed at Bangkok in December, 1931.

Col. Brinsmead, who was 59 years old, was at that time supervising the experimental transmission of Australian mail to be delivered in London for Christmas. First one, then another Australian mail plane crashed, Col. Brinsmead receiving injuries in the second accident at Malaya. Determined to push on, he boarded the Dutch machine with the mail only to crash again at Bangkok.

The son of a British piano manufacturer, he rose from the rank of private to that of lieutenant colonel in the world war.

RITES TOMORROW FOR MOTHER OF WILLIAM BUSSE

Funeral services for Mrs. Christine Busse, mother of County Commissioner William Busse, will be held tomorrow in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Mount Prospect, Ill. Burial will take place in St. John's Lutheran cemetery at Elk Grove.

Mrs. Busse, who was 87 years old, died Saturday in her son's home at 100 South Emmerson street, Mount Prospect. She was born in Schulenburg, Hanover, Germany, coming to this country with her family when she was 5 years old. Mount Prospect has been her home ever since. She is survived by 132 descendants—six sons, three daughters, 63 grandchildren, 68 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren.

Hollywood Actor Is Found Dead in Hotel Room Here

Boyce Molyneaux Combe, 40 years old, of Hollywood, an actor who was billed to appear at a motion picture theater in a comedy act, was found dead in his room at the Eastgate hotel, 162 East Ontario street, yesterday morning, apparently of a heart attack. After discovering more than 100 telegrams from Rudy Vallee among Combe's effects Chicago avenue police wired the orchestra leader at New York to learn from him who were Combe's relatives.

Thomas Anstey Guthrie, British Novelist, Dies, 77

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—The British novelist and playwright, Thomas Anstey Guthrie, died in London Saturday. He was 77 and a bachelor. Trained as a lawyer, he gave up that profession and in 1882 began publishing novels, among the more recent of which are "In Brief Authority," "The Last Load," and "Percy and Others."

Lieut. Col. E. J. Pershing, Cousin of General, Dies

Atlantic City, N. J., March 11.—[Special.]—Lieut. Col. Edgar Jamison Pershing, a cousin of Gen. John J. Pershing, died last night in the Atlantic City hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage. Born on July 24, 1874, Col. Pershing made his home in the vicinity of Philadelphia, where he was an attorney.

P. F. P. MUELLER, CONTRACTOR FOR MANY YEARS, DIES

Paul F. P. Mueller, veteran contractor who supervised the construction of many buildings designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, died yesterday afternoon at the Mercy hospital after two days' illness. Mr. Mueller, who was 69 years old, lived at 1445 Granville avenue.

Born in Neuenkirchen, Germany, Mr. Mueller came to this country when 17 years old. He became foreman for the famous architectural firm of Adler & Sullivan and directed construction of the Auditorium theater for them. Other projects he supervised included the Garrick and Princess theaters, the old Midway Garden, 38 of the 1893 World's Fair buildings, and the Imperial hotel in Tokio, Japan, which was designed by Mr. Wright.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from a chapel at 4523 Broadway. Burial will be at Graceland cemetery. Surviving are the widow, Amelia, and three children, Mrs. Clara Lanserman of Chicago, Mrs. Thusnelda Boettner, who lives in Germany, and Ralph Mueller, associated with his father in the firm of Paul Mueller & Son.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Mrs. Dewey Pens Book on Serving Wines

Society Is Busy Learning Vintages and Aromas.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT won't be the fault of those of our socialites who know or who realize they don't know and want to learn how to serve and to enjoy wines if Chicago society doesn't become wine-conscious to the nth degree, for "the pretty world" is making a determined effort to become cosmopolitan in this respect.

On Saturday of this week there will be published, privately for the author's relatives and friends, a book entitled "Wines," in which one of our most charming cosmopolites tells what she knows about wines, their vintages, their proper serving, and various anecdotes illustrating what a gift men of various countries of all ages have considered good wines. Mrs. Charles S. Dewey is the author of this little handbook, which, she modestly explains, is only the result of the information she has gleaned from sitting beside diplomats at many dinner parties in this country and abroad.

But we know much more has gone into the making of the book, for even such a delightful listener and clever conversationalist as Mrs. Dewey would have had to supplement the information gained at the dinner table with some research. Not much, perhaps, for Mrs. Dewey's life for the last ten years has been such that she has had the opportunity to learn of the place wines occupy in the social scheme.

European Women Know Their Wines.

European women learn that early in life, but we in this country, particularly for the last fifteen years, haven't had a chance to absorb much of that knowledge. But we're making up for it now with a vengeance and in every household that makes any pretensions to being in the world of society there is talk of vintages and bouquet and real study of the serving of wines.

Mrs. Dewey's husband was assistant secretary of the treasury at Washington for three years and there it was that she began to be interested in wines. Her own household was a dry one, of course, for it was only about ten years ago that the Deweys went to Washington, but on foreign soil in the various embassies the wine list at a dinner was of as much importance as the menu and at diplomatic dinners, just as at every gathering all over the country, conversation often turned to prohibition. And so began Mrs. Dewey's concern with wine and its history, and when her husband's work as financial adviser to the government of Poland took them to Warsaw to live for three years she delved deeper into the subject.

Brings Hospitality of Foreign Lands.

Two years ago the Deweys came back to Chicago and immediately society realized that it had regained a very charming hostess, one whose hospitality compared favorably with the best foreign countries where there is a tradition and dignity in entertaining that we in this young and busy country have not acquired. In gathering material for her book Mrs. Dewey consulted many of the foreign consulates in the city and so interested did M. Rene Grimm Provence, commercial attaché to the French consulate, become in it that he is going to use it as the subject of a talk he will give to the members of the Alliance Francaise on Saturday of this week. Mrs. Dewey, who is president of the alliance, left with Mr. Dewey for Washington last Saturday, but she will be back on Friday.

M. Provence, by the way, is introducing his bride to his Chicago friends and acquaintances, for on Feb. 28 he and Mme. Maria de Sevilla Tubau were married. She is a Brazilian beauty whom he met when he was returning from France not long ago. They are at home at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Italy American Society Hears Notable Tonight.

"Italy's Foreign Policy" will be discussed this evening by Dr. Luigi Villari at a dinner to be given for him by the Italy America society at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Practically all the members of the society who aren't vacationing in warmer climes will be on hand to meet this distinguished son of Italy and to hear him talk. Chauncey McCormick, the president, has not returned from Miami, so Dr. Villari will be introduced by Bernadotte Schmitt.

Some of those who will be at the affair, which is sure to be one of the most enjoyable and interesting the society has had this winter, are Mrs. Wentworth Field, Miss Gertrude McCarthy, Miss Eloise ReQua, Mr. and Mrs. Lorado Taft, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mrs. Olive Dennett Grover, Miss Narcissa Swift, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Welch Dickinson, Robert Hall McCormick, and Augustus S. Peabody.

Dr. Villari, who now is a professor of the University of Siena, was Italian liaison officer with the allied armies in Macedonia during the war and after the armistice was secretary to the inter-allied commission on Smyrna. He has traveled extensively in Europe, the Near East and the United States and has been attached to various divisions of the Italian foreign office. From 1920 until 1925 he was a member of the secretariat of the league of nations. He has written many books and among his best known ones published in English are "The Expansion of Italy" and "Russia Under the Great Shadow."

Mr. McCormick is returning from Miami to be here for Gen. Josef Haller's visit late this week, we understand. Gen. Haller will be in and near Chicago for several weeks and there will be much entertaining for him.

"This one's smart and very reasonable," explained the pretty young saleswoman, Miss Isabel Gordon, to customers at the White Elephant Rummage shop Friday when the junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital conducted its annual spring hat sale. Blooming potted plants also were sold that day and almost every customer carried away a hat bag under one arm and a plant under the other.

Good Morning!

"Do unto the other fellow the way you think he's going to do unto you, but do it first."

"I calculate some fleas are good for a dog. They keep him from worrying about being a dog."

If you read "David Harum" 'way back when, segments of his simple philosophy have clung to your mind though you'd forgotten their source. The picture at McVicker's will delightfully refresh your memory.

To my way of thinking, the piece is ace entertainment—Will Rogers' best movie to date. Rogers so perfectly falls into the character of the canny New England banker who knows folks and horses and whose chief delight is outwitting the other fellow in a horse trade.

Do David justice, though! He only puts over fast ones on those who have 'em coming. And he's like a mosquito—buzzes before he bites. Also, his reputation for shrewd dealing is no light hid under a bushel, so nobody really has a kick coming.

It wouldn't be fair to tell you the plot of this film. As a matter of fact, there really isn't much of a plot—just the quietly humorous depiction of a richly human life which, as it touches other lives, gives you an insight into their fun, sorrows and romance.

Much of the drollery circles round Harum's dealings with Deacon Perkins, a hypocritical pillar of the church. The deacon likes to hoss trade, too.

There's a lot of passing back and forth of a certain balky steed with a colored attendant, Sylvester. Sylvester always is thrown in with the horse. The job of the dark man is to follow the horse and, when he balks, lead him home. The seller, of course, never mentions this to the buyer. Sylvester is supposed to be lagniappe.

It takes beautiful Ann, who for romantic reasons buys the animal, to discover what will make him go. To the tune of "Down Goes McGinty," Cupid will skim blithely over the ground no matter how firmly a moment before he has been sot on his own four feet, and for "Tra la la la boom-de-aye" he will pass all comers. . . .

The trotting race toward the end of the picture is one of the most uproariously funny episodes ever screened. Alone in a projection room I laughed till I cried. . . .

Louise Dresser, who was Rogers' wife in "State Fair," plays his spinster sister this trip. She delivers one of her customary fine performances. Lovely Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor take capable care of the romantic angle. Charles Middleton does Deacon Perkins to a nice brown turn, and you'll get a kick out of all the other impersonations.

The story's locale is a New England town of the nineties, and scenery, sets and costumes have a delightful authenticity.

A clean, engrossing, exceedingly amusing movie—"David Harum"—that you and your children can enjoy together.

Business Women's Week Inaugurated with Tea; Seek Jobs for 10,000 in U. S.

The seventh annual National Business Women's week opened yesterday with the goal of obtaining 10,000 jobs in a seven day drive by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, sponsors of the event. In Chicago a reemployment conference and tea was held in Hotel Sherman by business and professional women's organization of the city and state.

More than 10,000 "white collar" women were given work in the last year through the efforts of the national federation, it was announced by Carol Willis Hyatt, publicity chairman, who spoke at the tea. Special guests included Jessie M. Sentney, president of the first ten Chicago area districts of the federation; Celia M. Howard, president of the Illinois federation, and Mrs. Edward J. Kelly.

Conferences on the employment question will be conducted throughout the state during the week. Speakers at these meetings will include Lena Madesin Phillips, international president of the federation, and Gelina MacDonald Bowman, national president, who yesterday received a letter from President Roosevelt at her home in Richmond, Va.

"Because of the widening of women's horizons through recent decades, they have acquired such a knowledge and understanding of human needs," the President wrote, "that they are qualified to make a valuable contribution to our program of national planning for social justice."

Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, president of the Women's National Press club and a member of the Washington staf of THE TRIBUNE, will speak at a luncheon to be given Wednesday by the Chicago Association of Commerce in compliment to business and professional women of the city. Women's editors of three newspapers will be among the guests. Miss Genevieve Forsberg, president of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, will president at the affair, to be held in Hotel Sherman.

Legion Auxiliary to Give Luncheon for National Head

Mrs. William H. Biester Jr. of Philadelphia, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, will be the special guest at a luncheon next Saturday at the Medinah Michigan Avenue club by the Chicago and Cook county units of the auxiliary. This will be the first official visit of Mrs. Biester to Chicago. Mrs. Gaylon C. Kent, Illinois department president, and Mrs. Ethel Schlupp, president of the Cook county council of the auxiliary, will be hostesses during Mrs. Biester's visit.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Girls in Uniform," the drama upon which the much-discussed cinema play was based, came into the Blackstone theater last night as a happy surprise for its audience. This is a made-in-Chicago production, representing Charles K. Freeman's ambition to stimulate the stage of this community. Moreover, it comes from the workshop of an experimental, or amateur theater—that of the Jewish People's institute, with a few auxiliaries from the professional ranks.

But it stands on its own merits, as a drama of strong appeal and unusual atmosphere, interpreted with excellence in every department. Many plays that came from Broadway have been less effectively treated.

It has begun to appear that the Chicago stage, if it is to remain alive through this lean period, must manifest the creative spirit. This persuasive, sincere and skilful presentation of "Girls in Uniform" is an encouraging step in that direction. It communicates, to a highly satisfying degree, the values to be found in a drama of delicate and searching emotional moods. I give this staging of "Girls in Uniform" professional rating, and suggest attendance as an interesting adventure in play going.

The story that this work by Christa Winsloe tells is, of course, familiar by reason of the great vogue that the film version attained in this country. It deals with a girl's school in modern Prussia—an institution for the education and discipline of the daughters of the minor aristocracy and military caste. Its central figure is a sensitive novice in this cold, unemotional, rule-ridden place—a girl who has lost her mother and who transfers all the dreams of her imaginative soul to one of her teachers, whom she worships hysterically. This girlish "crush," affectingly dealt with by the author and clearly not intended as a subject of abnormal psychology, leads into tragedy.

The tragic ending was averted in the cinema version, in order to make the film more saleable. But here, at the Blackstone, you may discover what actually happened to distraught, tender young Manuela, when she learned that her adored teacher has been forbidden to speak to her. She kills herself, and this stroke of tragedy is profoundly touching.

The rôle of Manuela is admirably played by Shaindel Kalish, an attractive young actress who finds and expresses the reserved charm, the girlish innocence and the high-strung temperament of the character. Sunda Love, who has made some appearances at the Punch and Judy theater this season, is excellent as the teacher who is Manuela's idol. Every other role is in good hands, and even the casting of a man—Francis Gregg—as the martinet headmistress finds me raising no objection.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Easy to Apply

One of the things we wish the powers that be in the cosmetic world would get into their heads is simplification. Things have reached the state where a girl bent on no more complicated pursuit, say, than the chastisement of a single blackhead, has to use too many bottles and jars. It is a lot of trouble and it is hard for us working women whose incomes won't stretch for buying sprees of numerous pretty packages.

With this in mind we are pretty much enamored of a different kind of beauty treatment we stumbled upon in a Chicago shop the other day. It's simple, involving nothing more than a bottle and a small brush with which to apply the amber colored contents. Its makers describe it as a complete facial: it can be used preparatory to a makeup or as an overnight beauty treatment. We tried it both ways and liked it.

If used at night, the procedure is simple. Go through all the usual nightly motions so that the face is thoroughly clean. If cream is used, remove every trace of it before applying the beautifying liquid. Unlike most solutions with an opaque powder base, this one is not shaken before using; on the contrary, you must make certain that the powder is completely settled at the bottom of the bottle. The small, soft brush is dipped down to this mass of powder, brought up through the liquid to the top and then used for the face painting operation. The solution dries on the skin in about fifteen minutes; there is no sensation of tautness, however. You'll go off into slumber all unconscious of the fact that your face is coated.

In the morning all you have to do is splash a bit of water in your eyes to wake them up and to go over your face with dry cleansing tissue to remove such solution as remains on the surface. Most of it will have disappeared from sight, but a dandy make-up base will be there just the same. And that's that. Powder your nose, rouge your cheeks, have a little lipstick—and you're all set.

Neat Clothes Closet Helps Girl to Make Most of Appearance

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Clothes closets would have been a little out of our line a few years back, but not since closets have become the daintiest of household corners. And the beauty psychology that lies therein!

There's a powerful influence, on the lady's appearance, tucked away behind that closet door and dresser drawer. You simply cannot throw hat, coat, and shoes into one of the up to date cupboards.

There's a place for shoes up and off the floor where they won't get scuffed around. There are stands for hats, guaranteeing longer life and a current smartness to the chapeaux in use. There are stocking drawers into which you could not bear to chuck, a worn pair, or holey. And there are built-in drawers for lingeries, with quilted silk pads for lining.

Perhaps you cannot afford one of the grand exhibit A closets but, if you're handy with the needle and the hammer, what you can do with an ugly clothes cupboard is amazing.

It's getting on to spring cleaning time, if it isn't here already with you. Why not trick out your closet and do a little rejuvenating work on the bureau drawers? The psychological effect which care of clothes has on the woman's general upkeep is the important thing.

New Handbags Do Things for Color Schemes

Will Match Your Scarf or Provide Contrast.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They're doing some daring things with handbags. It used to be a comparatively simple thing to acquire a proper handbag to go with practically your entire street wardrobe, but those days have vanished.

Now you can follow the line of least resistance and match your bag with your shoes or gloves, or really tax your skill by accomplishing the unusual. Try the new combines, a neck scarf and matching bag, and preferably the checks or stripes.

You can buy a swishing taffeta scarf of wide, wide checks and find a swanky square or oblong bag that is made of the same silken splendor as the gay scarf . . . or you can get into stripes around the collar and clutch smartly under your shopping arm, the exact duplicate in colorful stripes in the shape of a bag.

The same teaming is done with stunning swatches of tweed and dizzy woolens in plaids. There is unquestionably, any and every plaid, check, or striped effect you could possibly want, every color and every color contrast.

Patent leather bags aren't the stiff bulky things they used to be. The new arrivals are things of shining smartness . . . from superflat affairs that will hold lots more than you think, to big frightfully effective numbers that are deep enough to hold everything you own in the way of extras. The boxy models are new and are perfect for the lady with a weakness for huge three letter block type monograms.

Patent leathers in eye striking colors are just what you will want for a dull rainy season. Match them to your newest patent leather belts, or the clever patent leather hat bands and you can glisten on the dullest day.

Bright yellow bags contrast tweeds and street woolens, while red seems the natural affinity for all the navy blue costumes. But try the red shade with gray, and beige, and even the right shades of brown and green, and you'll see what contrast should be. And nothing enlivens a black outfit like the flash of scarlet in belt, or handbag.

BLUE RIBBON FICTION

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

INSTALMENT I.

THE FOURTEENTH GUEST.

On the upper floor of a luxurious apartment in Paris a woman, stout, middle aged, and American, suddenly woke up. Very late, she hazily decided—or else very early. In either case, why was her reading lamp turned on?

As her hand brushed the smooth cover of a book her question was answered. Of course! She had dropped asleep over a particularly abstruse work on philosophy and, when she recalled whose the work was, an unreasoning, half guilty qualm darted through her.

Wide awake now, she glanced at her watch to find it had run down for want of winding. Surely, she thought, it was much later than 11:30, with no sound coming from the salon. Perhaps, forsooth, the party downstairs had trooped off to some shady night haunt to prolong celebrations till daybreak. It was a usual proceeding on the part of the girl she had rashly engaged to shepherd into quieter ways. As though she, or any one else, were equal to such a task!

She slid her plump feet into mules, flung a dressing gown round her, and crept along a passage to peep very cautiously into another room. No one there. She leaned over the balustrade and listened. Not a stir.

Hugging her peignoir closer, she started downstairs, feeling as she neared the bottom a current of air chill and dank as the breath of a carnel pit blow against her ankles. Why—the front door was open!

She shut the door firmly and turned toward the salon. Her hand was on the switch when the big clock of Notre Dame boomed a measured five. Five in the morning! And Dodo not yet in. . . .

Suddenly she grew tense, an expression of outraged incredulity overspreading her features. Was this breathing she heard? Yes, steady, rhythmic breathing, punctuated by a few frank snores. Good heavens! Then they had not gone out at all. They were sleeping, the whole lot of them, heavily, stupidly. Dead to the world! Through a thick fog of cigaret smoke she could just make out the blurred forms of men and women in evening attire, huddled in chairs, on sofas, some outstretched on the floor. Helpless, grotesque, not one moved at her approach. She gasped, tightened her lips, and eyed them with deep repugnance.

Now she was angry, realizing the trick that had been played on her. Dodo herself had planned this escapade. That was what she was up to when, the instant she knew no curbing influence was to be on hand, she had flown to telephone her star guest. Bullied him into complaisance.

To confirm the assumption the gross, heavy limbed figure sprawled across the hearth rug was sleeping as soundly as the rest. Why hadn't she guessed? Where, oh where, did Agatha's child get her depraved tastes?

Was that Tommy Rostetter's sleek black head propped against a chair? How was it he had fallen in with this unpleasant scheme? And the young girl, her fellow countrywoman, where was she?

Failing to locate her, she concentrated on her youthful charge, who with characteristic selfishness had taken possession of the one comfortable couch. Full blown, careless, she lay in a swirl of tumbled chiffon, dark hair clinging moistly to her forehead, right arm dangling loose with the finger tips just grazing the carpet. Lips parted—but how quietly she slept! Uncanny, this. Physical disgust made the watcher draw her skirts aside to avoid contact with a black clad body as she bent down to touch the bare arm from which she could have sworn the stored heat pulsed.

She knocked over a cluttered ash tray. The next instant orange light flooded down to disclose a dark circle of wetness soaked into the damask couch, flimsy draperies sticky and crimson. She rubbed her fingers over the spot, then stiffened all over, throat too constricted to scream.

Thomas Rostetter cast his eye glumly round the table and decided he had seldom encountered a collection of human creatures which pleased him less. Could a glimpse of the near future have been granted him, it is quite likely he would have flung down his napkin and bolted headlong into the night. As it was, less occult than hungry, he sighed with resignation and helped himself bountifully to the excellent caviars.

After all, he reflected in mollified strain, here at his elbow was an oasis in the desert of boredom—a girl refreshing to view, with crisp tulle ruffles throwing into relief the precise combination of dark red, satin smooth hair and apple blossom skin which had always won his admiration. She was the girl he had been instructed to look after. Well, he was willing enough to do it, seeing how utterly different she was from her jaded companions, but did she require his services? Serene, assured, and, despite the story he had recently heard, buoyantly gay, she was entirely engrossed in the weary Russian on her right. If she was drinking just a little too much champagne he could hardly be expected to tap her on the shoulder and beg her to desist. Once only had he seen her before tonight. Probably he would never meet her again. Indeed, his being here at all was a matter of chance and weak mindedness in not being able to say no to a woman's request.

That the woman in question was Helen Roderick, the hearty voiced editor of L'Etoile, and his friend since the De Bertincourt mix-up, offered some slight excuse, for Helen was not one to take no when what she wanted was yes. He had his Times article to finish? Well, and what of it? A journalist with his small regard for truth could dash off three thousands words in no time. Besides, she was in bed with a splitting headache, and must by hook or crook lay hands on a substitute to take her place at dinner. Otherwise there'd be thirteen. Her apartment was still let, and she was staying on the Ile St. Louis. Dinner was at eight. Black tie. Now hustle! The receiver banged down, cutting short his protests.

Eternally good natured, Tommy hustled, to such purpose that half an hour later he could have been seen shaven and scrubbed to a tingling rosiness, bare, black head gleaming with brilliantine and round blue eyes surveying the world with bland cheerfulness, rushing his two seater round the squat towers of Notre Dame, over the bridge, and into the nostalgic calm of the farther island. It was the fag end of September, Paris' down-at-heel season, but here the air held little taint of stale petrol, while the traffic honking and fretting its way along the opposite quais seemed remote, like the echo of a former life.

Another echo, or so he had thought, was the stately ivy clad house before which he alighted. He knew it well, even to the moldy green fountain splashing in the court, and the urn-filled niches along the staircase, but though he racked his brain he could not remember who among his old acquaintances had once lived here.

Nor could he place the elderly Italian butler who, one flight up, stood framed in a lofty doorway, gazing respectfully upon him with lashless eyes as hard and opaque as brown marbles. Undoubtedly he had seen this man before. The gray, cropped skull and dried ascetic features were every bit as familiar as the building itself. It was not even surprising to find himself addressed in perfect English when he was informed that Miss Roderick would like to see him and would he kindly step this way?

BY MARY MEADE.

And after "soup of the evening, beautiful soup"—what?

Sandwiches, say I. Soup and sandwich suppers for all you lovers of alliteration and luscious things to eat. And this time by sandwiches I mean none of those dainty tid-bits, minus crusts, that we've learned to turn out by the dozen for ladylike teas and such. Far from it! I refer to the hot and hefty laddies sporting two or three man sized slices, plus filling, plus all their original crustiness. One of these per member, following after hot bowls of cream soup, flanked by crisp slaw, and polished off with dessert and coffee, answers the supper or lunch problem to perfection—and with a thousand chances for variation, all at the whim of the icebox. As a starter:

HOT TUNA FISH SANDWICHES.
(With Quick Mushroom Sauce.)
1 can tuna fish
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 medium can of mushroom soup

Drain the fish and heat it in the top of a double boiler. Meanwhile melt the butter and blend the flour with it. Add the soup gradually and stir until thickened. Turn out the hot, flaked tuna onto slices of golden brown toast and pour the mushroom sauce over the slices. Garnish with gherkins or a spoonful of green tomato relish tucked into a curl of lettuce.

And with warm days around not too many curves in the road and tomatoes from out of the state already rolling around on the vegetable counters I give you a toast—likewise on toast:

BAKED BEAN AND TOMATO SANDWICH.
1 small can baked beans
6 slices bread
2 tomatoes
Salt and pepper
12 slices bacon
1 tablespoon brown sugar

Turn out the baked beans and mash them until they're just spreadable. Toast the bread on one side only. Then spread the untoasted side with the baked beans. Over this slip slices of tomato and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top each open sandwich with two slices of bacon and sprinkle with the brown sugar. Grill in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) under the broiler until the bacon is browned. Serve with a tuck-in of parsley—the sandwich very hot.

Cheese is something else with which to conjure when there is a lineup of sauces and this and that as accessories to the fact.

ROQUEFORT AND DRIED BEEF SANDWICHES.

We're quite used to sandwiches with two breads and a spread, so here's one for a change with two spreads and a bread! Cut six thin slices of bread and spread each on both sides with mayonnaise. Cream a 1½ ounce package of roquefort cheese, making it soft with mayonnaise. Press a slice of dried beef smoothly on each side of each slice and roll each up, securing it with woodpins. Toast these tantalizing rolls of flavor and serve hot.

Grated American cheese mixed with tomato catsup and spread lavishly between slices of white bread toast is another masterpiece of goodness. Or add to that spread a small onion, minced, stuffed olives chopped fine, and a tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce for added yumminess. Now trim the crusts from a loaf of bread and cut it in lengthwise slices. Spread the prepared mixture thinly on each slice in turn and roll each from the end. Allow these rolls to stand for two hours, then slice them and lightly toast the slices before serving.

Which leaves Oyster Sandwiches yet to be accounted for. The way is this:

OYSTER SANDWICHES.
1 pint oysters
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Chili sauce
Whole wheat bread slices
Bread crums for dipping

Season the egg with the salt and Worcestershire sauce. Dip the oysters in this. Roll them next in fine dry bread crums and fry in fat until golden brown. Toast and butter the bread, place four oysters between each two slices, and as a final dash add a sprinkling of chili sauce.

Slim Incomes Need Not Mean End of 'Dating'

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You young men who are out of work or working on small salaries ought to give the girls a chance to show what stuff they're made of, instead of avoiding them.

Almost every day a tale is told us of the girl willing but the boy afraid to encroach on her time without having money to entertain her. It's all grand and noble and self-sacrificial of you young men, BUT the silence and your absence obviously are not appreciated. The girl reads another meaning into your motives.

Why not give the girls a break? Let them decide whether they can take you in your lean days with grace similar to that shown in your more properous ones?

After all, we've all had to shake ourselves free of much of what we used to refer grandly as "our pride," for the more practical adaptations that life now exacts. Why can't you young men come off that high pedestal, too?

Let us present today's case. The girl adores the young man, but because he is so financially handicapped he has kept away from her for six months. She maneuvered a recent "date" sans cost to either young man or girl. At leavetaking he told her he loved her. That if he had the money he'd marry her right away. But he could not and would not hang around when he had no money to spend on her.

We like the spirit, it's true. But then we like a lot of other brands of spirit that have had to be bent to the prevailing winds, such as counting pennies where heretofore money was spent with wide open hand and doing jobs that heretofore were thought menial, saying honestly you cannot afford such and so. We think a young man who shrouds himself in one of those terribly prideful wrappings just isn't acting in the spirit of the day. These are nothing if not practical moments we're going through right now calling for a lot of readjustment of old principles.

True, it is discouraging not to have the money to take the best girl out—but if she doesn't mind why cut off this course of happiness revenue? Beside, you need a girl to keep your courage up.

Chicago is Miss Lillian Weaver of Andrebrook at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson and Andrebrook at Munich, Germany, two small schools from which many of our most accomplished women have been graduated. Thursday afternoon Mrs. Killian Nicol, president of the Andrebrook Alumnæ association, and Mrs. Edwin Johnson Jr. gave a tea for Miss Weaver at Mrs. Johnson's home in Highland Park. This afternoon—after Miss Weaver has talked at Roycemore school in the morning—Mrs. Robert Baker will give a tea for her in Hinsdale.

Members of the Andrebrook alumnæ in and near Chicago include Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy Jr., Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Carleton Blunt, Mrs. Eric Lambart, Mrs. William McCormick Drake, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., Mrs. Niblack Thorne, Miss Jean Watson, and Miss Jane Moist.

English Speaking Union to Hear Former Official.

Hugh Dalton, British undersecretary of state for foreign affairs under Arthur Henderson from 1924 to 1931, is here in town today to address the English Speaking union at a 12:30 luncheon at the Palmer house. Thoroughly conversant with foreign affairs, he will discuss "The Problems of International Relations."

The fourth of a series of five Lenten lectures for the benefit of the Chapel guild of the Cenacle will be given this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Lake Shore drive hotel by the Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard. "Sentinels of the Bering Sea" will be his subject. Father Hubbard, head of the geology department of Santa Clara university, has just returned from his seventh annual trip among the volcanoes of Alaska. His talk will be illustrated with films taken on his most recent trip. Miss Gertrude McCarthy and Mrs. Henry C. Murphy are hostesses for today's lecture.

Mrs. Albert Bruce Wegener, Mrs. Wallace Grosvenor, and Mrs. J. T. Pickerill will be hostesses for the tea following the Lake View Musical society concert this afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. Herbert Alden Seymour is president of the society.

Mrs. Shaw and Daughter to Journey to Black Sea.

Mrs. Howard Shaw will be leaving March 22 for New York, where she will meet her daughter, Miss Theodora Shaw, who has been visiting the John T. McCutcheons on Treasure island, their home in the Bahamas, and together Mrs. Shaw and Miss Shaw will embark upon what is sure to be one of the most interesting and unusual of their many travel adventures. They are going to take a freighter to the Black sea and they don't expect to be back at home until early June. Their leisurely and long journey will take them to or near Turkey, the soviet union, Rumania, Bulgaria, Spain, northern Africa, Sardinia, Sicily, Greece, and Crete, so they undoubtedly will visit many interesting spots.

Mrs. David T. Buffington will be hostess to the Kentucky society tomorrow afternoon at her lovely home at 1232 Asbury avenue in Evanston. After a program of music there will be tea.

Mrs. Clyde Blair of Winnetka will be hostess this afternoon to the members of the prize committee of the Sunbeam league charity card party to be held April 3 at the Stevens. The committee, with Mrs. Blair as chairman, includes Mrs. John J. Chalmers, Mrs. Harold Burnham, Mrs. Helen Clow, Mrs. John Brossard, Mrs. Richard A. Mayer, Mrs. Robert O Farrel, Mrs. Edward L. Lange, Mrs. Edwin O. Griffenhagen, Mrs. James J. McKenna, and Mrs. Albert C. Buehler.

North Shore Vassar Reunion to Be March 16.

Mrs. Charles Edwin Galloway is opening her handsome residence at 940 Private road in Hubbard Woods for a spring reunion of the north shore Vassar alumnae the evening of March 16. The program to be given by Miss Hope Summers will present "Mary of Scotland," a play that has attracted New York theatergoers this season. A reception is to follow the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton are at home from a short trip to London.

The Hayden B. Harrises have docked in New York after a Mediterranean cruise. Mrs. Harris will follow her husband home late this week. She is visiting her daughter, Valeria, who is in school at Mount Vernon seminary.

The John R. W. Sargents and their daughter, Miss Florence Sargent, sailed from New York Friday for California, via the Panama canal. In Pasadena they plan to spend a week with Mr. Sargent's brother, Homer E. Sargent, a former Chicagoan, before returning to Chicago.

Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, who returned recently from a West Indies cruise, found herself afflicted with the travel bug and immediately persuaded Mr. Dawes and the Arthur Leonards to accompany her to Bermuda. The quartet will be away three weeks.

The L. Bernard Kilbournes of Scott street are leaving shortly for Mexico City, where they will spend a few days before taking motor trips through the surrounding country.

Princess Lines of Formal Frock Are Adaptable to Lace

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

There is nothing prettier for a formal frock than beige lace, and this dress is cut on princess lines which lend dignity and grace. It's easy to make, and should be inexpensive. Another darling material would be a checked taffeta in red and white.

The pattern, No. 2547, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years.

Duck's-Foot-in-the-Mud.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a quilt block of many names and many histories, popular since 1800. In Ohio and Pennsylvania "Duck's-Foot-in-the-Mud" was known as "Bear's Paw," with several so-called "authentic" tales to verify its name. From Kansas comes the story of its name as "Hand of Friendship," but, with sufficient imagination, one can readily see the imprint of a duck's foot.

N. Y. Producers Take Chicago Off Stage Map

Two or Three Plays Will Come Here Later.

New York March 11.—[Special.]—A survey of theatrical producers today revealed that only two or three of the thirty shows now current on Broadway are definitely headed for Chicago.

This situation prompted inquiries of a number of producers as to why they are not planning Chicago runs. The answers were varied, but when simmered down they amounted to simply this:

"Chicago lacks audiences!"

This plaint was iterated and reiterated, especially by Lee Shubert.

"Chicago has become such a bad theatrical town that producers do not want to send their shows there," said Mr. Shubert. "It is no secret that they can't make any money in Chicago."

"The Fair, opening June 1, should help, shouldn't it?" Mr. Shubert was asked.

"No, I can't say it will," he replied. "The Fair didn't help the stage last year, and the producers can go only by their experience."

As for the "Ziegfeld Follies," which is now running here under Shubert sponsorship, Mr. Shubert said he expects it to continue its Broadway run until June.

"After that," he said, "the 'Follies' may go to Chicago, and then again it may not."

Other producers were not so outspoken as Mr. Shubert, but their remarks had the same tone.

Augustus Pitou of the United Booking office, the clearing house through which New York productions are sent on tour, said that at the moment he knew of no play or musical show that was headed for Chicago. He remarked that producers are too pleased with business here to give any thought to Chicago or any other city.

So it went with others to whom the question was put. Max Gordon, Broadway's busiest man this season with four shows returning profits, could not be reached for comment. But one of his assistants, after poohpoohing Chicago as far as the theater is concerned, conceded that there was a possibility of "His Master's Voice" being shipped west in a couple of months, and "Roberta" maybe later.

"As Thousands Cheer," top hit among musical comedies, has had the "standing room only" sign out for 24 weeks. Chicago may get it and may not, it was said, but not before next winter.

Warren Munzell, manager of the Theater Guild, said that no plans had been made for taking its plays on the road. "'Mary of Scotland' and 'Ah, Wilderness' may go to Chicago eventually," he said, but there was more doubt than assurance in his tone.

Eddie Dowling, the man behind the comedy hit, "Big Hearted Herbert," was virtually the only one to voice any enthusiasm for Chicago.

"I can't say just when, but I certainly will take 'Herbert' to Chicago," Dowling said. "As a matter of fact, the play was written for Chicago; it's a homey piece and Chicago, I think, is a homey city. It should be as big a hit there as it is here, if not a bigger one."

Dowling said he was trying now to get together a cast for the Chicago run, and that if he had one he would open there immediately.

Charles Abramson was another of the few who could be found to show any interest in Chicago. He said that his musical comedy, "All the King's Horses," would "surely" get there, but not before next winter.

The only other piece that may try its luck in Chicago is "Richard of Bordeaux," starring Dennis King. The latter's secretary was optimistic enough to say that there was a "strong possibility" of it, some time after Easter, maybe around May 1. The original cast will be taken if the venture is attempted.

Comment to the same general pessimistic effect came from producers of other hits, such as "Men in White," "She Loves Me Not," "Tobacco Road," "Yellow Jack," and "Peace on Earth."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

INSTALLMENT XLIX.

BROKEN BONDS.

When Barbara returned Allen was standing, staring helplessly at her. She started to speak and then checked herself. The thing was too big for recriminations.

"There is no need of being theatrical," she heard Allen's voice say. "Unless you want to advertise everything to the neighborhood I should advise you to wait until the morning."

She looked at him swiftly.

"So you have decided to give me my divorce?"

He came closer and stood staring at her as though she were something strange, outside his experience, and yet in his look was a touch of admiration for a power of sacrifice, that he himself could never achieve.

"You really would do it, Barbara," he said slowly. "You would go against all your tradition—all that——"

"I don't want to but I shall—yes, if there is no other way. Allen, you can't hold me, nothing can hold me back any longer."

There was a moment's silence as they stood looking at each other.

"Then it is yes?"

He nodded.

"I shall leave here tomorrow," he said shortly. "Make what arrangements you please, I shan't oppose any decision you take."

"Thank you, Allen."

"Thank me?" He laughed. "That's the usual conventional thing I suppose—rather unnecessary now. I am doing this simply because I am forced to it. For no other reason. Because you've shown me clearly that to do anything else would put me in a false position. False position—exactly——"

"No, Allen, you're unjust to yourself."

"And I shall of course return to you every cent I have received."

"O, no, no! I won't hear of it," she exclaimed passionately.

He raised his hand.

"You have nothing to say about it," he cut in. "It isn't a question of rights. I have every right to keep it. But I don't intend, no matter what the price—to be made ridiculous!" He saw the flash of derision in her eyes and repeated, "Exactly. I shan't permit you to make me ridiculous."

"All right, all right," she said wearily. The thing was too big to be stopping over a question of his little pride.

"And I shall see to it that what I do is known," he added.

He went out and she stood frowning. His last words had killed in her any feeling of compassion she might have felt for him. Yet she was sorry to have seen so nakedly into the man whose name she had borne. She stood a moment by the bed, mechanically loosening the straps of her bag. Then she went out of her room and down the stairs. The door of her husband's room opened and she saw him against the shaft of light watching her.

"Don't be afraid. I'm coming back."

The door shut. She continued her way. Outside, the gray sky was beginning to color over the indigo hills. Gregory came hurrying to her along the crackling road. She stood and watched his burly figure grow out of the dusk. When he was close, she stretched out her arms and caught him to her. All the strength that had carried her victoriously through the interview with her husband ran out. She surrendered herself weakly to his strength, happy to be absorbed, pressing her lips to his again and again.

"But what's happened?"

She told him rapidly.

"Yes."

"To be honest, I'd rather it had been the other way."

She laughed her low, disturbing laugh.

"Getting afraid now?"

"You know what I mean."

She drew her arms tight around his neck and said abruptly:

"Two years. Promise."

"What?"

"Two years happiness. I'm being very modern."

"What awful rot!"

"Remember what I told you," she insisted. "You know the first night? If I fail——"

"Does this amuse you?" he cut in with a pretense of anger.

"It's best not to ask too much of life," she said in a low voice.

He thought she was still laughing at him, but when he saw her eyes, he was sobered.

"I'll never quite be sure of you," he said abruptly.

"I like that." She ran her fingers over his face, ruffling up his hair. "Keep me away, far away from here. For a long time. Until you've made me what you want me to be."

Spring Enjoyed with a Child Is Doubly Lovely

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Didn't some one say, some time—I'm always a bit wabbly on quotations—that joy shared is doubled and trouble shared is halved?

Did you ever share spring with a child? I mean, of course, with a child who especially loves the outdoors and whose eyes are sharp for every sign of the earth's awakening? That surely is a joy doubled, no matter how thrilling spring may be to you when you are alone in the park, or your garden if you are the proud possessor of one, or rambling through woods and fields.

Did you ever share spring with a child—and, most naturally, your own? If you have never done so, do it this year. Go looking for spring with your children.

And do it early. Don't wait until the leaves are half out and the fruit trees a drift of blossoms—until the woods are a carpet of spring beauties and all the birds are here. Begin long before that. Start looking for spring early. Start when the earth begins to give out that good smell, when you can't see the opening of the leaves near you but have to look off to where a green mist over the trees tells you that something has been happening to the billions of buds.

Whether you look for spring in the parks or countryside, get the children out in the open so that they see the first birds, the early violets and bloodroots, the fuzzy fern fronds. See the skunk cabbage pierce his way through and hear the ripple of the frogs.

If you need a guide to outdoors we have a list of books arranged for just that purpose. A stamped self-addressed envelope will bring it to you.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—The President enjoyed a quiet day at the White House with a short motor ride this afternoon.

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, returned this morning from several weeks' visit in South Carolina.

The Spanish ambassador and Senora de Cardenas entertained at dinner last night in compliment to the speaker of the house and Mrs. Henry T. Rainey.

Senora de Cardenas returned yesterday from New York, where she went with the ambassador to see her brother-in-law, Auffin Ordt, sail for home after a visit here. Senora Ordt returned here today after a visit with friends in New York and will be a guest at the embassy until March 24.

The secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. are spending the week-end at their farm near East Fishkill, N. Y.

The secretary of war and Mrs. Dern entertained at luncheon yesterday Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, and tonight they were entertained at dinner by Col. and Mrs. Earl I. Brown.

Three Musical Events Draw Big Audiences

John McCormack, Chorus, Orchestras Heard.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Three large audiences at three musical events yesterday afternoon were a cheering sign of the times, an indication that the musical field is on its way back to fruitfulness. In the order of their times of starting, they were the joint program by the Chicago Business Men's orchestra and Chicago Association of Commerce chorus at Orchestra hall, the recital by John McCormack at the Auditorium, and the monthly concert by the Woman's Symphony orchestra at the Congress hotel.

That two of these concerts were benefit events, that all had marked points of musical interest, had less bearing on the situation than might be imagined. Other musical attractions have had these asserts and fared less well in the past. Yesterday there was a distinct note of cheer about the proceedings.

The orchestra and chorus at Orchestra hall were announced to give their net proceeds to the community fund of the Allied Chicago Charities. Musically they were a proof of what excellent performances can be given by amateur forces. Each group numbers in the neighborhood of one hundred and both are recruited from the ranks of nonprofessional musicians. Clarence Evans is the conductor of the orchestra, Arthur Dunham of the chorus. Both have labored incessantly and successfully for clear, firm tone, balance, exactness, and bright performance. The two organizations appeared both separately and together, and were liberally and justly applauded.

Mr. McCormack was making his only Chicago appearance of the season almost on the eve of sailing for South Africa, which he is to visit for the first time and where he is booked in a series of recitals. He came here to sing for the benefit of the clinic for the sick poor at the John B. Murphy hospital, and he lingered far after the last number of his program to sing many songs of many kinds with the purity of style and perfection of manner that have long been the McCormack specialty. He says that he will be fifty years old in June, but it will take far more than half a century of years to affect his ability to project a story in song, to create a mood, to be the lyric wizard that he is. Once again words and music were in perfect coöperation. Edwin Schneider, his long time accompanist, was also his assisting soloist, and a first rate soloist, too.

Ras Bernstein, Chicago pianist recently returned from Europe, was the soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra, playing a new and little known concerto by Maurice Ravel. Written in Ravel's cleverest style, the piece is as amusing in its music as his opera, "L'Heure Espagnole," and bids fair to be much more popular. At any rate, yesterday's audience found it so much to be liked that Miss Bernstein finally repeated the last movement. In other words, both music and soloist were brilliant.

Conductor Ebba Sundstrom made use of Borodin's Second Symphony as chief number for the orchestra, also presenting Smetana's "Bartered Bride" overture and the "American Negro" suite by Thorwald Otterstrom of Chicago.

Deferred a week in their announced appearance, Anna Thelma Joseffer, violinist, and Grace Nelson, pianist, two artists of achievement, gave a sonata recital at the Cordon club last evening, playing Bach's third in E and Grieg's opus 8 in F with manner and good tone. They were assisted by Jennie Shepherd, a soprano possessing an agreeable and well trained voice, in a group of songs and arias.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

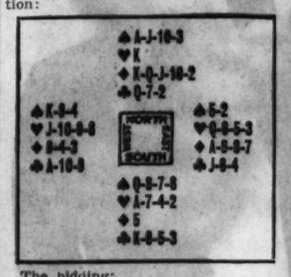
OPENER'S PROCEDURE AFTER RESPONSE OF ONE NO TRUMP.

ALTHOUGH your partner is presumably warning and discouraging you when he responds with one no trump over your opening bid of one in a suit, that does not mean that you should necessarily pass merely because your hand does not permit a forcing reply or an immediate game bid by you.

Caution must now be the main consideration. However, there may be greater safety in rebidding than in passing. A contract of two in a suit may be easier to fulfill than that of one no trump.

There is, moreover, a chance that your partner's hand was not quite strong enough to respond with two no trumps, but was nevertheless much stronger than the message it conveyed—to "sign off." If so, should your hand contain more than the minimum requirements there may be a possibility of game in the combined hands despite your partner's inability to bid a suit. The factor of favorable distribution becomes very important.

At this point consider the nature of your hand. Is it aggressive in type? If so, a suit rebid looks best. If it is a two suiter, though the second suit is of only four cards, but biddable and playable, bid it. The no trump response does to a certain extent deny support for the first suit, but by showing an even distribution in the other three, it rather suggests support for your second suit. If your partner holds four cards in it, and is strong enough not to wish to "sign off," he will raise you in your second suit and you will bid for a game which you will almost certainly make. The following hand illustrates this situation:



The bidding:
North	East	South	West
1 Di. [1]	Pass	1 N. T. [2]	Pass
2 Sp. [3]	Pass	3 Sp. [4]	Pass
4 Sp. [5]	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. A strong aggressive hand. The five card diamond suit is bid first to show length.
2. All of the four card suits are too weak to bid. The hand is not strong enough for a two no trump response. A signoff response.
3. The safety of the hand probably lies in a trump declaration. Bidding the spades after opening with diamonds marks the diamond suit as at least a five carder and the spades as a four carder. This is not a response force.
4. An invitation to partner to bid game. Also assures a minimum of four spades.
5. Following a natural procedure of the system that when we voluntarily get to within one of game we bid for it.

The play:

East opened a small spade. South played the queen and West covered with the king. North won the trick with the ace. To trick 2 North led the diamond ten and East failed to cover. After that it was plain sailing. North taking all the tricks except one, the club ace. North was able to discard one of his small clubs on the heart ace.

Here is where the showing of a second suit was the cause of reaching a game which was unbeatable in spades, even if the spade king had been in East's hand.

Recalls How Garbo Started Rise with Bunch of Violets

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—The man who gave Greta Garbo her first part as an entertainer is in Hollywood. He is Carl Brisson, Danish actor. When Greta was 15 or 16 years old she became so interested in Brisson, then operating the B. B. B. [Brisson's Blaa Blondiner—Brisson's Blue Blondes] cabaret in Stockholm, that she stopped him one time and handed him a bunch of violets.

Brisson is not much of a talker when the subject includes unearthing chapters in the past life of former friends, but he does remember the tall, well formed, frank, wistful appearing girl who then was Greta Gustafson, hairdresser in a Stockholm barber shop when she was 14 years old.

Brisson recalls that he was as embarrassed as Miss Gustafson — the name Gustafson comes more natural to him—at the time. The hairdresser girl confessed she came to Brisson's cabaret theater when her scant earnings permitted. Brisson presented a permanent pass to her.

Brisson one night introduced the girl to Mauritz Stiller, Swedish film director. Stiller was preparing a movie short subject at the time and offered the hairdresser girl a small part. She accepted, elated. Stiller later changed Gustafson's name to Garbo.

Fluffy Furs Are First

And Fox Is Foremost Say the Four Leading Spring Coat Fashions

We've seen to it that the coats themselves deserve their furs—by picking the four outstanding coat fashions of the season to feature in our spring collections.

Silver fox pockets below the waist are news! The skirt of this black ripple-cord coat has fullness to the front. 12 to 20. $38.

A rippled collar bordered in blue-fox-dyed flying squirrel, a slightly fitted line—that's the story of this new coat in navy or runko brown. 12 to 20. At $38.

Moderate Price Coats, Fourth Floor.

Such a wealth of fox is a find! It serves to center interest at the neck and shoulders, bringing out the slim lines of the coat. (The fox is white dyed.) $85.

Azure, beige, or platinum—choose the shades of your fox from these. (It is white fox dyed, and that's most unusual at this price.) The coat in crepe or bark weave woolen, $69.75.

Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

The Tailored Robe Preferred

When a striking brocade print is the fabric. You will like it for traveling or for lounging at home. In black, brown, blue and green, with a flower print. In small, medium and large sizes.

$5.95

Negligees, Third Floor.

Taffeta $12.50

It takes a 1934 fashionable to wear a Henry VIII. Hat!

This one is sponsored by Le Monnier. It has an "air," this hat and no wonder, when you realize that its forebears crowned a royal head. It is perfectly charming in navy blue taffeta but is available in many other up-to-the-minute colors, and may be had in a choice of other fabrics, too. Two flattering views are shown here.

Sheer Smartness

Fashion's Two Most Important Words for Frocks This Spring

For if there is any one fabric that is on the good side of spring fashion more than another—it's sheer. No wonder, say we, for it plays up to every type of woman—it makes the more mature ones seem young, and the young ones, younger—and it has that well-groomed look down to a science.

What's more, sheers enter into everything with perfect savoir-faire—whether it's an afternoon tea, a bridge game, or just a downtown shopping trip. Three of the smartest are featured.

A ribbed sheer suit swings a knee-length jacket over its short-sleeved frock. Shell tucking dresses up the white mousseline de soie front. Navy, black, brown. 36-42. $17.75.

$29.75

A finger-tip jacket measures the chic of this plain sheer suit frock. Spring-struck daisies on a field of polka dots animate the silk crepe top. Navy, black, brown. For women. $29.75.

Women's Better Frocks, Fourth Floor.

Skillful tucking creates a yoke that drops the shoulder line on this chiffon afternoon frock. Mousseline de soie supplies the white accent. In black, navy, brown. 33½ to 39½. $22.75.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The thirty-first International Chicago six day bike race got under way one minute before 9 o'clock at the Chicago Stadium last night.

The trigger finger of Edmund Lowe, stage and screen star, got a bit itchy and the blast of the big shiny pistol in his right hand was discharged 60 seconds too early. Lowe served as the official starter.

Six Spills in Two Hours.

There were six spills during the first two hours of the race. Fifty-two laps were gained during the excitement. And when it had ended two teams were tied for the lead.

They were the Metropolitan team of Jimmy Walthour and Charley Ritter and the Bearcat team composed of Torchy Peden, the red haired Canadian, and Tony Schaller of Chicago. They were making the pace for the field and were one lap in front. Five other teams, headed by Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands, were tied for second.

McNamara Off His Bike.

The first spill came a few minutes after Actor Lowe fired the opening gun. It was Iron Man McNamara who went down. His ancient legs were not functioning just right, and he took a tail spin from the rim of the pine bowl to the bottom of it. Others to go down in the early spills were Fred Ottevaere of Detroit, Trieste from the Chicago Kid team, Victor Hopkins of Davenport, and Dave Lands, who is McNamara's riding partner.

McNamara and Lands were riding desperately, and the spills, no doubt, kept them from sailing into an early lead.

Crowd Is 10,500.

None of the thrills of bike racing was missing for the opening night's customers. The crowd of 10,500 was almost a record breaker. Some came in early and others arrived late, but they all stayed late.

The crowd was at its peak at 1 o'clock when the third set of sprints started. The gathering in the infield was the largest in many years and the hilarity of pre-prohibition days was in evidence there.

The loud cheering honors for the first night went to George Trafton. He was pulling for Reggie McNamara, the old iron man from Newark. In the crowd were Mr. and Mrs. John F. Maginnes of Chicago. They haven't missed a first night at a bike race since they happened to drop in to see the start of the first one way back in 1914.

Mr. Lewis Arrives.

When nearly all the others in the crowd were beginning to feel the weight of their eyelids and a short nap coming on them, Mr. Nate Lewis, the bald eagle of Randolph street, immaculately attired, walked into the infield and ordered a rasher of bacon and a couple of medium boiled eggs and a pot of coffee. Mr. Lewis had just arrived, and there was no telling how long he might stay.

Mr. Lewis has captured more than one staying awake at night endurance contest. Charley Bidwill, who was rooting for the Chicago kid team of Eddie Trieste and Jerry Rodman, threatened to give Mr. Lewis plenty of opposition before the wheels quit turning at midnight Saturday.

The Boys Get Going.

About the time the veil of the March darkness was about to be routed by the sunlight, the crowd was in one of those "good old days" moods. The strains of "we won't be home until morning" and of "Sweet Adeline" all but drowned out the big pumpy organ while it snorted out the tune. "In the Valley," then paused for an instant while the hastily organized choir in the infield—those sopranos, tenors, altos, and bassos whose voices were a bit husky but nevertheless willing—answered back "Yoo-hoo."

4—Ritter, Lands, Gadou, Debaets.
5—Walthour, Ottevaere, Grimm, Severgnini.
6—Thomas, Gadou, Lands, Spencer.
7—Severgnini, Peden, Grimm, Winter.
8—Audy, Rodman, Ritter, Gadou.
9—Wissell, Grimm, Winter, Peden.
10—Ritter, Schaller, Rodman, Lands.

LAFFOON'S 69 ON LAST ROUND WINS IN ATLANTA OPEN

Atlanta, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Ky Laffoon, 25 year old Denver professional, came home with a 69 today to win the Metropolitan open golf tournament with a four round total of 286.

While the early round leaders seemed to have trouble because of cold, biting wind, Laffoon shot a consistent 72 this morning. In the afternoon he dropped a difficult putt to finish out his 69 and defeat his rivals by six strokes.

Charles Lacy, Lakeville, L. I., and Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C., were three strokes to the rear with 295s, while Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., pro who led through the first three rounds, was tied with Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., for fifth with 296.

Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C., 295—$200.
Charlie Lacy, Lakeville, L. I., 295—$200.
Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., 296—$112.50.
John Revolta, Milwaukee, Wis., 298—$60.
Mortie Dutra, Detroit, Mich., 296—$50.
Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., 300—$50.
Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 300—$50.

ST. LOUIS BEATS CHICAGO, 5-3, IN SOCCER FINALS

St. Louis, Mo., March 11.—(AP)—The Stix, Baer & Fuller club, Western soccer champions, today defeated the Wiebolds of Chicago, 5 to 3, in the Western finals of the National Soccer cup competition.

After trailing 2 to 1 in the first half the Stix team rallied to score two goals. The Wiebolds then tied the score at 3 all.

St. Louis broke the deadlock after nine minutes of the first extra period when McLean headed to Nilsen, who made the counter.

The teams will play the second game of the three game series next Sunday in Chicago.

New York Boxers Fight for Golden Gloves Titles Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Thirty-six young fighting men, survivors of the annual tournament conducted by the New York Daily News, will have their big moment at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. From this group will come the 16 who will make up New York's team for the seventh annual intercity bouts against Chicago in the same arena March 28.

The New York finals will be fought before 20,000, the capacity of the Garden, which will be twice the size of the crowd that attended the last Garden presentation Friday night when King Levinsky lost to Walter Neusel of Germany. If the New York Golden Glove contests measure up to other years, the Levinsky-Neusel bout wouldn't deserve a place as a preliminary match.

Pastor Seeks Title Again.

Headlining the program are several old Golden Glove favorites. One of the heavyweight finalists is Bob Pastor, New York university boy who dropped a hairline decision to Max Marek in Chicago a year ago. Both were light heavyweights then. Their match stood out as the piece de resistance of an evening studded with glittering achievements. Both were knocked down but both clambored to their feet to carry on to the final bell. Marek landed the last hard blow, which was the deciding margin.

There are four heavyweights left in the running for the New York championship. Should Pastor be defeated in the finals, he again will face Marek in intercity competition. If he wins the title, as seems probable, he will go up against that bundle of fighting fury named Otis Thomas from the Savoy Athletic club.

Hough vs. Treest?

Mark Hough, Negro middleweight who knocked out John Neigo of Chicago in the second round two years ago, has earned his way to the 1934 finals. He did not compete in the tournament last winter. It appears likely he will be New York's representative against Billy Treest, Chicago champion, March 28. Hough is regarded as one of the strongest boxers the amateur game has developed.

Other New York finalists whose names are familiar to Chicago Golden Glove followers are Louis Camps, featherweight; Frank Williams, lightweight; Joe Ferrone, welterweight, and Gus Lesnevich, middleweight.

Subnovices to Fight.

In addition to the title bouts in the open division, tomorrow night's card includes eight championship subnovice battles. A subnovice is one who before this tournament never had boxed in public competitions. Green unknown kids a month ago, some of them have piled up amazing records to reach the finals. Dave Berg, heavyweight, stands a good chance of earning a place on the intercity squad if he wins tomorrow night. He disposed of all his opponents by knockouts, one of them in ten seconds.

SON'S ILLNESS HOLDS WILSON, DODGERS LEARN

Orlando, Fla., March 11.—For the first time since Bob Quinn, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, met him in Washington, D. C., two months ago, word was received from Hack Wilson, long term holdout outfielder today, from his West Virginia home.

"Will be unable to report on time on account of illness of son, Bobby."

Wilson had been regarded as a holdout since he indicated that the $6,000 salary which he is said to have been offered was far from satisfactory.

M'MILLIN TAKES OVER DUTIES AS INDIANA COACH

McMillin said it was the first time he has stepped foot on Indiana's athletic field since he played against the Hoosiers in 1919 on Jordan field. That Praying Colonels to 12 to 3 victory.

After inspecting the Indiana gym, fieldhouse, and stadium, McMillin conferred with athletic officials in regard to the appointment of his assistants. It has not been definitly decided whether A. J. [Butch] Nowack, former University of Illinois lineman, will be retained as head line coach.

McMillin will open spring football practice tomorrow afternoon.

BILLY HERMAN JOINS CUBS AND SIGNS CONTRACT

Second Baseman Decides to Accept Pay Cut.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 11.—The Cubs' holdout situation, in which Billy Herman, the youthful second baseman, was playing a lone hand, cleared up unexpectedly today. Billy was thought to be on his Texas ranch and nobody expected to see him until the Cubs dropped off at San Antonio on their way home next month. But he leaped out of a plane from the mainland this noon, went into conference with President William Walker, and shortly afterward signed his contract. He took what the club offered him earlier in the winter.

Herman showed up just as Manager Charley Grimm was preparing a speech in which he was going to urge the club president to make an effort to get the balky athlete into camp. Grimm wanted Herman around to share in the spring work, an item that Billy apparently needed after his shaky fielding of last season.

Salary Cut, not Earthquake.

Herman laughed about the stories setting forth that he wasn't keeping away because of salary differences, but because he feared another earthquake such as gave him a thrilling experience one year ago yesterday. Billy declared he was holding out for no reason except that he thought the club had taken too large a slice from the figure named in his 1933 contract.

All the boys had to take an approximate 25 per cent cut, but it is possible that the second baseman's salary reduction was in excess of that in view of his unstendiness in the last campaign.

It is practically a cinch that Herman will continue as the regular second sacker, and that's another reason Grimm desired to have him on hand before the training jaunt was concluded.

Goofs Beat Regulars.

Today's practice game, staged for the edification of about 1,000 island visitors, was nothing to write home about. The Goofs whipped the Regulars, 10 to 1, in six innings. The Goofs, aided by such veterans as the two Herman boys, Stephenson, Bush, and Tinning, stepped hard on the pitching of Ward and Lee, each of whom yielded seven hits and five runs in three innings.

The Regulars did no hitting to speak of while looking at Bush and Tinning. The two veterans surrendered only six hits. One of these was an inside the park homer by English. Two others were singles by Galan. Chuck Klein collected nothing better than a pass and he later paid for this in the shape of a strikeout at the hands of Bush.

Three Hits for Billy.

Billy Herman, although it was his first appearance in uniform, didn't act as if he needed much work. He singled off Ward and hit a triple and double off Lee. Stainback, who a couple of days ago was laid up with an ankle sprain, also was active with the bat. He aided the Goof cause with a single and triple. Score:

May Keep Nine Pitchers.

Grimm admitted today he was thinking he might change plans he had made for retaining only eight pitchers. He has nine pitchers in camp, three of them newcomers. These three had such excellent minor league records that Grimm is beginning to believe it might be wise not to get rid of any of them. Besides the new lively ball is going to make life tougher for pitchers, and no team can have too many. If he doesn't keep nine pitchers he'll have to dismiss either Lynn Nelson, Bill Lee, or Dick Ward. Roy Joiner, one of the three newcomers, must be retained because he's a southpaw.

If nine pitchers remain there will have to be a release of one outfielder or one infielder before the twenty-three player limit becomes effective May 15. It probably will be an infielder. Dolph Camilli, understudy for Grimm at first base, is the one most likely to go if such a move becomes advisable. An extra first baseman can be spared because in the event of a mishap to Grimm, Babe Herman could be moved to first base. The Babe played that corner for a couple of seasons at Brooklyn.

SOX UNCORK 20 HITS TO WHIP ANGELS, 13 TO 8

Bonura and Appling Lead Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—The White Sox got their 1934 exhibition season under way this afternoon by thumping the Los Angeles Angels, champions of the Pacific Coast league, 13 to 8. The game scarcely will go down as a great example of artistic baseball, but the spectacle seemed to entertain some 5,000 customers just the same.

The White Sox, despite the sloppy aspects of the year's inaugural competition, played errorless baseball and showed the power of which they have been suspected. Luke Appling led a 20 hit onslaught with five hits, not one of which was the least spurious, and Frenchy Uhalt ' ed up to his reputation as a speedster by racing around with four runs, twice scoring from first on short doubles.

Big Zeke Pleases.

The most gratifying phase, from the Chicago viewpoint, was the work of Zeke Bonura at first base. Big Zeke made 12 putouts and two assists, including several tough chances. At bat he knocked a single and a double, drove in four runs, and was deprived of a third hit by a one-handed catch which First Baseman Shoap made on a great leap in the ninth inning.

Neither side had the best of pitching, and Phil Gallivan of the Sox had to be relieved before he had completed his three inning assignment. Jigger Statz's double, which cleared the filled bases in the sixth inning, was Phil's undoing.

Boys Rest Up Today.

The Sox will rest tomorrow, but will go back against the Angels Tuesday and Wednesday for their final exhibition trials before meeting the Cubs next Saturday and Sunday in the first of the six all-Chicago games scheduled for this spring.

The pair of runs the Sox made in the first inning were uncarned, but they were accomplished through some good, sound hitting. With one out, Uhalt was safe on Crawford's error. Bonura fouled to Oglesby, then Simmons doubled to left, putting Uhalt on third. When South juggled the ball, Uhalt continued home, Simmons holding second. Appling lined a single to right, scoring Simmons, and a bit later he stole second, where he died when Dykes was called out on strikes.

Angels Threaten Stinz.

The Sox had to work hard to keep the Angels from taking the lead in the last half of the first inning. Statz walked and scored when Uhalt misjudged Crawford's drive and let it go over his head for a triple. Crawford promptly scored the tying run on a passed ball. South singled to center and stopped at second on Demaree's single to left. The runners moved up on Oglesby's tap to Stinz, but Lillard bounced to Dykes who threw out South at the plate. Dittmar lined to Swanson.

The Sox breezed along after the fourth, except for the flareup in the sixth when a double, two singles, and the aforementioned double by Statz gave the Angels half their run total and brought about the precipitate retirement of Gallivan.

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—(AP)—A long shot from center ice, fired by Gordon Pettinger in the closing moments of the overtime period, caromed off the pads of Goalie Chuck Gardiner into the net tonight and gave the Detroit Red Wings a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

The goal, one of the longest ever scored at the Olympia, brought a dramatic end to a fast game in which Detroit took the lead on two first period goals only to see Chicago tie up the score in the third period.

Detroit's first goals came from the sticks of Aurie and Goodfellow. The Wings' defense held the Hawks in check during the second period and in the third Paul Thompson, with March getting assists on both goals, beat Goalie Cude twice. The Hawks outskated the Wings in the overtime until Pettinger's long shot glanced off Gardiner's chest. The victory moved the Wings closer to the championship of the United States division.

Conacher Nearly Scores.

Detroit went to the attack immediately and swept into the lead on a smart passing play on which Aurie beat Gardiner from four feet out in 3:48. Lewis passed to Williams, who fed the puck to Aurie on the play.

Keeping up a terrific pace, the attack swung swiftly from one end of the ice to the other, and body checking was brisk, with players being spilled repeatedly. Lionel Conacher, on the finest play of the period, skated through the entire Detroit team and came in on Cude only to have the goalie make a diving save.

Weiland got loose and skated around the Hawk defense, but was held by Conacher when Gardiner was out of position. Conacher was penalized, and Detroit sent five men down. Aurie almost beat Gardiner, then Ebbie Goodfellow scored in 16:00 when his shot from ten feet out went between Gardiner's legs. Aurie and Lewis were given assists for setting the stage for Goodfellow.

Using a four-man offensive while Young served out his penalty, the Hawks swept in on Cude at the start of the second period. Thompson missed the net and a second later Conacher swept around the right side, took a pass from Romnes and beat Cude. The goal was not allowed, however, the officials ruling Thompson was interfering with Cude. Conacher protested to no avail.

Hawks Get One.

Cude kicked out Conacher's backhand shot as the third period opened. Cooney Weiland's back-checking was bothering the Hawk offensive. Goldsworthy finally grabbed a loose puck and his shot from directly in front of the net made Cude dive to stop.

A moment later Chicago scored its first goal when March passed to Conacher, who rifled the puck to Thompson. The Hawk forward pulled Cude out and drove the disk into the net at 10:42.

With less than three minutes to go the Hawks tied the score when Thompson got his second goal of the period. Romnes and March were given assists. The puck entered an open net when Cude moved over as Romnes faked a shot and then passed to Thompson.

The Hawks began the extra period by outskating the Wings, but could not break through. Detroit suddenly went on a determined offensive and won the game in 8:34, when Pettinger grabbed the puck at center ice and fired from opposite the blue circle. The puck lifted lazily into the air, smacked against Gardiner's chest pad, and then caromed into the net.

MAROONS, 7; RANGERS, 3

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons scored four goals in less than three minutes of an overtime period tonight to defeat the New York Rangers, 7 to 3, in the last game of the regular National Hockey league season between the prospective playoff rivals.

RODAK AND DAZZO MEET TONIGHT AT WHITE CITY

Former Golden Glove Champs Box 10 Rounds.

Leo Rodak and Paul Dazzo, former Golden Gloves champions, will meet in the windup bout tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park. The weight is 130 pounds.

LEO RODAK.

Rodak, who has won his 14 professional fights, will be making his first start at 10 rounds. In his last two appearances he whipped Winifred [Moon] Mullins, Indiana state featherweight titleholder, and Jackie Sharkey. Both were eight round bouts. His best six round accomplishments were triumphs over Joey Bozak and Johnny Fitzpatrick.

Dazzo Can Punch.

Rodak met a clever boxer in Sharkey and he faced a fighter in Mullins, his two best opponents since he turned pro after winning the 1933 Golden Gloves featherweight crown.

Dazzo is an aggressive, hard hitting battler, who can absorb punches. He is expected to give Rodak his toughest opposition.

After he was awarded the Golden Gloves bantamweight title in 1930, Dazzo turned pro. He has had 38 bouts against all types of boxers. He was victorious in 31, fought three draws and lost five.

Five Other Bouts.

Dazzo faced a southpaw in Tony Muscarello, whom he beat in 10 rounds at Northwest stadium last August. Sammy Levine, a boxer, was stopped in five rounds at Marigold Gardens. He opposed a combination boxer and puncher in Davey Day at the Stadium last Nov. 17. The decision was a draw. Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, was on the verge of a knockout several times during a 10 round nontitle battle with Dazzo at the Arcadia Gardens Dec. 6. Five engagements will compose the supporting program. It follows:

Johnny Terry vs. Danny Neenan [6], 143.
Jimmy Christy vs. Freddy Gravelle [4], 126.
Sammy Adams vs. George Trapp [4], 148.
Mickey Misko vs. Tommy Habel [4], 155.
Jack Kranz vs. Red Johnson [4], heavyweights.

Johnny Liston, south side middleweight, will replace Fritz Heinz of Saginaw, Mich., in the eight round main bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, against Johnny Phagan. Izzy Lubansky and Frank Keevil, lightweights, meet in the six round semi-final. Other matches:

Bob Stone and Walter Madey [4], heavyweights.
Matt Dour and Buddy Byers [4], 166.
Jimmy Richards and Hugh Allen [4], 130.

Lou Scozza, Buffalo light heavyweight, and Harold Anderson box tonight at Flint, Mich. . . . Jack Kracken, former Champaign, Ill., heavyweight, is in town seeking bouts. . . . Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, stopped off in the loop yesterday for several hours en route from San Francisco to New York to confer with Madison Square Garden officials on the proposed Baer-Primo Carnera heavyweight title fight.

Jackey Sharkey, featherweight, may meet Billy Frick for the second time at Evansville, Ind., March 22. . . . Eddie Shea, south side 126 pounder, is scheduled to box at Miami, Fla., next Monday. F. M.

One Fish an Hour Is Average for Michigan Creels

BY BOB BECKER.

If you catch more than one fish per hour when you go fishing in the state of Michigan you are above the average. This is the startling news revealed in a study of the creel census taken by Dr. Carl Hubbs, Michigan scientist, who has been delving into all phases of angling in that state.

Dr. Hubbs recently completed an analysis of 50,000 reports from fishermen on their luck in landing black bass, pike, bluegills, trout, and other fish found in Michigan waters. He learned the grand average for anglers was one fish per hour.

This average does not hold good for 1933, but it does cover the years between 1928 and 1933. Dr. Hubbs is working on the 1933 report and will make known his findings at a later date.

The creel reports indicated the average fisherman doesn't fish for just an hour or two. The records prove that when a man put his tackle together and got busy on stream or lake, he stayed four or five hours. As might be expected, the catch per hour of bluegills and other pan fish runs considerably higher than for black bass or wall-eyed pike. It was determined on one large pike lake in Michigan that fishermen spent an average of two hours per fish. Trout fishermen struck an average of 1.1 fish per hour.

Anglers who go to Michigan every year will be interested in several features brought out in the report regarding fishing sections of the state. Cards turned in revealed that lakes in the southern part of Michigan are more productive than those in the northern section of the state when it comes to small pan fish. Three-fourths of the bluegills are taken from the southern half of Michigan, while almost half of the trout come from streams in the northern part of the lower peninsula. However, the upper peninsula trout streams yield a greater percentage of brook trout.

The census involved, as mentioned, 50,000 reports and 287,505 fish. Of the latter total, more than 84,000 were trout, 59,000 were bluegills, 55,000 were perch, 9,586 were large mouth black bass, and 4,296 were small mouth bass. The significant think about these figures is the small number of black bass which were caught, as compared to the trout and pan fish totals.

DE PAUL FIVE, UNBEATEN, ENDS SEASON TONIGHT

The game will bring to a close the collegiate careers of four De Paul players, Capt. El Weston, center; Pete Barskis and Jim Gorsky, forwards, and Harry Redfield, reserve.

C. Y. O. Hocky Leaders to Risk Records Tonight

Catholic Youth Organization hocky teams will engage in three important games at the Coliseum tonight. Central and St. Nicholas, leaders of the circuit, will see action tonight when they risk their undefeated records.

Central will meet St. Anthony in what should be the most interesting game on tonight's schedule. Despite the fact that St. Anthony has lost two contests, the sextet is considered one of the most powerful in the league. It is favored by many to qualify for the title playoff series. St. Nicholas faces St. Adrian, but expects little difficulty, as the latter team has yet to win its first start of the season. Evanston and Holy Rosary will meet in the curtain raiser at 8:30 o'clock. Holy Rosary is tied with St. Anthony for second place.

The C. Y. O. circuit will end play March 19, at which time the four leading teams will enter the playoff series to decide the first Catholic Youth Organization ice hocky championship.

Smolen's 643 Takes Lead in A.B.C. Singles

Peoria, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—The 34th annual tournament of the American Bowling congress took on more of a national championship aspect today as St. Louis, Chicago, and other out of town bowlers monopolized the 24 new alleys.

St. Louis and Cudahy, Wis., bowlers took temporary leading berths in the minor events, hitting the pins for totals which will classify for slices of the $53,000 prize money.

Cudahy Bowler Gets 643.

Joe Smolen, Cudahy, posted 643, garnered from games of 211, 230, and 202, to take the lead in the singles division. Steve Kenny and Joe Fitzgerald, St. Louis, moved into the top spot in the doubles class with a 1,216 count, while Fitzgerald piled up an aggregate of 1,839 for the all events leadership.

Murphy Leads Chicagoans.

Harry Murphy topped the Chicagoans on today's card. After opening with 168, Murphy followed with 233 and 216 to total 617 in the singles.

Resume Play Wednesday in State Tourney

The survivors in the Illinois high school basketball tournament, 128 teams out of nearly 900 which began play last week, will resume the battle for the title Wednesday in 16 sectional tournaments.

This year both district champions and runners up will play in the sectionals. The 16 sectional victors will go to Champaign next week to decide the championship in the University of Illinois gymnasium. Previously only eight teams started in the championship round.

Thornton of Harvey, the defending title holder, which defeated Blue Island, 38 to 19, for the Chicago Heights district championship Saturday, will tackle Tilden of Chicago, runner up to Lane for the Chicago public high school crown, in its first round sectional game at Joliet. Lane will meet Batavia at Waukegan.

The assignments to sectional tournaments and first round schedules in the Chicago area:

TOM LOUGHRAN'S FATHER, 62, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Philadelphia, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—John Loughran, father of Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia boxer, died suddenly of a heart attack today. He was 62 years old.

Texas Four Beats Riviera Club, 15-8; C. Smith Plays

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—With their ten goal star, Cecil Smith, back in the lineup, the Texas polo squad defeated the Riviera Country club, 15 to 8, today in the second match of a three game series.

FINDS NEW DEAL QUEER JUMBLE; AIMS CONFLICT

Simons Sees Reform, Recovery Mixed.

BY H. C. SIMONS.

[Assistant Professor of Economics, University of Chicago.]

The new deal legislation is a curious mixture of recovery measures and reforms. As a recovery program it is full of contradictions. The immediate problem was defined in terms of enormous decline in production and employment—which reflected maladjustment between operating costs and prices and substantial restraint of price competition.

H. C. SIMONS.

Given the extreme inflexibility in crucial areas of the price structure, and given dependence on bank credit as the predominant form of money, governmental action to sustain the price level, or to increase it slightly, was perhaps imperative. Recourse to a generous unbalancing of the federal budget was therefore appropriate as a means for repairing the cost-price maladjustments.

That part of the program which was sponsored and directed by Gen. Johnson served, on the other hand, to increase the critical rigidities in the price structure, to aggravate cost-price maladjustments, and thus to counteract the remedial influences of fiscal "reflation."

Gold Policy Shifts Burden.

The agricultural program, moreover, was designed to permit the one industry which had really "played the game" and had not sacrificed quantity to price to stop doing so. The gold policy, while intended as a means for raising the price level, must be regarded as a resort to cutthroat competition in the international field as an attempt to shift unemployment to other nations as deliberate governmental gold hoarding and as a surpassing venture in protectionism.

These criticisms are unfair if interpreted as criticism on the administration. There are some substantial achievements in recent legislation. Even the worst of the administration proposals, Gen. Johnson's contribution perhaps apart, may be regarded as devices for forestalling more ill-conceived and more dangerous legislation.

Failure of Republican policies and the ensuing political upheaval created a political situation in which pressure for drastic measures could not be resisted. That it has resulted only in such things as devaluation and the agricultural program might be regarded as a triumph of conservative leadership—especially since both these schemes may ultimately find place in the strategy of tariff revision.

Crucial Times Coming.

Of crucial importance now is the question of whether it will be possible, after the orgy of legislative witch-hunting, ill-conceived measures, and misleading slogans, to retain or re-establish the essential foundations of political and economic freedom. Will it be possible to secure a stable system of rules under which a free enterprise system can function effectively? Or must we look forward to drastic change in the relative importance of political and competitive controls in the determination of relative prices and relative wages? Control by organized groups, by the way, is political control. The answer to these questions will be found in governmental policy, especially with reference to monopoly, on the one hand, and banking and currency on the other.

Democrats, like the Republicans before them, have pursued the very antithesis of an anti-trust policy. The NRA gives a special sanction and blessing to the cartel and trade union form of monopoly, and the organization which it has promoted and advanced is an ominous threat to the survival of genuine competition.

Political Control Alternative.

The only alternative to competitive control is political control. Popular government, political freedom, and economic efficiency cannot survive apart from predominantly competitive industry. Widespread organization of essentially competitive groups is the decisive threat to those things which intelligent conservatives and liberals wish to preserve.

The substitution of "planning" for competition implies, not modification of the old system, but transition to economic and political arrangements which few people can envisage even vaguely.

The old rules of the money and banking game have long been unprecise and inadequate, but nothing has been accomplished toward remedying that condition. If the rules were bad before there are now no rules at all. Every business and investment venture remains essentially a speculation in money. In such circumstances there can be no orderly recovery through investment in private industry. This uncertainty might be removed if the administration would commit itself in the field of fiscal policy to the program of sustaining the present price level and of preventing further rise of more than 10 per cent.

Should Reveal Intentions.

If the present administration seems not duly mindful of the requirements for preserving economic freedom and political liberty it is nevertheless unlikely now that any opposition party, if raised to power, would behave more intelligently to that end. Most defenders of the old system are its worst enemies. At all events if the administration does contemplate retaining the essential features of the old game it could greatly promote recovery by saying so and by revealing details of the rules with respect to currency and monopoly.

Gen. American Profit in 1933 $2.50 a Share

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Net profit of the General American Transportation corporation for 1933 was $1,974,558, compared with $1,638,962 for 1932, according to the annual report of Lester N. Selig, president. The 1933 earnings were equal to $2.50 a share on the 788,203 shares outstanding, compared with $2.19 a share in 1932.

Accompanying the financial statement was a letter in which the stockholders were asked to vote at the annual meeting April 10 on a proposal to make stock awards to executives and employes whose efforts directly contributed to increased profits. The plan has already been approved by the board of directors.

Explaining the plan the letter, which was sent at the order of the board of directors, said:

"Throughout the depression General American has paid dividends to stockholders, and each year has shown a profit in excess of the dividends distributed. The 1933 earnings exceeded those of 1932.

Reward for Efforts.

"In a great measure this has been due to the loyalty and unceasing efforts of executives, department heads, plant superintendents, and other employés who have borne the principal responsibility of the company in behalf of its 7,000 stockholders. Upon their continued efforts the continued success of the company depends. To reward them for this record and as an incentive toward further effort the board has recommended that such persons participate in increased earnings."

The plan applies only for the three years, 1934-1936, inclusive. It would operate only in any year where earnings exceed $3 per share. It would authorize distribution to the employés selected not more than 1 per cent of the total number of outstanding shares of stock, but if the market value of this 1 per cent of the stock to be distributed exceeds 10 per cent of the year's profit the stock allotment will be cut down proportionately.

Award of the stock would be made by a committee to consist of Mr. Selig; LeRoy Kramer, vice president, and Sam Laud, executive assistant to the president and controler. Membership on this committee would not make a person ineligible to participate in the distribution.

"We feel that anyone whose enterprise and industry directly contributes to increased earnings is entitled to participate in these profits," Mr. Selig said. "This plan is not meant for a handful of officers, but is designed to include any one within the organization who during the year has made on outstanding contribution toward our success."

Adds to Mileage.

Mr. Selig, telling the results of the 1933 operations, said the company concluded long term operating contracts for its refrigerator cars with the Nickel Plate and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroads. The addition of this mileage gives the company 36,000 miles of railroad line over which cars of this type are now operated by it.

He said that while manufacturing operations were almost completely suspended in 1933, substantial orders have been received since the first of the year. New type of equipment to be manufactured in 1934 includes a specially designed tank car for handling whisky in the bulk.

Mr. Selig said that during 1933 the funded debt was reduced $4,980,607 and bank loans $2,190,000. Of the total funded debt of $31,577,487, $4,632,479 matures in 1934. Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, were $11,420,504, compared with $12,274,686 at the end of 1932. Current liabilities stood at $3,152,307, compared with $5,141,669 at the end of 1932. Total income for 1933 was $20,065,973, compared with $18,406,650 for 1932.

4 YEAR ELECTRIC RATE SAVINGS ARE PUT AT $100,000,000

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Partial credit for saving the American public more than $100,000,000 in electric rate reductions in the last four years was claimed today by the federal trade commission as a result of its five year inquiry into public utilities.

Based on a survey of statistics in an electrical trade journal, the commission disclosed that electric companies cut rates at least $118,747,654 from 1930 through 1933, $66,454,240 of this reduction being accounted for by companies under examination by the commission.

"The inquiry was begun in 1928," the commission said, "under authority of a senate resolution passed in February of that year. During 1930, after the inquiry had gotten well under way, there were rate reductions resulting in estimated consumer savings amounting to a little more than $7,000,000, while during 1933 rate reductions noted involved consumer savings in excess of $31,000,000."

In 1930 there were 13 reductions, amounting to $7,090,710 in savings for that year, or $28,362,840 for the four years from 1930 to 1933. In 1931, reductions numbered 32, resulting in savings of $20,876,400 for three years. In 1932, 26 reductions brought savings of $38,205,414 for two years. Reductions in 1933 jumped to 65, with savings of $31,303,000.

FLETCHER-RAYBURN EXCHANGE CONTROL BILL IS REDRAFTED

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—The Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill has been redrafted by Chairman Rayburn [Dem., Tex.] for presentation Tuesday to the house interstate commerce committee. The revised measure is understood to have, in principle, the tacit approval of President Roosevelt, who disclaimed the original proposal as an administration measure.

It is designed to curb abuses on the stock exchanges without interfering with private business or banking credit, although the administration's attitude on its possible effect on credit is yet to be learned.

Rayburn's redraft was completed today and sent to the government printing office. The revision followed a series of conferences of the Texan, the original drafters of the measure, and President Roosevelt at the White House.

While the redraft is not to be made public until tomorrow or Tuesday, it was learned that the recommendation of Dickinson and Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, for a separate agency to supervise the exchanges, had been discarded.

Instead, it has been decided to increase the federal trade commission from five to seven members and to establish a division of that agency solely to administer the law. Modification of the rigid margin requirement to make it flexible and postponement of the date of its application to nonlisted securities, such as municipal, life insurance company and bank stocks, are contemplated in the redraft.

Notice Given of Repayment of Irish Republic Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Holders of Republic of Ireland bond certificates of the first national loans and second external loan have been notified that applications are being accepted for repayment of these loans according to the terms of the Dail Eireann loans and funds act of 1933. American holders have been asked to forward their application to the repayment office for Dail Eireann external loans at 117 Liberty street before Aug. 31.

GENERAL MOTORS EARNS DIVIDEND IN 1ST QUARTER

While estimates of first quarter earnings of the General Motors corporation are not available, the quarterly dividend rate of 25 cents a share will have been fully earned, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, says in a message to stockholders accompanying the current dividend check.

"Earnings would have been even greater had it not been for delays in production carried over from last year, adversely affecting January, and to some extent February sales," he said. "I believe our 1934 motor car products place General Motors in a most favorable position and we expect to capitalize on this advantage during the present year."

Mr. Sloan said that while selling prices of cars have been advanced slightly the increase has not been sufficient to offset increased production and material costs.

LINCOLN NAT'L VOLUME 32.4 PCT. OVER LAST YEAR

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—Business of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company for the first two months of this year was 32.4 per cent above the corresponding period of 1933, Arthur F. Hall, president, announced today.

Paid for business in January was 43.4 per cent more than in the same month last year, and in February 21.4 more.

March gives promise of making an even better showing, Mr. Hall said. March 5 was the biggest single day in the company's history. There were more than 300 applicants for nearly a million dollars' worth of insurance.

LOSS REDUCED BY FAIRBANKS, MORSE & CO.

As a result of the increase in business in the latter half of 1933, Fairbanks, Morse & Co. were enabled to reduce their loss to less than half of that sustained in 1932, according to the annual report of R. H. Morse, president. The 1933 net loss was $1,147,339 compared with a loss of $2,547,231 for 1932. Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, stood at $11,658,482 compared with $12,039,235 at the end of 1932. Current liabilities at the end of last year were $1,016,597 compared with $1,064,048 at the end of the preceding year.

CHICAGO RETAIL TRADE LAST WEEK IS WELL ABOVE THAT OF 1933

Early Easter buying, home remodeling, and snappy weather helped to maintain Chicago retail business last week well above the volume of a year ago, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Wholesalers appear satisfied with current demand, reports the association, though rural consumers in southern Indiana seem to have caught up with present needs.

Household utilities lines increased employment slightly, and several new building and remodeling projects at A Century of Progress partly compensated for the curtailment ordered by the Civil Works Administration.

The Chicago steel area is maintaining a steady rate of operations. One indication of this, points out the association, is the almost total lack of residential vacancies in Hammond and other nearby communities.

Raw Silk Imports, Stocks and Deliveries Increase

Imports of raw silk by the United States in February totaled 29,808 bales, an increase of 6,421 bales from February, 1933, the Federated Textile Industries, Inc., reports. Raw silk in storage totaled 74,607 bales on March 1 or 14,143 bales above a year ago. Deliveries to mills were 39,021 bales, or 6,356 above the corresponding month of 1933.

M. C. Taylor Reports on 1933 Results.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, sounds a note of cautious optimism in his annual report to stockholders. But he warns that further improvement from the low operating point reached in 1932 is necessary before profitable results can be realized.

MYRON C. TAYLOR.

"The outlook is encouraging, present indications being that sales in 1934 will exceed those in 1933," Mr. Taylor says. "It is gratifying to note that operations in January and February of 1934 showed improvement over operations in the corresponding months of 1933. While present indications point toward a larger volume of business in 1934 than 1933, the problems which confront the industry call for careful planning and united, cooperative effort by the entire organization."

A vigorous defense of the labor policies of the steel corporation also marked Mr. Taylor's report. He said that since the adoption of the steel code the hourly wage and salary rates have been advanced approximately 25 per cent, which has added materially to the cost of production, and has been offset only in part by higher prices for steel products shipped in the last five months of 1933.

Collective Bargaining.

"The corporation's subsidiaries have whole heartedly cooperated in carrying out the spirit and intent of the code and the law in respect to 'collective bargaining' by and with employés," he said. "At practically all plants employés have organized under 'employés' representation plans,' choosing their own representatives to deal with the employing company in all matters relating to wages and other conditions of employment.

"These plans have proven eminently satisfactory in promoting harmony in industrial relations and conducive to Operations in Steel Industry Cross 50 Pct.

With automobile manufacturers pushing production and consuming most of the sheet and strip steel rolled and the placing of further requirements by the railroads in prospect, the steel industry, which is enjoying its second large improvement since March, 1933, has expanded its rate three points to 51 per cent of capacity, reports the magazine Steel.

Mainly because of releases for rails, freight cars, and repair material for the carriers, local operations rose 6 points last week to half their capacity. The continuous improvement has reacted upon the market for scrap of which consumption is the heaviest so far this year at Chicago. The demand for pig iron has been stimulated at the same time. A malleable foundry here has contracted for 5,000 tons.

Operations Rise at 6 Points.

In six other producing centers the rate of operations increased last week. At Pittsburgh, sustained by railroad releases, output rose 3 points to 34 per cent; at Cleveland, where one furnace interest has booked 22,000 tons of pig iron for the next quarter, it rose 3 to 82; in Youngstown, 4 to 56; in eastern Pennsylvania, 1 to 31; in New England, 1 to 86; and at Detroit, 14 to 98. Operations held steady at 52 in both Buffalo and Birmingham and fell 7 to 70 in Wheeling.

Steel makers anticipate "steady improvement in demand throughout the first half of the year," barring the spread of automotive strikes, according to the review. So far the only overt effort which uncertainties caused by labor difficulties have had is the greater reluctance of consumers to contract for next quarter, says the magazine. Automobile manufacturers are limiting new purchasing almost entirely to material for delivery in April.

Face 10 Per Cent Cut in Hours.

"As a result of the NRA code meeting last week the steel industry itself appears to face with certainty a decrease in working hours of probably 10 per cent, and a compensatory increase of about 11 per cent in wages," reports the journal. "Since present iron and steel prices have not proved remunerative, the proposed changes would seem to indicate higher levels.

"On the other hand it is believed that in return for further contributions to the relief of unemployment the government will take measures to stimulate consumption of capital goods in which steel is a component part, and hence there may be a corresponding increase in volume."

The daily average steel ingot production rose 25.3 per cent last month to 92,696 gross tons, the highest since August, according to the review. Total output was 2,224,698 tons, against 1,996,897 in January. The aggregate for the two months was nearly twice as much as that in the like period of 1933.

WESTINGHOUSE LOSS FOR 1933 IS $8,636,841

Sales Gain; Bookings Show Decline.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The sensational recovery staged by some consumers' goods industries in the latter half of 1933 was not matched by the concerns producing capital goods. That there was a revival in the capital goods industries, however, is clearly shown by the report of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company mailed yesterday to shareholders.

The report discloses that the company received orders totaling $72,473,117 last year, compared with $69,082,468 in the preceding year. The increase amounted to only 5 per cent. There was a decided contrast, however, between the two years, A. W. Robertson, chairman, and F. A. Merrick, president, pointed out in their letter to shareholders.

Trend Upward Last Year.

"In 1932" they explained, "the trend was downward during the year, whereas in 1933 the trend turned upward starting from the low point in January. The volume of business received in the last six months of 1933 was 48 per cent greater than the volume received in the same period of the previous year."

The gain in the last half of the year is the more remarkable because the company's business depends principally on the manufacture and sale of heavy machinery. A considerable portion of its business, however, is in household and other lighter equipment. The size of the increase is as great as the gains shown by some of the merchandising firms handling consumers goods which were expected to be the first beneficiaries of recovery.

Sales actually billed in 1933 were $68,188,353, compared with $77,073,586 in 1932, a decrease of 11½ per cent. The company operated at a deficit of $8,636,841 which is a slight improvement compared with the 1932 operating loss of $8,903,540.

Current Position Strong.

Ending the year in a strong financial position the company showed an excess of current assets over current liabilities of more than 16 to 1. Current assets totaled $75,379,755 against current liabilities of $4,554,537, leaving net working capital of $70,825,218.

Expressing the hope that the NRA would accomplish the purposes for which it was instituted, Mr. Taylor said that sufficient time has not yet elapsed to determine definitly how successful it will prove and whether the steel code should be continued in its present form after its expiration on May 31.

Pointing out that the operating results of the company for 1933 showed a substantial improvement over 1932, Mr. Taylor said the increase resulted largely from a substantial increase in the volume of business. Plants were operated at an average rate of approximately 29 per cent of capacity and produced 11,624,294 tons of rolled and finished steel products in 1933, against 18 per cent of capacity in 1932, with a total production of 7,676,744 tons.

Net Loss Is $36,501,123.

The net loss for the year shown in the pamphlet report before dividends was $36,501,123, comparing with $36,519,000 shown in the preliminary statement. The net loss before dividends in 1932 was $71,175,704. After the payment of preferred dividends of $7,205,620 the net deficit for the year was $43,706,743, against $91,891,867 in 1932. At the end of the 1933 cumulative preferred dividends unpaid amounted to $22,517,569.

The working position of the company was substantially maintained in the year, cash amounted to $55,324,252 on Dec. 31, against $60,224,116 a year earlier, while sundry marketable securities, including $48,338,736 of United States government securities, stood at $49,404,586, against $46,139,333.

Asset Position.

	Dec. 31, '33.	Dec. 31, '32.
Gross working assets	$414,989,392	$410,382,837
Current liabilities	52,283,704	46,987,376
Net work. assets	$362,685,688	$363,395,461

For the last year, the report says, the total volume of business was $524,968,768, against $375,201,705 for the preceding year. These gross receipts, he said, included intercompany sales and the gross revenues of subsidiary transportation companies received both from outside shippers and from subsidiary companies, whereas the final profit and loss accounts do not include intercompany results.

Inventories at the end of the year amounted to $252,331,033, against $258,354,253 a year earlier, a reduction of $6,023,220. In all cases inventories in excess of market prices were written down to market as of Dec. 31. The report says the total amount of these writedowns in 1933 was $1,816,763, of which $434,564 was provided by previously established reserves and $425,691 was charged against a special reserve set up from the profit and loss account.

Reduction in Reserve.

"At the close of 1933," Mr. Taylor's letter says, "the contingent and miscellaneous reserves as shown by the balance sheet totaled $22,532,387.28, a reduction during the year 1933 of $16,388,270.27. This decrease arose principally from the reversal of reserves set up in previous years for account of possible liabilities under the railroad recapture provision of the transportation act of 1920, which provisions were repealed by the emergency railroad transportation act of 1933. Apart from the above, the operations of contingent and miscellaneous reserves during the year showed a net increase of $2,235,767.77."

ORGANIZE FIRM TO REHABILITATE VENICE, FLORIDA

Cleveland, March 11.—(AP)—A company has been organized here in an effort to rehabilitate Venice, Fla., the city which cost the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers heavily a few years ago when the bubble burst in the Alligator state.

L. G. Collister, former county treasurer, is president of the new concern, the Gulf Mortgage and Investment company, which, in the belief that the financial situation in Florida is improving rapidly, intends to buy existing equities and claims on Venice properties at reduced rates.

The company plans to pay outstanding taxes, make repairs, and take advantage of increasing real estate prices. Collister explained that under Florida law, any person may buy delinquent tax liens on property and receive clear title. The Florida venture originated with the Brotherhood Realty company, a subsidiary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Collister has been chairman of the bond holders' protective committee for five years. The Brotherhood is reported to have lost several million dollars in the venture.

FARMERS' OIL CO-OPS IN 1933 DO $35,000,000 TRADE

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—the Farm Credit administration reported today that farmer coöperatives handling petroleum products did a $35,000,000 business during 1933 Cooperative gasoline and oil associations now total about 600, of which 500 were organized in the last seven years. The administration referred to them as "one of the outstanding developments in the farmer coöperative movement in recent years."

Most of the coöperatives are located in states north of Arkansas and Oklahome on both sides of the Mississippi river. Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, and Indiana have the largest number of associations, with approximately 350,000 farmers participating.

According to data prepared by the administration 52 associations in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa did a business of $2,600,000 in 1933, an average of $50,000 each.

BOND UNDERTONE FIRM; MANY NEW HIGHS ATTAINED

Gilt Edge Issues Give the Best Performance.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The bond market displayed a firm undertone last week and a number of prime investment issues edged into new high territory for the year.

Various factors entered into the support of listed loans. In the first place the financial district was pleasantly surprised at the treasury's modest offering for March 15 which involved only the refunding of some $460,000,000 of certificates. Estimates of the government's midmonth borrowing had ranged from $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000.

Easier Bank Rate Helps.

In addition, bankers' acceptance rates eased and the indications were that money rates would continue low for some time to come. Excess credit reserves of the country also reached a new high record at around $1,350,000,000. Business and industry continued to march ahead with steel production, electric power output, freight car loadings, and retail sales all advancing satisfactorily.

U. S. government securities reflected the favorable implications of the treasury's new financing terms, which included the offering of an equal amount of four year, 3 per cent notes for maturing certificates. The familiar oversubscription was not possible in this instance because only an exchange of new notes for certificates was permitted.

Plans for some exchange in connection with the called fourth Liberty loan 4¼s, amounting to around $1,000,000,000, were also being worked out by the treasury and were expected to be announced soon.

NRA Plan Causes Nervousness.

The market displayed a little nervousness over the proposal of National Recovery Administration authorities for a reduction of working hours and an increase in wages. While the outcome of this plan still was not clear, there were intimations from Washington that the program would be made flexible and that industries that could not afford it would not be forced to participate.

Steadiness of international dollar rates was also reassuring to the market. Both the British pound and French franc moved within an extreme restricted area and gave rise to rumors that the three leading central banks may be working on some sort of a temporary stabilization agreement.

Foreign obligations were steady to firm, but activity in this section was not exceptional. Australians came into popularity with the renewal of reports that the commonwealth was considering a dollar bond conversion plan.

As of March 1, all listed bonds, according to the New York Stock exchange, had a market value of $36,843,301,965. This compared with $36,263,747,352 on Feb. 1.

METAL MARKETS DISPLAY BETTER TONE LAST WEEK

New York, March 11.—Tin prices advanced slightly more than one cent a pound last week on improved consumer buying promoted by a further sharp gain in tin plate operations and strength in London. Tin plate mills were estimated to be operating at as high as 80 per cent of capacity compared with a recent 60 per cent rate as a result of larger specifications from the canning trade, increasing automobile production and good export demand. The firmer tone of the metal attracted consumers who had been holding off for some time.

Copper experienced a broader domestic demand, with purchases late in the week reaching sizable proportions. However, the price remained unchanged at 8 cents for electrolytic in the Connecticut valley. Antimony quotations were increased as a result of higher Chinese replacement costs and relatively small supplies here.

In the face of firmness in other metals and despite a favorable view of February statistics, zinc developed an easier undertone. Lead was quiet but steady. Recent purchases were said to have supplied immediate consuming needs, and smelters reported a fair backlog of orders on their books.

EXPECT ADVANCE IN CEMENT.

It is reported in trade circles that an increase in the price of cement is looked for at an early date due to the mounting demand from the building trade and construction projects.

DOLLAR WHEAT, NET TO FARMER, THOUGHT REMOTE

Prices Here Well Above World Levels.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dollar wheat at country loading points during the remainder of the current crop year is regarded as remote unless there is a material change in the world situation.

The only contingency that would permit any material advance in the domestic price level, as the traders see it, is a general upward movement in prices in all of the leading exporting countries, especially in Argentina, where wheat is quoted around 53 cents a bushel, and sustained at that level only by government fixed prices.

At the close Saturday Chicago May wheat was 18 cents above the same delivery in Winnipeg figured in American currency; 21½ cents above Liverpool; 35⅝ cents above Rotterdam, and 35 cents over Buenos Aires. It is felt that the low prices prevailing in that country are a constant threat of imports into this country.

Price Spread Wide.

On account of the unusual spread which prevails between the various countries at the present time, action of foreign markets promises to be of great importance to the domestic trade. Wheat from the American North Pacific coast is being offered at relatively low prices at gulf and Atlantic ports and the outlook for the new winter wheat crop in the former section at the present time is the most favorable in the entire country.

A liberal yield is consequently expected this season as abandonment of acreage will probably be small. Belief prevails there will be a shortage in production this year compared with requirements east of the Rockies, the same as existed in 1933.

A government report giving farmers intentions to plant spring crops will be released March 15 and is awaited with a great deal of interest, as it is expected to indicate the probable acreage of spring wheat and also corn, oats and other grains.

Close Is Irregular.

Wheat dropped to the lowest levels since Jan. 12 early last week but rallied Saturday and closed ⅜ cent lower on May and ¼ to ⅝ higher on the distant positions. Range of prices follows:

	May.	July.	Sept.
Monday	87¼-⅝	88	86⅝-87⅛
Tuesday	87⅛-⅜	88-	86¼-87⅛
Wednesday	86⅝-87¼	87⅝-⅞	86¼-86⅝

Season	71⅜-1.28⅛	70⅞-94½	82¼-93⅛
1932-33	43⅜-.82	46	58⅝-53⅞

In one respect the situation in corn is the reverse of that which prevails in wheat, as the yellow cereal is selling close to the world price level. There have been numerous intimations suggesting the possibility of export business developing shortly. It is claimed that were Argentine to experience continued wet weather during the next month which would deteriorate the quality of their crop the prospect for export sales of domestic grain would be materially improved.

See Success for U. S. Plan.

Many traders regard it as certain the government program to reduce the corn acreage 15 per cent from the 1930-'32 average will succeed, and those who sign up to reduce the area to be planted this season will not be able to use abandoned winter wheat fields to plant corn or other commercial grain this spring. In years where there was heavy abandonment of winter wheat a large part of the land frequently went into corn, especially in Illinois and other states where the latter crop is of more importance from a commercial standpoint than wheat.

Corn closed ⅝ to ½ cent lower for the week with May at 51½ cents, July at 53⅜ cents, and September at 55⅝ cents. Range of prices follows:

	May.	July.	Sept.
Monday	51-51½	53¼-53⅝	55⅛-55⅝
Tuesday	51½-51⅝	53¼-53⅝	55 -55⅝

Oats Disappoint Bulls.

Action of the oats has been a great disappointment. The small supply available for the season—950,000,000 bushels, or roughly 200,000,000 bushels less than the smallest domestic disappearance of this grain in a number of years—encouraged much buying early in the season, but the May delivery last week sold down to 32⅝ cents, the lowest level since October 20.

The visible supply at the present time of around 41,000,000 bushels is regarded as ample for the demand under normal conditions and is about the same as it was when the movement of the new crop was getting well under way last fall.

Seeding of new oats has been under way in the southwest and is expected to make considerable progress this week if favorable weather prevails. A larger acreage than last year is generally anticipated. Net losses for the week were ¼ to 1¼ cents, the latter on May, which closed Saturday at 34¼ cents. July was 34⅜ cents, and September 34⅞ cents. Range of prices follows:

	May.	July.	Sept.
Monday	34⅛-35⅜	34⅜-35⅛	34⅝-34⅞
Tuesday	34¼-35	34⅜-34⅞	34 -34⅝
Wednesday	33¾-34¼	33⅝-34⅜	33⅝-34⅛

Less interest has been given trading in rye futures by specialists and the market action is influenced by wheat. The close revealed net losses of ¼ to ⅝ cents for the week with May at 59⅞ cents and July at 61⅛ cents. Barley trading was slightly better with a finish on futures of 1¼ to 1¾ net under the previous week.

February Chain Store Sales Are Larger Than Year Ago

WEEK'S BUSINESS REPORTS SHOW DECIDED ADVANCE

Easter Buying Aids Wholesale Group.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Manufacture and distribution of merchandise in the last week began to reach proportions reminiscent of the minor boom in several lines last July.

Preparations for the Easter shopping season went forward feverishly, with many wholesalers hard pressed to make deliveries, and merchants in several localities planning for the best volume in four years.

The outstanding business news of the week was President Roosevelt's request for shortening working hours and higher wages under the NRA codes, and this appeared in some instances to have stimulated buying in expectation of price increases.

Many executives expressed alarm over the inability of industry to absorb further wage costs at this juncture, but Gen. Johnson later made it clear that there was no intention to enforce changes upon industries that could not stand it.

Seasonal Gains Shown.

Several industrial indicators continued to show better than seasonal gains, although upswing seemed a little less sharp than in February. Electric power production was reported close to the levels of 1931 and a little better than the previous week, Moody's index indicating a slightly better than seasonal rise. Steel production also continued to expand at a rate better than usual for this period.

Automobile output quickened a little more despite strikes at the plants of one producer and further complaints of difficulty in getting quick deliveries of materials. Cram estimated the week's production at 73,645 units, up 2,135 from the previous week, and about two and a half times the extremely slack production of the like week of 1933.

Discussions of further development of the recovery program again dwelt upon stimulation of the capital goods industries, still responsible for most of the unemployment. In this respect speeding of the PWA work is definitly making itself felt, and steps to stimulate private capital expenditure are receiving more attention.

Commodity Prices on Even Keel.

Commodity prices continued on the fairly even keel of the last month, although Standard Statistics index, including both speculative and nonspeculative staples, moved up .2 of 1 percentage point of 69.4 per cent of the 1926 level, which is nearly 2 points above the peak reached last summer and a sweeping gain from the 48.6 per cent level of a year ago. Some monetary authorities express the opinion that the effects of devaluation of the dollar may begin to work on the price level in earnest after a few more months.

Industrial improvement was reported in a wide assortment of industries, according to Dun & Bradstreet, including metal lines, glass, rubber, textiles, and shoes, in addition to steel and automobiles. This authority said wholesalers of consumers' goods were placing preliminary March estimates of volume at 50 to 75 per cent above the low levels of this month of last year, which included the banking holiday and general business paralysis.

COPPER SULPHATE FIRM.

The copper sulphate market continues firm, with prices averaging 73 cents per cwt higher than last year. Production costs have been steadily increasing and the trade is inclined to believe that still higher prices are in prospect.

Kelvinator.

Investors' Guide: I would very much appreciate it if you will kindly give me a report on Kelvinator stock. Will you also kindly advise the par value of this stock?—E. E. L.

Answer: Kelvinator corporation was the first organization to produce mechanical refrigerators for household use on a commercial scale. It, General Electric company, and General Motors corporation (Frigidaire) are the three leading enterprises in the field.

The business is highly seasonal. In an attempt at diversification the company has entered the oil burner field. Its research departments are experimenting with air conditioning apparatus with a view toward entering that division eventually.

Wider distribution of purchasing power and the buying attitude of the general public have had a beneficial effect on earnings. Shipments of 12,132 units in January, 1934, were 223 per cent more than shipments in January, 1933. Loss in the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1933, was $342,000, against loss of $330,000 in the corresponding 1932 period.

During the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1933, unit sales were 56 per cent higher than in the preceding year, but lower prices resulted in only a three per cent increase in dollar sales. Substantial operating economies enabled the company to boost net income 700 per cent, despite deduction of $115,000 reserves for possible losses in closed banks.

The four year record of earnings follows:

Yr. Ended.			Inc. per
Sept. 30.	Net Sales.	Net Income.	Share.
1933	$16,969,000	$ 724,000	$0.64
1932	16,539,000	103,000	.09
1931	20,011,000	1,762,000	1.54
1930	21,451,000	1,601,000	1.35

On Sept. 30, 1933, current assets, including $4,350,000 cash, totaled $7,653,000, and current liabilities were $1,285,000. By deferring dividends from 1928 through 1933, the company was enabled to retire its funded debt and to build up its working capital so as to be independent of bank loans for seasonal financial requirements. Customers' notes given under time purchase contracts, however, are still discounted.

Capitalization consists of 1,125,592 no par shares, on which dividends of 12½ cents a quarter are being paid. The stock is medium grade.

International Telephone and Telegraph.

Investors' Guide: When is interest payable on International Telephone and Telegraph corporation convertible 4½s, due 1939?—H. J. C.

Answer: Jan. 1 and July 1.

HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE POLICY

HAS SAVED Chicago Borrowers HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

For over 50 years we have given our customers a square deal. We were the first to reduce our charges below the legal maximum and we intend to continue lending money to worthy people at the lowest possible rate and to give them fair, courteous, businesslike treatment.

The charge for a Household Loan of $300 is 2½% per month on the unpaid balance throughout the life of the loan. Rate on loans less than $300 is 2½% a month on that part of any loan over $150 plus 3½% a month on the first $100. All charges figured on unpaid balances only.

Amount of Loan.	Monthly Rate.	Repaid in 3 mos.	Repaid in 12 mos.	Repaid in 20 mos.
$100	3½ %	$2.35	$1.90	$1.84
150	3½-2½ %	5.51	2.89	2.81
200	3½-2½ %	4.23	3.50	3.40
300	2½ %	5.00	4.06	3.94

Quick, private service. Only husband and wife sign. Up to 20 months to pay. Come in, phone or write.
